Agents of Attorney General Say They Were Held-Up and Robbed

Asserted Three Men Lined up in Road in Methuen and, With Gun in Hand, Demanded Deposition Made by Former Mistress of Mishawum Manor—Police Say They Are Unable to Substantiate Story—Allen Asserts Incident is Not Important

Haverhill, July 22.—A hold-up and robbery in which was stolen a deposition by "Brownie" Kennedy, former mistress of Mishawum Manor, a Woburn roadhouse, for use by Attorney General Allen in the supreme court proceedings looking to the removal of District Attorney Tufts was reported to the local police early today. The report was made by men who said they were the agents of the attorney general, and their story was confirmed by the attorney general himself. The agents said they thought they had wounded one of the three men concerned in the robbery. Thomas J. Holmes of East Boston, a special investigator of the attorney general in the Tufts case, made the report to the police. He said the deposition was obtained yesterday from "Brownie" Kennedy, that with George Kelley of Wakefield, he was bringing it by automobile to Boston, and was on the Methuen-Ayer village road in the former town when the holdup occurred. Some distance back on the road they had noticed a machine following them. Beyond Scotland Hill the car came up and went ahead. It was swung across the road and stopped. Holmes said, three men jumping out and lining up in front of the barrier, each with a gun in hand. One of the men demanded the papers that he was carrying, pressing his weapon against Holmes' heart. The agent told the police. He delayed a moment, then handed over the deposition. QUOTES TUFTS ON AUTO CASE

Witness Claims He Said Cases Against Predecessor's Clients Would be Filed

Charged That District Attorney Paid Money to Persons Demanding Trial

Witness Not Certain That Tufts Was Listening When Cases Were Discussed

BOSTON, July 22.—District Attorney Nathan A. Tufts of Middlesex county said certain automobile theft conspiracy cases against two men understood to be clients of his predecessor would be put on file, according to testimony today by Sergeant Timothy Sheehan of the Boston police before the full bench of the supreme court in proceedings to oust Tufts from office. Sheehan's testimony was introduced to support Attorney General J. Weston Allen's charges that Tufts failed to apprehend and arraign certain defendants secretly indicted in his jurisdiction.

Sheehan said that former District Attorney Corcoran, named by the attorney general as a conspirator with Tufts in certain cases and who he understood was counsel for George T. Perry and John M. Barry, the men indicted in the cases, was present at a conference between Tufts, Asst. Dist. Atty. Fosdick and himself when the district attorney said the cases would be filed.

What He Thought Corcoran asked Sheehan what he thought of the cases, and the policeman replied that he always regarded an indicted man as guilty. Sheehan testified, adding that a man named Rice had made a confession involving Perry and Daniel K. Collamore in the matters. Sheehan brought the confession to the attention of Assistant District Attorney Fosdick, he said.

One of the stolen automobiles involved in the cases formerly belonged to the Prince of Siam, Sheehan said. The charges against Tufts in connection with the alleged conspiracy are, first, that in order to avoid pressure brought to bear on him to bring certain indicted persons to trial, he paid money to the persons demanding trials; and second, that he delayed the prosecution of an indictment and protected the defendants from prosecution.

Sheehan said the warrants for the arrest of Perry and Barry were given him on Sept. 10, 1918, that he went to Perry's office but did not find them, and that when he returned to his office, he ordered to give them back. The warrants were in his possession only two hours.

"Did either Mr. Tufts or Mr. Fosdick ever ask you for any further information?" "No," Sheehan said.

Were Available Under cross-examination, Sheehan said Perry and Barry were available any time, and that an indictment against them had been returned also in Essex county. Tufts' counsel then offered records to show that this indictment had been placed on file. In Suffolk county the grand jury failed to return true bills, Sheehan said.

Local Business Man Charges Police With Releasing Robber Whom He Caught Hiding in His Store

Claiming that a man he captured red-handed while the latter was looting his Arch street establishment was released by the local police, Mr. Alexander Cruckshank, ice cream manufacturer, stated today that he was treated in an insulting manner by Superintendent Redmond Welsh when he protested against this conduct, and that he had subsequently complained to Mayor Perry B. Thompson, who promised to "see about it in a day or two."

Mr. Cruckshank also charges that his store had previously been robbed some time prior to this happening, and that the police ignored his appeals for someone to investigate the crime. "Three weeks ago my place was broken into," he declared, "and the next morning I asked that officers be sent to investigate. Whoever answered my telephone call at police headquarters said that an officer would be dispatched in the afternoon. He hasn't reached her yet. Mr. Cruckshank continued by enumerating the articles which were stolen during this first invasion of his premises. There were a pair of shoes shortly before, and which he had worn on only one or two occasions. He valued these at $9.95. Other clothing was also taken, together with a number of articles belonging to one of the men employed by the concern. Last Saturday evening, according to Mr. Cruckshank, while he was sitting in company with two friends on the ground floor of the Arch street building, he heard a noise from the floor above. He mounted the stairs to trace the source of the sound, and switching on the lights discovered a man crouching in a corner of the back room. He grappled with the fellow, whom he describes as being about 20 years of age, and of robust and stocky build. He had never seen the man before. After a struggle he succeeded in getting the intruder to the sidewalk, where the latter got his arm around the post of an automobile truck and refused to loose his hold until a hand applied to his countenance forced him to do so. Mr. Cruckshank finally got the man on the ground, on his back, whereupon pleas for mercy were made. He states that the unknown used fairly good

Engineering Council Says Building Industry Unemployment Costs Half Billion

Asserts Acute Housing Shortage Exists Because of High Construction Costs

Says Management and Labor Must Forget Sore Spots of Past and Co-operate

NEW YORK, July 22.—Half a billion dollars a year in wages is being lost in the building industry through unemployment, declared a report made public today by the committee on elimination of waste in industry of the American Engineering Council. The committee, appointed by Herbert Hoover when he was president of the council, asserted that lack of work the outstanding fact in this industry, whose critical condition is attributed primarily to high costs of construction.

The annual economic loss due to accidents was estimated by the committee as high as $120,000,000. Application of safety methods it was stated, would save the industry 12,000,000 days' work a year. Loss through duplication of estimates and designs. Continued on Page 17

WANTS QUESTION SENT TO SUPREME COURT

The note adds, according to the Tribune, that concentration of German troops in the Upper Silesian region is considered dangerous.

Turkish Retreat Reported Cut Off; Greeks Now Have 30,000 Prisoners

SMYRNA, July 21.—(By the Associated Press)—An important encircling movement by the Greek right wing is reported here to have cut the retreat of the Turkish nationalists towards Angora from Eskishehr; the railway junction point captured by the Greeks in their sweeping offensive, Tuesday evening. The Eskishehr defensive line at Kovalitza and Angin where three months ago the first Greek offensive was checked, is now declared to be completely isolated and the Turks within the area in question are considered to be virtually prisoners. The number of Turkish prisoners actually in Greek hands has reached thirty thousand, it was stated here today. Mustapha Kemal Pasha, the Turkish nationalist leader, is said to have escaped the encircling movement and to be fleeing toward Angora. King Constantine, who is now hurrying on to Kuitaia is being enthusiastically cheered on the way.

ICE CREAM PRICE WAR PLAN TO GIVE OPEN HEARINGS

Children March to State House and Ask Commissioner Hultman for Hearing

(Special to The Sun) BOSTON, July 22.—Eugene C. Hultman, commissioner of the necessities of life, received the surprise of his life this morning, when a parade of children marched to the state house, came to his office, and asked to see him on the ice cream situation. Unlike the first parade, this was not organized by older people, but by the children themselves. They came from the Dorchester sections of the city and were led by Miss Frieda White of Dudley street, Roxbury. The children bore banners they had made themselves, in which they called attention to the fact that certain Dorchester dealers are selling ice cream soda for 19 cents and admit they are making a sufficient profit. Like the first parades, they called for lower prices. Many of the children were barefooted. They came part of the way in trucks which they hired. When they reached the hearing room at the state house they scrambled into chairs and but few of them had feet long enough to reach the ground. HOYT.

Tariff Bill Goes to Senate Finance Committee for an Indefinite Stay

Republican Leaders Predict Revenue Legislation Will be First to Reach President

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Passed by the house by a vote of 239 to 127 the Fordney tariff bill was expected to reach the senate finance committee today where it will be subjected to open hearings and an indefinite stay in committee. Although Chairman Penrose stated the hearings probably would be brief, many leading republicans predicted today that revenue legislation, hearings on which will be begun by the ways and means committee Tuesday, would reach the president ahead of the tariff bill.

Seven republicans voted against the Fordney bill on its adoption by the house yesterday, while the same number of democrats supported it. Before taking final action on the bill, which is estimated by Chairman Fordney to raise approximately a half billion dollars in revenue annually, the house defeated a democratic motion to recommit the measure with instructions to strike out its American valuation and reciprocal provisions.

By a final vote in the house proper on the five contested schedules of the bill, oil hides, cotton and asphalt remained on the free list against a determined fight to tax them, while the Longworth dye embargo provision was thrown out by a vote of 295 to 193. The democratic minority, aided by republicans dissatisfied with some of the bill's provisions, engineered a victory on each of the items, the ways and means committee losing out on three of the five amendments laid before the house. More than 200 minor committee amendments also were put through, being voted in a block.

WILL OPPOSE FULLER AT THE PRIMARIES

(Special to The Sun) BOSTON, July 22.—Former Senator Robert M. Washburn, writing from New York City, said today that if Lieutenant Governor Alvin Fuller is a candidate for re-election in 1922 and there is no strong candidate against him he will oppose him at the primaries.

Mr. Washburn says: "If Mr. Fuller wins the nomination against any other candidate, a vote for him will have been thrown away for I shall become an independent candidate and in an off year he is bound to be defeated. The great issue of 1922 is the interment of Mr. Fuller, to which I have consecrated myself." Washburn ran against Fuller as candidate for lieutenant governor at the last election and was defeated. DE VALERA ON WAY TO DUBLIN

Says Future is Uncertain But He is Confident of Success of Cause

Lloyd George's Proposals to be Submitted to Members of Dail Eireann

Authoritatively Stated Truce in Ireland is to Continue Indefinitely

LONDON, July 22.—Eamonn de Valera arrived at Euston station shortly after 8 o'clock this morning to take the 8.30 train for Dublin. To newspaper men who pressed him for an interview he said: "Although the immediate future is uncertain, we have perfect confidence in the ultimate success of our cause."

A few minutes later he stood up in his carriage to address the large crowd of Irish enthusiasts who swarmed about the station. First in Irish then in English, he thanked them for coming out so early in the morning to bid him good bye, and said everywhere he went he found the same enthusiasm for Sinn Fein which only a just cause could inspire.

"I am perfectly certain our cause will win in the end. It may take some time to accomplish, but success certainly will come. Of that I am confident," he said.

THE ADJUSTING OF AUTO HEADLIGHTS

(Special to The Sun) BOSTON, July 22.—The department of public works announces today that it intends to approve in various sections of the state stations where owners of automobiles may go to have their headlights adjusted. In announcing this new plan the department states that the one difficult new problem in connection with the new headlight regulations is that of properly focusing the headlights.

The officials' announcement of the new plan with explanation of how to obtain approval for the establishment of testing stations follows: The one difficult problem in connection with the new headlight regulations is that of properly focusing the headlights. Doubtless there are many persons who have neither the ability nor inclination to attempt to make the proper focal adjustment. It is the intention of the department to approve testing stations in the various sections of the state where owners may go to have their headlights adjusted.

Any qualified person with a well-equipped plant desiring to obtain that approval, should communicate as soon as possible with Alfred W. Devine, headlighting inspector, Registry of Motor Vehicles, State House, Boston, Mass. All communications must be in writing and a brief description given of the place to be used for testing. HOYT.

KALININ HEARS PEASANTS' COMPLAINTS

This picture, just received from Bolshevik Russia, shows Kalinin, chairman of the Moscow soviet, and one of the most influential national Bolshevik leaders, hearing pleas and complaints of Russian peasants. The picture was taken on a recent tour, in which Kalinin visited the country districts to hear appeals and kicks, and find out the peasants' viewpoint. The picture was brought to America by Dr. William Wovschin, of New York, who recently returned after investigating conditions in Bolshevik Russia for the joint distribution commission, of New York.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem

The Sport

He plays the game and plays to win
With all of his ability;
He takes his chance and plunges
With vigor and agility;
Of knocks and bumps he takes his share,
And never whimpers fearfully;
He plays to win—but on the square,
Courageously and cheerfully!

But with an undiminished verve
And with his heart aflame again,
He'll summon all his grit and nerve
And plunge back in the game again!

The sport! He faces fate, with pluck
And cool and calm tenacity;
He will not blame Old Lady Luck
For his own incapacity.
The great wide world about him hums
He tries to fit the plan of it;
He takes life largely as it comes
And makes the best the can of it.

LAYS WREATH ON GRAVE OF SOLDIERS

LISBON, July 22.—Rear Admiral Charles F. Hughes, in command of a squadron of the American Atlantic fleet which is visiting Portugal, visited Batalha yesterday and laid a wreath on the grave of Portugal's unknown soldiers. Admiral Hughes was accompanied by the Portuguese minister of foreign affairs and minister of war as well as several of his staff officers.

A special train conveyed the party from Lisbon and at all the principal stations en route, regimental bands played "The Star Spangled Banner," which the Americans answered with cheers.

Impressive scenes marked the ceremonies at the Old Abbey, which has been standing 900 years, the Americans reverently surrounded the coffins while Bishop Leira eulogized the American nation in the name of Portugal and thanked the officers for their courtesies to the unknown Portuguese soldiers who fought by the side of America and France.

Admiral Hughes said after the ceremony that he considered the day a memorable one for the American navy, and several members of his staff said the visiting fleet had not received such a brilliant and heart-warming reception in any other country.

ACHIEVES 20TH VICTORY OF THE SEASON

CHICAGO, July 22.—Urban Faber, star pitcher of the White Sox, yesterday, achieved his 20th victory of the season and thereby established a remarkable record for a twirler playing on a club of a single season.

The big right hander has participated in 28 games and has been charged with but six defeats. Manager Gleason, commenting on Faber's work today, declared that he was the greatest pitcher in any league.

Faber's 20th victory came in a 14-inning game against the Athletics when he pitched the first man up drove the ball into the right field bleachers for a home run which gave Chicago a 2 to 1 victory.

Faber has pitched a total of 223 innings and been touched for 137 hits by his opponents.

Reports Police Chief to Mayor Thompson

English, and agreed to go along peacefully.

In the meantime one of the other two persons who had been at the store had gone in search of an officer, and returned with one who Mr. Cruikshank believed was Officer Clyde Aldrich. Questioned by the latter, the man suddenly developed an inability to speak English, but admitted that he came from Manchester, N. H. Mr. Cruikshank states that he was instructed by the officer, before the latter took the man away, to come to the police station and make a complaint in the morning. After the officer and his prisoner had departed, Mr. Cruikshank went upstairs to ascertain what damage had been done. He found a grey suit rolled up, apparently preparatory to carrying it away. The unknown thief had gone through the pockets and a card case with an automobile license had been thrown to the floor.

Mr. Cruikshank says that he went to the station house Sunday morning to make his complaint, and that he was practically ignored by Superintendent Welch, who continued to tap upon a typewriter while he was trying to explain what he wanted. Finally the chief appeared to absorb the facts of the matter, and after going out of his office returned and announced that the man had been released. Supt. Welch, according to Cruikshank, then advised the latter to lodge a complaint against the officer. Instead of following this admonition, Mr. Cruikshank, on Monday evening, made a complaint to Mayor Thompson, he states, adding that His Honor promised to "take the matter up in a day or two." When last questioned, Mr. Cruikshank declared he had heard nothing from the mayor, and intended to bring again unless he was informed of some action being taken in the affair.

Supt. Welch's Statement

Superintendent Welch, to whom Cruikshank's story was outlined by a representative of The Sun, declared he was "glad you spoke of it." He called Officer Clyde Aldrich into his office, inviting The Sun man to wait without, and after being closeted with the officer for some minutes, stated that the man actually was released before Cruikshank appeared to lodge a complaint against him. "The officer thinks," said the superintendent, "that the man did not break in, but merely walked in." He added that the man was brought to police headquarters by Officer Aldrich, where he was held for "safe keeping," no other charge being booked against him. "I think he was

HOW I PUT ONE OVER ON MY WOMEN FRIENDS

They Said I Was Showing My Age,
That I Dressed Too Young For My Face

They made unkindly remarks about my wrinkles and bad complexion to me folks—"Cat-like," you know. But one day I called a real and true friend told me about Kijja, a remarkable beauty secret of old Egypt. That very night I got some and used it on my face, neck and arms, and I kept using it every night and morning for a week. Then I went to a Saturday night dance where most of my women friends go. Well, you should have seen them! First they pretended not to notice me, then when all the gentlemen asked me to dance, some women came around and said: "What have you been doing to yourself, Mary?" Nothing, I replied, but felt I heard them saying behind my back: "Oh, she's had wax injected under her skin, or had her face enameled or some facial operation performed." I just let them talk, because Kijja gives such a natural look that its use cannot be detected; besides it certainly made me look far younger and more beautiful than I ever thought it possible for anything to do. So I glared in the fact that at last I certainly had fooled them. I did not use it to put one over on some of the old dames and I write this hoping that some woman or woman who have suffered as I have on account of slurs about dressing too young for one's face may see it and feel some of the "old cats" as I did. By request the name of the writer of the above is withheld, but you can purchase a bottle of Kijja on an absolute guarantee that it will produce sufficiently successful results in your case in three days' time to prove to you that its continued use for a short time will marvelously enhance your beauty and make you look years younger, or the manufacturers will refund your money. Kijja will positively increase the beauty of any woman any age—girls or grandmothers.

Easiest Thing in the World to Have a Cool Interior Effect in Summer

There are houses you love to enter, during the trying days of July and August. There is in them a perfect midsummer setting which creates an illusion of still coolness. This isn't an atmosphere difficult to attain. It simply is an arrangement of furniture, of hangings, lighting effects and a choice of colors. There is repose or chaos in furniture arrangement, as you will. Allow your chairs to have even the semblance of a circle around a room and the repose of the room is destroyed, as well as the peace of the folk who enter. The room which invites is the one in which the furniture is grouped, suggestive of so many little half-tête-à-têtes. If there is a lounge in the room there should by all means be chairs drawn toward it in the conversational attitude one loves, even in furniture. There should be a little table at the end of the lounge, perhaps one at each end, depending upon the size of the room. And on the table should be a light, books, and an odd vase of flowers. After using Kijja we shall be thankful if you will write what it does for you for publication—your name will not be used. Kijja (pronounced Kee-ya) is for sale in this city by all leading department stores and drug stores.—Adv.

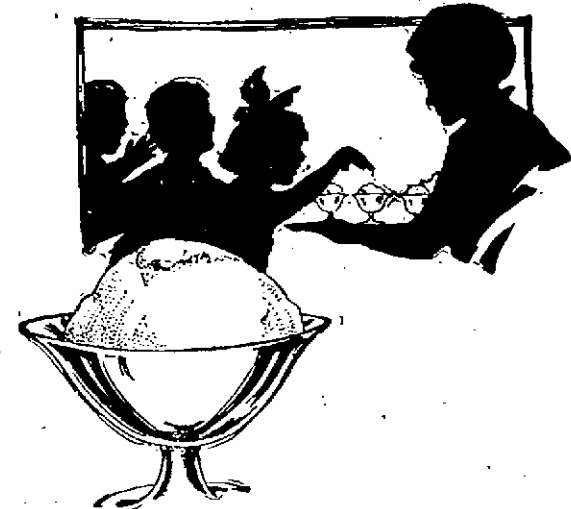

JAKEY JAG WILL SOON BE THING OF THE PAST

Lowell is "bone dry"—at least as far as Jamaica ginger is concerned! And Jamaica ginger is credited by experts with having caused 35 per cent of all drunkenness since national prohibition. The surprising news that the ever-popular "jag" is no longer available in local shops, and cannot be purchased even for alleged "medicinal purposes," was made public yesterday. An investigation of the utmost thoroughness was conducted by Officer Clark, accompanied by Officer Cooney of the vice squad. Out of scores of dealers visited in every section of the city, only two made "jag" sales, and these were halted before Judge Enright the following morning and fined. The judge recently issued a warrant that, pursuant to a recently promulgated supreme court decision to the effect that Jamaica ginger is an intoxicating beverage and that merchants are liable for its sale, whatever their motive, he would impose sentence on all Lowell shopkeepers brought before him in consequence of such sales. Prior to this ruling, Jamaica ginger was "peddled" on a large scale here, and it is considered that it was responsible for a large proportion of all the drunkenness here. The efforts of the liquor squad to halt the epidemic of "jag" drinking were handicapped by the fact that they had to get a lot of jag at the same time that they got a Jamaica ginger sale. This was deemed necessary in view of the fact that it was thought the burden of proof was on the state to show that the preparation had been sold for beverage purposes. But this situation no longer prevails, as the result of supreme court action. Every storekeeper who sells "jag" now is selling an intoxicating beverage, according to the supreme court, and is subject to the rigor of the law. The prophecy made in The Sun, after Judge Enright had explained the legal effect of the decision of the highest court, that Jamaica ginger sales in

How I Won And How I Lost—Told By Dempsey and Carpenter

Dempsey says, Nuxated Iron used by him as part of his training was in his opinion an important factor of his phenomenal victory over Carpenter as he believes it materially helped to give him that mighty power to withstand Carpenter's hardest hits and that it also helped to put added punch behind his own blows.

In the great fight Carpenter hit Dempsey with swift powerful blows that had the speed of gun fire. The yelling mob saw him land his famous right on Dempsey's jaw, yet Dempsey never flinched but relentlessly he tore after the Frenchman with his old rippling tearing, merciless power, landing terrific punches on head, body and jaw until Carpenter quickly weakened and then another powerful punch and again Dempsey showed himself to be the superior man. He was the greatest Champion the world has ever known.

The London Daily Mail, of July 4th, quotes Carpenter as saying "Dempsey is the most powerful man I have ever met in the ring. He is incredibly strong. To hit him is like hitting a mountain. To take his punches is like feeling the wall of an avalanche. If I were asked what led to my defeat, I would say the two tremendous blows Dempsey landed on the nape of my neck. I was not the same after that."

Dempsey says, "I feel I won through greater power, endurance, fighting skill and strategy. I took Carpenter's hardest blows on my chin and while they knocked me back they did not daunt me in the least. I am sure Carpenter has not the endurance to stand the hard blows that I can stand, neither has he the strength to deliver them. I understand his methods of training are entirely different from mine. While I believe in scientific boxing still I never lose sight of the important fact that other things being equal it is the man who has the greatest strength, power and endurance that is going to win, in building up these three most important things there is nothing like filling your blood with pure Nuxated Iron. In preparing for my great fight with Willard I used Nuxated Iron as part of my training, and I felt that it was such benefit to me that afterwards I used it, whenever I felt I was not quite up to the mark, to help restore my strength, energy and vigor; and when I commenced training for my fight with Carpenter, the supreme test of my life, I again took Nuxated Iron and I believe it

JACK KEARNS
Manager for Dempsey

Jack Kearns, Dempsey's Manager, says: "Knowing what Nuxated Iron had done for Dempsey in the Willard fight I strongly insisted that he use this wonderful strength and blood builder as a part of his training for the fight with Carpenter, and I believe it was an important factor in building up Dempsey's superhuman strength, power and endurance which were such important factors in winning his easy victory."

MANUFACTURER'S NOTE: From the above article the reader must not infer that Nuxated Iron will make a giant in strength or a world's champion out of the average man; but Nuxated Iron will greatly increase the red blood corpuscles and by so doing increase your strength, power and endurance, and supply increased nerve force to the starting nerve cells. You can try Nuxated Iron on our absolute guarantee that if it does not increase your strength, power and endurance in two weeks time and give you perfectly satisfactory results your money will be refunded. Beware of substitutes. Look for the name "Nuxated" on every package. Nuxated Iron for the blood and nerve is sold by all druggists.

NUXATED IRON ENRICHES THE BLOOD-GIVES YOU NEW STRENGTH AND ENERGY

Lowell would stop, has been realized, according to the testimony of the liquor officers.

Officers Clark and Cooney scoured the city for violations, starting out with a survey of conditions in Centralville, Alken street and Lakeview avenue were combed. Then they proceeded to the North common district and, among other places, visited many Salem street establishments. All the side streets were gone through, as well as the main thoroughfares. Broadway and Gorbam street were next "covered," nearly as far as the cemetery, while Bridge street and the entire Belvidere district were also scrutinized.

Stores of every description were entered, and an effort to purchase Jamaica ginger was made. But in practically every case the dealers were chary. It is believed that the prohibition announcement of Judge Enright, to the effect that findings of guilty would be made where a "jag" sale was shown, regardless of whether tone accompanied the purchase, has resulted in cleaning up the city.

Mr. Packard Owner!

WE'VE always been mighty proud of that twin-six engine of ours—we Packard boosters. And I, personally, haven't been especially bashful and retiring in telling people about its performances.

Which makes my tale sadder! My cousin Tom from Worcester came to town last Wednesday in his 1917 Runwell Six and we drove our respective families out to Brookline to call Sunday afternoon.

Coming along to Corey Hill Tom suggested a race up the hill. I took him on with a poor attempt to hide a smile. But I had no smile to hide when we reached the top. Tom's old Runwell made it about fifty yards sooner than my comparatively new Packard.

When we reached our destination Tom told me all about it. "The simplest thing in the world," he said, "just an eight-ounce can of FAM-O poured into my gas tank before I left home. It cleared away the accumulated carbon on my way down and put new life into my engine. And now I'm getting almost 30 per cent more mileage from my gas."

I thought of the money I had spent—at my service station—having carbon removed, and knew that had been my trouble in the race up Corey Hill.

Need I say that a few days later I raced Tom again up the hill. And I almost lost sight of him. He was so far in the rear. FAM-O did it? Surest thing you know! And anyhow you and I know that you can't beat a Packard motor when it's running true to form. 8 oz. $1.00, 1 gal. $12.00 at all dealers. GORDON MFG. Co., Foxboro, Mass.

ONCE UPON A TIME

THERE WERE NO DOCTORS!

Doctors Preach Prevention Is Better Than Cure.

Ninety per cent of all disease is preventable, so doctors say. Eat simple food, exercise wisely, sleep sufficiently, and—what is vitally important—make sure of the daily, regular, thorough elimination of body waste, and the chances are nine to one that you will keep well, work efficiently and enjoy life. Bowel elimination of food and tissue waste is all-important. But in case of irregularity, disordered or imperfect action do not make the common mistake of taking harsh, violently acting medicines, with the idea of forcing the bowels to act. Nature believes in mild methods. She responds best to persuasion.

So in selecting a simple remedy to regulate and assure proper bowel action, you should not use harsh or violently acting remedies, no matter how much has been claimed for them. You should choose some well-known, time tested, trial proven remedy, that has made its reputation by being used for many years, by all sorts of people, all over the world. Take Beecham's Pills for example. Beecham's is a household word, has been for many generations. Beecham's Pills is a household remedy, has been for over half a century. People not only take Beecham's but recommend Beecham's to their friends. Their use is handed down from father to son or from mother to daughter, from one generation to another. Did you ever hear any complaint or criticism of Beecham's? Isn't that a pretty powerful endorsement of their worth? Druggists are glad to sell Beecham's.

HONEYMOON JOURNEY
FOR LONG AND BRIDE

WORCESTER, July 22.—Richard H. Long of Framingham and Worcester, and Mrs. Long, the bride whom he took last Saturday from a stenographer's desk in his office, are on their way to Manitoba on a combination of honeymoon and business trip.

It became known that Mr. and Mrs. Long left, accompanied by Miss Mabel Long and Carl Long, children of Mr. Long's first marriage. And Francis Long, his nephew. It was reported the transcontinental trip is being made by automobile but the baggage was sent express to Manitoba.

Mrs. Long, prior to her marriage, was Miss Laura I. Bousquet of Shrewsbury, employed as a stenographer in the Worcester branch of the R. H. Long company. At the offices of the company it was said Mr. Long was out of town for the day. At the Long residence in Framingham the statement was made that Mr. and Mrs. Long had gone to Manitoba for an indefinite stay.

Some authorities predict that no radium will be left in the world 25 years from now.

BUSINESS REVIEW

Business Looks Pretty Good Compared With 1913

BY ALBERT APPLE
Many industries now are doing a bigger volume of business than they did in 1913, a normal pre-war year. This is shown by figures now available, covering the first half of 1921. In the 52 weeks ended July 1, corn exports from the United States were 50,616,281 bushels—almost exactly the same as in 1913, and comparing with 3,939,952 bushels exported in the year ended July 1, 1920.

Wheat exports from United States, including trans-shipments from Canada, totaled 410,483,101 bushels in the year ended July 1, 1921, against 275,985,402 bushels the year before. Wheat exports in 1913 were only 142,879,599 bushels.

Here are cotton exports, January 1 to July 2:
1919 2,961,005 bales
1920 3,267,554 bales
1921 2,551,851 bales
So far in 1921, cotton exports have been at the rate of 5,163,702 bales a year, against 8,609,488 bales exported in 1913.

In the first five months of 1921, money value of all merchandise exports was $2,200,163,350, against $1,002,577,443 for the corresponding months in 1913. For the same months, 1921 imports were $1,137,592,281, against $745,241,078 in 1913.

Building Gains
Building permits in 27 northeastern states totaled $1,068,256,000 in the six months ended July 1, 1921. F. W. Dodge Co., which furnishes these figures, points out that the total is nearly 10 per cent more than the average for the same period of the preceding five years.

Steel Off a Third
Production of steel ingots in the first six months of 1921 was at a rate of 21,200,000 gross tons a year, against 30,280,130 tons in 1913. Steel production is only a third less than pre-war. Much of present stagnation is due to this industry having increased its productive capacity 44 per cent since 1913.

Pig Iron Output, first six months of year:
1921 9,428,000 tons

Coal Near Normal

Soft coal production is very low compared with war-time, but total output from January 1 to July 2 was at a rate of 396,572,000 tons a year. In 1913, only 401,879,448 tons were mined. So far this year anthracite coal production has been at a yearly rate of 92,954,000 tons, against 75,322,855 tons in 1913.

Steel making is now the dearest of all industries. This was anticipated by coke makers who, so far in 1921, have made coke at a rate of only 6,862,000 tons a year, against 39,271,070 tons in 1913.

Money Active

Bank clearings, the country over, first six months of year:
1921 $150,081,696,000
1913 $6,106,583,000

These clearings indicate that the nation is doing a business volume nearly 60 per cent greater than in 1913, for experts say that combined wholesale and retail prices now average only about a half more than in 1913. At that rate, the 1913 volume of business could be handled with $130,000,000 of clearings for January to July.

Bond sales on New York exchange, in first six months of year:
1921 $1,516,676,000
1913 250,771,500
Total transactions in stocks on New York exchange, first six months of year:
1921 98,910,400 shares
1913 46,608,477 shares

VARIETY OF NOVELTIES

New Addition To Prince's
Store is a Veritable Little
Wonder World

Have you a little more in your home? If not, why not? For Low-ellites will now have the opportunity to purchase a real motion picture machine, differing in no way from the projectors used at theatres except in the matter of size, and will be able to provide themselves with the latest play by Mary Pickford, Charlie Chaplin, or any other favorite, on the same principle as a circulating library.
Sounds startling, doesn't it? But it's true, and if you crave the proof, visit Prince's store on Saturday, where the greatest variety of novelties will be ready for your inspection, that perhaps any merchant of this city has ever devised.

One of these is Prince's arcade. This extends from Merrimack st. through to Middle street, and has been thrown open to the public for the purpose of adding to their convenience when they wish to reach the sub-postoffice from Merrimack street, or to buy at any of the Middle street stores. It is to be understood that this passageway may be utilized as freely as the public thoroughfares and with no obligation to listen to the harangues of salesmen. Although, if one desires, one may pause and examine two features utterly new to Lowell. One of these is the "Bungalow Shop," where in miniature bungalows, one can see the latest phonograph records at one's leisure, or where one may view the latest movie reels; the other is the most complete exhibition of children's toys ever assembled here. Dolls have been made the outstanding specialty at the top shop, although there is a complete assortment of games, electric trains, and all the other playthings
dear to the hearts of the little tots.

The formal opening of this remarkable enterprise is scheduled for tomorrow. No pains have been spared to make the initial day one of surprises.
Mr. F. H. Walter, of the Prince-Walters corporation, proprietors of the Bungalow shop, has engaged after considerable difficulty, one of the best jazz orchestras in New York city, to come to Lowell for the day. Concerts will be given at intervals by this organization, the Carl Fenton Jazz orchestra. If you've been to New York recently, you are familiar with the name, which is one prominent on the Great White Way. This aggregation
also makes many records for the Brunswick Phonograph company, whose machines and disks the Bungalow Shop
will carry exclusively.

A good deal of ingenuity has been expended in devising things original and convenient for shoppers, and high success has resulted. The "self-service record holder" is one of the novelties which will please. The newest records are displayed in these holders.
The customers select those which are to be played, takes them into one of the rooms of one of the bungalows,
and while reclining in a comfortable
chair listens to the various Brunswick artists perform. No salesman is there to insist on a purchase. If none of the records suit for the time being,
the customer departs without annoying solicitation. But if it is desired to try a few more records, there is an electric button handy, which summons a clerk. The clerk in turn brings in the additional records called for, and the customer is again left to hear the records and to exercise his or her own discretion as to purchase. Those of us who have been harried by clerks seeking to tell us what we want, feel like raising a cheer at this ultra-modern method of doing business.

And here's something else which hasn't its mate in Lowell. It is believed a real boom, with stationery, pens, ink, and other conveniences, occupies one section of the shop. It is beautifully appointed, combining taste with comfort. The biggest feature, however, is a dainty booth inscribed "Ticket Office." Here information on all subjects may be obtained.
If you want to know when the next train leaves for Boston, or the next street car leaves for any point, an employee armed with all the schedules will be ready to give you the required information. "Service" is the watchword of this booth. In testimony to this, it may be mentioned that Mr. Walters has completed arrangements with all the prominent local theatres to sell choice seats for all their performances at the booth. Those who wish to attend the Opera House, after that theatre opens its fall season will be able to secure the necessary pasteboards,
at box office prices, without making the trip down Central street, unless their way lies in that direction. Tickets for Ketchikan will also be on hand, as well as tickets for special amusements of all sorts. And the price
bought at the box office.

But perhaps the feature of the bungalow shop which smacks most of the absolutely up-to-the-minute thing, is the display of home movie machines.
These are manufactured by the famous
Pathé company, pioneers of the films.
They throw in miniature a perfect

Says Every Railroad Man Should Read This

Peterson's Ointment Co., Inc., Buffalo, N. Y. Dear Sirs: I was afflicted with what the doctors said were Varicose Ulcers, and up until about five weeks ago I had been reading your for about a year and five months.
With all the treatments that were prescribed to me by several doctors I received little benefit, and that was spreading and gave me much distress

I was induced by a brother brakeman to try Peterson's Ointment, and after I had used two boxes I saw won-horrid ulcers that your ointment is a

Adventures of The Twins

CHRIS CROW'S ESCAPE

FLEET HAD HIM BY THE FOOT AND NO MATTER HOW HE STRUGGLED AND PULLED AND TWISTED, THERE HE WAS.

Well, sir, when Fleet Fox grabbed Chris Crow in the fog, thinking that it was Biddy Bantam, you'd have thought that all the noise in the world was let loose. Chris was like most pulled, an awful frisky-cat, and he squeaked and screamed and squawked and called until even Mr. Moon heard him.

Cutie Cottontail over in the sassa-patch garden nibbling lettuce and sweet juicy pea leaves just sprouted, picked up his ears, and his feet, and squeaked.

Biddy Bantam, who had just located her haystack that very minute, dived into it head first without a backward look.

Nancy and Nick and Sprinkle-Blow hidden near the swamp, shivered. Chris never would have made his fortune in grand opera even when his voice was at its best, but when he was scared, a better factory wasn't in it. Fleet had him by the foot, and no matter how he struggled and pulled and twisted, there he was, caught in jaws as strong as a steel trap.

"I'm done for," thought Chris. "It isn't fair sneaking up on a person like that from behind. He ought to be punished."

Sprinkle-Blow heard him. "If Chris would only remember the golden rule a little better and do as he would be done by, I'd let him go," he whispered. "Maybe I'd better do it, anyway. He's had a lesson."

Fleet had discovered his mistake by this time, but he always believed that a crow in the mouth is worth two hens in a haystack, so he held on and started for home.

Sprinkle-Blow and the Twins showed a big stone in his path. In the fog Fleet didn't see it and went sprawling, and let go his hold on Chris.

Chris flopped away, bruised and sore and cross, to his home in the woods. (To Be Continued)

HANDICAPPING FOLK WHOM WE LOVE

By RUT HAGNES ABELING

Catherine hadn't turned out at all as her mother had expected her to. Catherine's house was a sight to behold. It was never in order. Dust lay thick on the less used pieces of furniture. Clothes, back from the laundry and needing mending, lay in a heap on the sewing table until someone wanted them, rushed in and put them on, holes and all.

Catherine was good enough at heart. She meant to do things and it annoyed her tremendously to have her house in such disorder.

And then there was the son—even his wife complained about him sometimes. Tom never hung anything up. His solid collars one could usually find hanging on a door knob or perhaps just thrown on the floor instead of in the laundry bag where they belonged.

His wife hadn't minded it so much in the beginning, but since the small folk had come it made her work too heavy. She was getting nervous and irritable about it and sometimes it looked as though the thing would come to a serious pass.

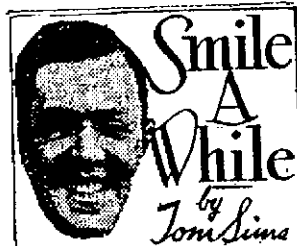

The Visit

Catherine and Tom were a puzzle to their mother. She couldn't understand how two people brought up in such an exceedingly neat, well-kept home as her own could have become so careless.

But one summer, Catherine and Tom and their families came home for a visit at the same time. And then Tom's wife, a practical little lady who took things in at a glance, discovered that Tom really wasn't so much to blame after all, and that he was more victim than anything else.

"I know now what's the trouble with Tom and why you aren't proud of your daughter's home," she laughed one morning when she stepped into the room Catherine occupied just in time to see her mother lift a negligee from a chair and hang it neatly away.

"You've loved them so much that you've crippled them! You started in when they were little folk doing everything for them and so they've never formed the habit of doing anything for themselves. Of course you

CONDEMNS TOO MUCH SYSTEM

Speaker at Bankers' Institute Says it Leads to Bureaucracy in Business

Castigates Overdone Statistics and Office Titles That Lead to Heart Burn

Plan to Educate Public by Taking the Bank to the Public School

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 22.—Super-system, titles that cause heart-burn and overdone statistics were gently castigated here today by D. C. Willis, chairman of the board of the Federal Reserve bank of Cleveland, O., in a practical business talk to future bank executives. The occasion was the annual convention of the American Institute of Banking.

"Going through the motions of doing business without really getting down to business" was the theme the Cleveland banker expounded. He summed it up in the title of his address, "Knowledge vs. Wisdom," and here are some of the bits of business wisdom he gave the young bankers.

"Full credit must be given to organization and machinery, since order is Heaven's first law." What I want to get across is a kick against the pyramiding of system that finally leads to bureaucracy. I do not think it is the duty of the public to conduct a continuous audit of a concern with which it trades.

In a Bank

"Frequently in a bank organization the question of titles receives more consideration than it deserves, principally because super-system has created so many wheels within wheels and so many cogs in the wheels that the ordinary vocabulary of bank titles doesn't suffice. Frequently titles cause a lot of heart-burning in an organization simply because of vanity and false pride.

"My observation and judgment convince me that one can function under any title and that we will do well if we pay less attention to titles, test in our zeal to create and exalt titles we put the emphasis where it does not belong. It is not a question of what your position is. The question is: What are you yourself, doing in it and with it?"

Talk of Statistics

"As to statistics, accurate data intelligently arranged is so far ahead of hunches, guess work, general results, and rule of thumb, that it is as electricity to candle light. Nevertheless, its use can be overdone and is being overdone. Charts and barometers are fine, but there are two subjects that cannot be charted: they are Almighty God and human nature, and both cut quite a figure. Also it should be remarked that it is a person or rare qualifications that can analyze and make proper deductions from statistics.

"It is my judgment that a lot of us are getting our trousers shiny sitting at our desks pouring over statistics, department reports, etc., who could spend our time to better advantage learning the people in our organizations and getting a more intimate knowledge of the viewpoint of those with whom we do business."

To Dispel Mystery

Plans of the American Bankers Association to dispel mystery about banking in the public thought by taking the bank to the public school, this fall were outlined to the Institute of Banking today by John H. Puellcher of Milwaukee. Mr. Puellcher is chairman of the association's committee on public education.

By showing that they occupy a useful place in society, the bankers hope to cut the foundation from under a radicalism that thrives on ignorance of the services of the banking business, he said.

"Ten lectures on banking have been carefully prepared, one for each month of the school year, starting with next September," Mr. Puellcher related. "The banker nearest the school is to deliver the lectures to the 7th and 8th grades of the common school, to the high school and the college. He will simply refer to the outlines for ideas and background, localizing the story, using illustrations and incidents familiar to the children."

What Banking Is

"He will show them specifically what banking is, telling them about its origin and its purpose in our commercial scheme. Then, after two or three visits, the bank will invite the school children to the bank and permit them to visualize that which has been talked about.

"The lecture outlines have been sent to the superintendents of public instruction of all of our states and to many others in the teaching profession. Scores of letters have been received from educators approving the plan and promising active co-operation.

years in the penitentiary for killing her husband.

"But I'm not pretty, she says. 'Had I been good looking; had I worn silk hose while I was in the witness chair, the jury would have freed me.'"

The foreman of the jury said Mrs. Waterman's appearance had nothing to do with the verdict. But Mrs. Waterman says it did.

"If I had only been pretty," she exclaimed aloud in the court room after the verdict was read.

Thirty-one women, young and beautiful, have been acquitted by juries here on charges of having murdered husbands, sweethearts or friends.

"I'll Beat Carp Worse Than Dempsey Did, Then Fight Champ," Gibbons Says

This story, the first of a number that will appear before the Gibbons-Carpentier fight in October, was written for The Sun by Tommy Gibbons, challenger for the world's light heavyweight title and expected to be the next man to fight Champion Jack Dempsey. Gibbons will write for The Sun readers frequent stories of his training for Carpentier and for the Dempsey fight when that match is made.

— BY —
Tommy Gibbons

LIGHT HEAVYWEIGHT CHALLENGER

OSAKIS, Minn., July 22.—Getting the match with Georges Carpentier for the light heavyweight championship of the world is a stepping stone to a fight with Jack Dempsey and the heavyweight title.

And it is the heavyweight crown that holds the real magic for me. I regard the Frenchman as the next best man to Dempsey. After I win from him, and I am sure I will, and decisively, Dempsey will have to fight me.

It is much better that I fight Carpentier before being matched with the champion.

The match will be a test for me. It will give the public a real line on me.

His Prediction

If Carpentier fights the same way he did Dempsey, the bout won't go four rounds. If he adopts a different style, it will take me longer to beat him just as it would have taken the champ under different circumstances.

Carpentier fought Dempsey wrong.

When he mixed it with him, he cast aside any chance of victory he may have had.

He had no defense for the champion's infighting. He was a baby in the arms of the powerful Dempsey.

But my! how game he was. He showed a fighting heart that is seldom equaled in the ring.

In that second round he proved he was a terrific slugger. What he lacked was a combination of punches to follow up the lead he had started by rocking Jack with his right.

TOMMY GIBBONS DOING ROADWORK ON THE LAKE ROAD NEAR HIS COTTAGE AT OSAKIS, MINN. HIS HUNTING DOG, DICK, DOES THE JIGS WITH HIM.

Instead of being able to bore on in with his left, he had to keep drawing back his right to cock it for his next punch.

Analysis

But as I sat at the ringside that day I had a two-fold purpose. I was studying both men—Carpentier, the man I am matched to fight in October, and Dempsey, the slugger whom I will eventually meet.

I saw in Carpentier a powerful athlete, a clever boxer, with punching power only in his right, a novice at infighting, but a man who possesses a heart that is game to the core.

In Dempsey I saw a man who is a fighter from his toes up, willing to take a punch in order to give one, and marvelously strong. He wasn't as fast on his feet as I had expected him to be. He keeps set always to deliver a knockout blow.

Dempsey is a spot-picker like myself. He fights the midsection of his opponents. That is what gets the real results in knockout fighting.

Some time ago I went to the University of Minnesota to see a human body dissected in order to learn first hand the exact location of the most vital nerve centers.

Spot-Picker

Those nerve centers are the spots I pick and land on.

While the finishing blows in most of my 12 consecutive knockouts this year have been to the chin or jaw, it was a well-placed body sock that started my opponents to the canvas.

When you know the spots, knocking a man out is like pressing buttons. You keep pressing them until you get the combination that turns off the lights.

I have had 73 fights during my ring experience. Of them but 22 have been knockouts. I've piled up 12 of them in the last six months. Until this year I always figured I was a clever boxer, not a puncher.

While it may sound foolish for me to say I can punch as hard as the champion, I believe in my own heart that I can.

And because I am faster than Dempsey, his equal at infighting, a better boxer and just as hard a puncher, I think I can knock Carpentier out quicker than the champ did at Jersey City.

Centralvilles Rip Broadways Up the Back to the Tune of Seven to One

The Centralvilles tightened their hold on first place in the Twilight League last evening on the South common by plastering the Broadways, 7 to 1. Except in the fourth inning when the vanquished team showed signs of coming back to life, the game was on ice all the way.

Cawley twirled for the Centralville boys and proved that his good old wing was in proper working order. He had his opponents fooled for the greater part of the game and it was only in the fourth when the latter touched him for three hits that he showed any signs of weakening. However, his falling away was very brief and he was soon in his stride again.

Lynch of the Centralvilles performed what was easily the most spectacular feat of the game when in the fifth he connected with the ball and knocked it into the wading pond for a home run. It was one of the longest hits ever seen on the South common.

Centralville scored in the first on a base on balls to McVey, a sacrifice by McPherson, and a hot one off Cawley's bat into left. In the second inning the fireworks came. Lynch struck out A. Foye hit a two-bagger to left and Bradbury applied, bringing home Foye. McVey was out on a slow grounder to third and then McVey and McPherson singled, upon which Sturtevant was yanked and Mulno was sent to the box. Mulno proved easy for the Centralville boys and three hits followed in quick succession by Cawley, W. Foye and Foye. Arthur Lynch had another turn at bat but the best he could do was to lift one toward the skies and when it came down Bagley was under it and the side was out. Score 6-1.

The fourth was Broadway's one hopeful inning but it slipped by after the team had scored but a single tally and opportunity never knocked again. In this frame Desmond made first when A. Foye made a bad stab. Ganley hit safely to right, Farrell singled and Sheehy raced to first after hitting out a wild one that rolled a few feet in front of the plate. Desmond scored on this play. Then with the bases filled, Connors whacked a long high one to center and was out. Ganley tried to come from third after the ball was caught but he was slow and was declared out at the plate. Bagley hit a feeble one to short and Sheehy was forced for the third out.

For the rest of the game there was no excitement except in the fifth when Arthur Lynch knocked out his home run. The crowd went wild as the ball sailed away to the outskirts and they gave the husky feller a tremendous ovation as he trotted home for a total of four bases. The score:

NOTES OF THE GAME

Gilgipies vs. Poland and Canney's South Ends tonight.

Eddie Cawley certainly has a large proportion of the crowd behind him. Eddie always was a popular young man.

Bob Ganley, veteran of many a baseball game, was in the lineup of the Broadways. He proved that his playing days are not quite over by whacking out a lusty single.

The kids almost went into hysterics when Lynch knocked out his home run. Arthur is supervisor of the North common playground and is very popular with the younger element.

Pitchers should work a mite faster and infielders should not peg the ball around quite so much. The days are getting shorter and it is unpleasant to be playing the last inning in semi-darkness.

We have seen no trace of the score board which some one promised to erect on the common.

long distance swimming with a mark of 85 miles in training here at Brighton Beach Baths for his supreme test. He will try to swim 100 miles.

Eloinsky is a big fellow but he is a highly developed aquatic star. His chief rival in the long distance swimming is Henry Sullivan of Lowell, Mass. Sullivan is now in England where he will make his fourth attempt to swim the hazardous English channel.

Sullivan, like Eloinsky, is a big man. He weighs 210.

Weather conditions have much to do with the success or failure of the marathon swimmers. If they choose a good day for their venture they have much in their favor. But if they run into bad weather conditions the odds are about 10 to 1 against them reaching their goal.

Harvard's Broad Jumper Is Sure Point Winner—Holds College Record

"NED" GOURDIN

BOSTON, July 22.—"Ned" Gourdin, the great Harvard broad jumper, is all primed to set another record.

He holds the college record with a leap of 24 feet 6 inches.

Gourdin has kept in trim this summer for the Harvard-Yale vs. Columbia meet.

When he takes off from the jumping board he resembles a giant bird in action. His legs are powerful and highly developed. He is always considered a sure point winner in all Harvard events.

challenge to any heavyweight in the country to fight a benefit performance for the Pueblo flood sufferers.

Flynn's challenge was unanswered and he immediately took the civil service examination for patrolman and was accepted.

He believes that he is entitled to a third match with Dempsey for he is the only one on record who ever landed the kayo punch on the present heavyweight champion.

Flynn's record shows that he has been a trial horse for most of the first raters. He fought Dempsey twice, Jack Johnson twice, Sam Langford three times, Fred Fulton, Carl Morris, Tommy Burns, Battling Levinsky, Hugh Walker, and several other prominent white hopes.

Although Flynn has been in the ring for 22 years he appears to be in good shape yet. And he isn't kidding about wanting another whack at Dempsey, the man-killer.

GRAND CIRCUIT RACING

Single G Does 2.00 1/2 in Free-for-All Maine Lick Upsets Talent

KALAMAZOO, Mich., July 22.—Upsetting favorites, which has been the favorite pastime at the Grand Circuit races at Recreation park this week, continued yesterday, another popular first choice to fall being Jeanette Rankin in the $3000 stake for 2 1/2 furlongs.

The mare from the McDonald stable had not lost a race until yesterday, but the Alabama trotter, Maine Lick, gave her a sound trimming this time and cashed some very long-priced tickets for his backers.

Old Single G was one first choice to reward his backers. The Indiana veteran trimming the free-for-all pacers in fast time.

According to Secretary Engleman the attendance yesterday was the largest that has ever witnessed Grand Circuit racing in this city.

Jeanette Rankin $100, Drusloff $25, Betty Taylor $10, Voltago $7 and the field $15 is a sample pool of the 2 1/2 furlong race.

The favorite got the worst of the semi-off in the first heat and in the third of trotting around the field on the upper turn was only able to get to the saddle of voltago when that colt won in 2.06 1/2.

In the next heat Maine Lick came from sixth place at the half and won in a nose finish from Voltago. Maine Lick broke a nthe first turn in the third and this time Murphy hustled the ungainly Potbury into the lead.

stretch and won in a drive from Drusloff, the three heat winners raced it out and Maine Lick led all the way. The winner is owned by W. H. Harland of Lockhart, Ala., and was driven by John Thomas.

Single G was looking for pacers to race with each heat of the Free-for-All, pacing the first in 2.00 1/2, after Canady, he had set the early pace. In the second and third heats June was the contender, the mare pacing the last half of the second mile in 57 1/2.

Julia M. Direct, favorite for the 2 1/2 pace, fell by the wayside after winning the second heat, the unknown Dardeno winning.

Lon McDonald, who was very sick early in the week, was back in the sulky yesterday, driving Jeanette Rankin, the beaten favorite, in the 2 1/2 trot.

K. OF C. READY FOR CANTON TOWN TEAM

Famous for its heavy hitting ability, the Canton town team, which comes to Spaulding park tomorrow afternoon to do battle with Manager "Nixey" Coughlin's Knights of Columbus team, will probably attract the largest gathering of fans seen at the park this season.

The Canton team will be captained by the noted Olaf Hendriksen, former Red Sox star, and its lineup will be as follows: Quinn H. F. Coughlin 3b, Hendriksen rf, Sullivan c, Malley ss, M. Coughlin lf, Tucker p, Rutger 2b, Stone 1b, Leary utility.

Manager Coughlin will once more present Jimmy Davidson as his moundman, and the Pitchburg boy is confident that he will be able to mow down his opponents. The game will be called at 3.15 and there will be special car service to and from the grounds.

PREPARING FOR TENNIS BATTLE

Interest Quickened in International Carnival Leading to Davis Cup Contest

Australian Team is Scheduled to Meet Canada Players in Toronto Today

NEW YORK, July 22.—The arrival of the Australian and British tennis teams in this country has quickened interest in the international tennis carnival, which will lead to the challenge round for the Davis Cup at Forest Hills, September 1.

The Australians are scheduled to meet Canada in Toronto today, the matches to decide the British Isles opponent in the second round. The players from the antipodes are the leading favorites over the Canadians. The British-Australian match which will be played at Pittsburgh, Pa., on August 4, 5 and 6 virtually for the championship of the British Empire, is expected to be one of the highlights of the international tennis series.

Although the famous Australian players, Brook and Patterson are missing from the personnel, players of experience are included on the team, which is considered not unlikely to go through to the challenge round. Captain Norman Beach, Joe Anderson, C. V. Todd and J. B. Hawkes compose the quartet.

Represented Australia
Beach and Todd represented Australasia in the match with New Zealand last winter when the Davis cup team of the United States visited there for the challenge round.
Beach, in the opinion of the American team members, is not a formidable player. Captain Sam Hardy of the American team saw him in action against a player of fair ability in Auckland and declared on his return home that Beach would rank about No. 50 in the United States.

Joe Anderson is believed by Norman Brook, the famous veteran, to hold the greatest promise among the younger players in Australasia. He is expected to play an excellent all-around game with more speed and power than his teammates. In the Davis cup challenge round of 1915, he defeated F. G. Lowe of England in five sets, a feat that denotes much ability. C. V. Todd is the youth who defeated Gerald Patterson in the singles championship of New South Wales last winter. Jack Hawkes, a left-handed boy of 20, is also brilliant, possessing a puzzling twist service and a ground stroke and net game which is more than fair.

English Quartet
The English quartet, composed of Captain Maxwell Woosnam, F. G. Lowe, O. G. Neville, Turnbull and J. B. Gilbert combines experience with youth. Lowe and Turnbull have played in many international tournaments. Gilbert was selected only recently to replace Major Cecil Campbell.
Captain Woosnam, although a comparatively new comer in international play, made his mark in the Olympic competition at Antwerp last summer when, paired with Turnbull, he won a gold medal in the doubles tournament. Previously, he won doubles with Turnbull at Eastbourne and Lythe in 1915. He also represented Cambridge against Oxford in 1919. Woosnam is regarded as one of England's best all-around athletes. He represented Cambridge in association football and golf as well as in tennis and has played for the city of Manchester and for England in football.

Attended Cambridge
Lowe, who is 37 years old, attended Cambridge and represented that university against Oxford in 1908. That was two years after this veteran, who learned his tennis at the Queens club and Wimbledon, had won his first open tournament in doubles at Paris, paired with the late Tony Wilding. In 1909, Lowe went to the last eight in the English championships at Wimbledon. He represented England in the Olympic tournament at Stockholm in 1912 and was a member of the English Davis cup team which visited Australia the same year.

O. G. Neville, Turnbull won the doubles with Woosnam at Eastbourne and Hythe in 1912 and represented England in the Davis cup match against France at Deauville in 1919. Last year, he won the gold medal in doubles with Woosnam at the Olympic games and reached the semi-finals in the singles. Last season saw an additional triumph when he captured the doubles championship of Spain with Manuel Alonso at San Sebastian.

NEW BEDFORD HORSES WIN AT FREDERICKTON
FREDERICKTON, N. B., July 22.—W. J. Utton, driver for the Roaring Brook farm stable of Barton, Vt., piloted his two mares from New Bedford, Mass., Males and Nora Hill, to straight heat wins in the 214 trot and 221 pace respectively, at the Maine and New Brunswick circuit races here yesterday. Males trotting to her record of 2:12 1/2 in the first and third heats, and Nora Hill taking a pacing win race of 2:12 1/2, equal to her trotting record. Each heat in the 221 pace was in 2:12 and a fraction and announcement was made that it was the fastest time ever made in the maritime provinces in a race for slow class pacers.

The 217 trot was steaming out to six heats. After the judges read the riot act to the drivers following a 3:22 1/2 opening heat, they speeded up until one heat was made, won by Zelma Strong, although Bingen Worthy finally won the race.

The judges announced that "Bud" Tingley had been fined $75 for failing to drive The Problem to win in the fifth heat of the 215 class on Tuesday, and told the drivers that any further penalties in such cases would be suspensions for the season without option of fines.

LEAGUE FIGHT
EVE OF GAMES

CLEVELAND, July 22.—Today is an open date in the series between the Cleveland Indians and the New York Yankees. The teams will resume their fight for league leadership tomorrow. Catcher Steve O'Neill of the Indians, who has just returned to the game after being out with a broken finger since Memorial Day, has received the following telegram from Howard Ehmke of the Detroit team:

"I wish to congratulate you on getting back into the game and wish you the best of luck the remainder of the season."
It was a ball pitched by Ehmke that injured O'Neill.

SWAMPSCOTT, July 22.—Their training finished, the athletes of Oxford and Cambridge universities and of Harvard and Yale, who will meet tomorrow in an international track and field competition at the Harvard stadium, lolled on the beach or on the porch at their quarters here this morning. The horseplay that has marked the Englishmen's easy mental attitude toward the tests was suspended because of its possibilities of mishaps on the eve of the games. This afternoon most of the Oxford-Cambridge team planned to attend the National league baseball games at Boston between the Pirates and the Braves.

At the start of the race Higgins was outdistanced by Timmy Maloney and Michael Ryan, but he came strong at the finish and won by a substantial margin. Walter Kendall, a 15-year-old contestant, was second and Peter Taccoups third. There were several other contestants. Higgins was trained for the race by Frank Murphy.

LITTLE "JOE" WILL BE WELL CARED FOR

Through the agency of The Sun, Little Joe, bright and lovable 13-year-old lad who had wandered homeless in Lowell for many weeks, is assured of a good home and kindly care until he is old enough to shift for himself. Joe came to police headquarters recently and told of being sent away from his home by his mother, who subsequently disappeared, and of trying to eke out a living unfriended in this city. He finally turned up ragged and hungry to beg for food and shelter. Agent Charles S. Richardson of the Lowell Humane society took charge of the little fellow, and saw to it that he was temporarily cared for. Then the aid of The Sun was invoked, and through the columns of this newspaper it was asked whether some good-hearted farmer didn't have a corner in his home where Joe could stay, at the same time making himself useful about the place. The Sun story touched the hearts of many, and telephone calls and other inquiries began to pour in at the offices of the Humane society. It appeared that Lowell was filled with warm-hearted folks who wanted to care for the homeless little chap. Agent Richardson stated today that the lad will be well taken care of.

WILL STRIVE TO REGAIN
FORMER TITLE

NEW YORK, July 22.—Pete Herman, former world's bantamweight boxing champion, who will strive to regain that title from Joe Lynch in Brooklyn Monday night, arrived today from England on the steamship Orduna.
The little New Orleans scrapper embarked for home immediately after he knocked out Jim Higgins, the English bantamweight champion, in the 11th round of a scheduled 20-round bout on July 11. He has been training during the voyage and reported himself in good shape. He expressed himself as confident that he will be able to turn the tables on the New York bantam to whom he lost the title last December.

Baseball as a national sport originated with the Knickerbocker club of New York in 1845.

THIRTY MEN USED IN A SINGLE GAME

NEW YORK, July 22.—The Cleveland-New York American box score yesterday had much the appearance of two football team lineups with plenty of subs. No less than 30 men were used by both teams, the Yankees putting 15 players in in a vain effort to stave off the worst defeat of the year—17 to 5.
In regaining the coveted first position in the American league race, held by New York for 21 hours, the Cleveland team made it rain base hits, their total being 22 against 16 for the Yankees. Sixteen of the 37 hits were doubles, Joe Sewell, the Alabama collegian, knocking out three. He made two other hits in six trips to the plate.

PRICE OF COAL AT THE MINES PER SHORT TON

Expert Figures Show How Cost Is Increased by Coal Tax Laws—New England Pays $4,000,000 Tribute to Pennsylvania.

In yesterday's article it was shown that the cost of a short ton of anthracite at the mine was $5.11 or $1.01 per short ton to the operator over, and above the cost in 1918.

Today the operator is selling his coal according to conservative railroad coal company prices at $1.30 a ton for egg, stove and chestnut sizes over and above the price in 1918, and $1.70 a ton for pea coal over the 1918 price.

Some Expert Figuring

Figures are not available showing exact falling off in costs for mining materials since Mr. Walker did his figuring, but general information makes it certain that prices of materials have been falling. The only dependable cost reports stopped when the federal trade commission under the court injunction ceased gathering figures. Figures presented by operators with no government authority are naturally apt to be compiled by experts with an eye to presenting phases favorable to the operators. What some of their experts can do in figuring was illustrated in the hearings before the LaFollette investigating committee.

W. J. Thompson, secretary of the Anthracite Coal Operators association, presented two tables of cost and sales figures tending to show that while costs of production had been lower and sales prices lower for individual operators during 1917-1918, the margin of profit was higher than in the period from January, 1919, through October, 1920, when costs were higher and sales prices higher. This feat of making it appear that the margin of profits to operators were lower during the high priced coal days of last year than when the fuel administration was in control was accomplished by excluding the Susquehanna collieries company from the 1917-1918 figures and including it in the 1919-1920 figures.

Walter Y. Durant, expert statistician of the federal trade commission, was not at work and as a result of his investigation and compilation of the figures of the Susquehanna company presented the following figures for January to October, 1920:

As reported by association	Cost	Realization	Margin
After exclusion of Susquehanna	6.05	6.70	.65
After estimated revision of cost	5.78	6.70	.91
After estimated inclusion of washery coal	5.28	6.47	1.19

Two Pennsylvania Taxes

Pennsylvania as a state is aware of the monopoly nature has given it in anthracite and it is constantly alert to make the most of it. Its latest move was the enactment of two tax laws placing upon consumers of domestic sizes of anthracite an additional burden of approximately 25 to 40 cents a ton to be poured into the coffers of the state. One of these laws, which went into effect July 1, gives the mine operator the choice of having his mining operations controlled by mayors, burgesses and township supervisors, supposedly for the purpose of preventing mine cave-ins that will tumble buildings located above the workings into surface holes, or of submitting to a 2 per cent tax on the value of all coal at the mine, the money thus secured to be used to compensate any property owners who may suffer damage. There is no question but that, rather than submit to control, the operator in every case will pay. It is to be noted in regard to this legislation that only the property above the mines around the Scranton region is in danger of cave damage, yet the mines in the mountainous lower regions from which so much anthracite comes and above which are no buildings at all are levied upon just the same. The second law goes into effect late in August. It calls for payment of 1 1/2 per cent tax on the value of all anthracite coal at the mine, the income to be applied frankly to help Pennsylvania raise money for state purposes. The state mines great quantities of bituminous coal also, but this will suffer no tax for the very good reason that bituminous coal is found in many other states and would limp to market under a handicap if taxed as anthracite is taxed.

Men who hold their ears close to the ground to follow the machinations of Pennsylvania politics state that the coal tax laws were forged in a clever scheme of Governor Spruel and State Senator Crow, who are playing a team against Senator Bolso Penrose and Secretary of State Philander C. Knox. Governor Spruel is reported to be seeking to succeed Penrose as national senator and with State Senator Crow seeks to work the Pennsylvania political machine out of the hands of the two men who now control it. The governor and state senator have made themselves strong with voters in the mining counties and in other counties also through laws that thus throw burdens of contributing to Pennsylvania's treasury upon coal consumers located outside the state.

Operators state that domestic sizes, which run about seven tons in every 10 tons will have to carry the entire load of these taxes because steam sizes, being sold in competition with bituminous coal will not stand price increases. It is estimated that the 1 1/2 per cent tax will bring about $10,000,000 into the strong boxes of Pennsylvania and the 2 per cent tax about $12,000,000. New England will pay approximately $4,000,000 of this tribute to Pennsylvania.

Operators state frankly that the tax will fall entirely upon the consumer as the full amount of it is to be added to the price of coal. Operators did fight the passing of these laws, however, and now state that they plan to fight their constitutionality in the courts. Massachusetts at this writing is also threatening to get an injunction against the state of Pennsylvania to prevent the collection of these taxes for coal going into that state.

Another Fat Royalty

For years Pennsylvania as a state and particularly Philadelphia have profited by a royalty system by which the Girard estate, the biggest holder of leased coal lands, progressively piles up millions at the expense of anthracite coal buyers. Stephen Girard left to the city of Philadelphia in trust 450 acres of rich coal lands, the income to be used for the education of boys of that state. The number of boys was limited so that the "directors of city trusts" in whose hands the administration of the funds rests have for years found the trust accumulating millions more than could be used for the purpose outlined by the donor. This money goes through Philadelphia banks giving them a leading power that is a tremendous asset in city and state. The higher the price of the coal, the stiffer the royalty under the Girard plan of royalty. Coal consumers who may be interested to know what they are contributing are invited to note how the revenue to the Girard estate has increased threefold in the past five years:

Year	Per Ton Royalty Rate
1915	$.53
1916	.52
1917	.60
1918	.74
1919	.84
1920	1.04
Total royalties for three years as follows:
1915	$1,099,255.54
1916	1,247,947.11
1917	1,512,522.56

COMPENSATION FOR LOWELL WOMAN

According to a finding just handed down by the department of industrial accidents, Mrs. Albina Bernard of 45 Campaw street, widow of Evaristo Bernard, who was injured some months ago in the Saco-Lowell shops and who later died, is to receive compensation in the sum of $1423.83. Mrs. Bernard appeared this morning at the office of City Solicitor Regan and executed an agreement for redemption of liability by the payment of the lump sum.

After Mr. Bernard was injured several months ago he recovered sufficiently to return to work for a short time but later he had to leave his employment and was committed to a hospital for the insane. He died a short time afterward.

Mrs. Bernard has been receiving widow's aid from the city for some time. City Solicitor Regan appeared for her and for the city at the hearing which was held five months ago before Frank J. Donahue, who is a member of the industrial accident board. The finding was just handed down. Mr. Regan this morning refused a fee of $200 for his services.

UNITED TEXTILE WORKERS CONVENTION

The biennial convention of the United Textile Workers of America, which was scheduled to be held at Knoxville, Tenn., on the second Monday in September has been called off at the request of the unions of that city, who have requested the executive board of the organization to select another place for the deliberations of the convention. The reason given, it is said, is that there is a big textile strike now going on at Knoxville, and the lack of proper accommodations for the many delegates.

As a result of the request of the Knoxville unions, the officers of the United Textile Workers of America have sent letters to the members of the executive committee, requesting them to select a place for the convention and New York and Philadelphia seem to be the two leading cities for the next convention with Philadelphia in the lead. John Hanley of this city is a member of the executive board of the national organization and he stated today that he does not believe the date of the convention will be changed.

"Brownie" Papers

Continued

The papers obtained, the highwaymen turned toward their car. Holmes said he and Kelley jumped out of their automobile, Kelley firing at one of the men. He struck him, he was certain.

Robbers Turned Back

The robbers turned back, knocked Kelley down, disarmed him and returned to their automobile. It was only a few moments before the highwaymen were off up the road in their automobile.

The highwaymen had made no attempt to disable the agents' car and they followed them as soon as they could. For an hour they sought to pick up the trail, but lost it and returned to the scene of the holdup, they said. There search was made for Kelley's revolver, but it could not be found and Holmes said he went immediately after that to the Haverhill police station.

Presented Credentials

To Captain M. A. Sullivan he presented credentials as special agents of the attorney, said he was carrying a deposition by "Brownie" Kennedy that had been taken from him, related the story of the holdup and asked for assistance in running down the robbers. Captain Sullivan said he communicated at once with the attorney general who confirmed the fact that Holmes was in his service, and a search was begun. It developed no trace of the fugitives although extensive investigation on one side and over a wide territory on the other. Police and hospital authorities in many places were notified to be on the lookout for a party such as Holmes and Kelley described, including a man probably wounded in the groin.

Sought Deposition

The Mishawum Manor case, in connection which the attorney general has sought a deposition from "Brownie" Kennedy, has been a center of popular interest and of judicial consideration in the charges on which Mr. Allen has based a petition for District Attorney Tufts' removal. It concerns a party at Mishawum Manor, a Woburn roadhouse of which "Brownie" was the head, in March, 1917, attended by Hiram Abrams, Adolph Zukor, Jesse Lasky and others prominent in the motion picture world. Complaints were made of the actions of the men and women present. The attorney general alleges that District Attorney Tufts entered into a conspiracy with certain attorneys and others by which, under threats of prosecution $105,000 was extorted from the motion picture magnates. A deposition by Abrams was presented last week to show that he paid approximately that amount in several installments.

The whereabouts of "Brownie" Kennedy has been understood to be in doubt for several months. She has been variously reported in Oklahoma, at New York, bound for Europe, and at an unnamed place near this city. She was formerly a resident in cities and towns in eastern Massachusetts, but almost invariably those who knew her in other years have said they understood she was maintaining none of her former New England connections.

Police Investigate

The police of Haverhill and Lawrence were engaged in an investigation of the affair today. They were unable to find any clue to the highwaymen's automobile described by Holmes and Kelley, examination of the place where they said the holdup occurred developing no marks to assist in running the car down. Officials of both cities said they were investigating various details of the accounts given by the men. Capt. I. D. Hovey of the local police said that the inquiry of that department had developed nothing to substantiate the story.

No Statement By Allen

BOSTON, July 22.—Attorney General Allen today characterized as not of importance the incident reported to involve robbery of a deposition by "Brownie" Kennedy. The attorney general who was preparing to continue presentation of his charges of irregularity against District Attorney Tufts before the supreme court, said: "I have no statement to make on the matter because I have no information on it other than from the press. But so far as the present case is concerned, I think the matter is not one of importance." At the attorney's office, it was said that Holmes had offered his services to Mr. Allen several weeks ago, saying he could get important information on a certain phase of the Tufts case. This phase was said to involve "Brownie" Kennedy. His offer was accepted, and the attorney general has received reports from him from time to time. Beyond this information, no one at the state house would discuss the matter today.

COTTON IN DANGER.

Boll Weevil Making Great Inroads on Crop

(By Newspaper Enterprise)
MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 22.—Hot, dry weather this month and August is necessary to save the south's cotton crop. This is the consensus of opinion among the agricultural extension forces of the cotton belt.

It damp, cool weather should develop in the next two months.

The weevil multiplies rapidly and spreads over vast territory in cool, damp weather. Hot, dry weather retards the weevil's progress and destroys the young.

The weevil is now worse than ever before in history, says Dr. E. R. Lloyd, director of the Memphis Farm Bureau, who has just completed a tour of the cotton belt.

Dr. Lloyd found the cotton crop from three to five weeks late in some localities. In sections of Mississippi, Arkansas, Tennessee and Alabama hundreds of acres of cotton are being plowed up by the farmers and fall feed crops planted.

These farmers have been advised to take such action by the agricultural extension forces of the various states, due to the small stand of cotton.

Southern farm life today is far different from one year ago. Last year cotton prices were good, but many farmers held their crops for higher prices. Today farmers shelter hundreds of bales that last year would have brought 40 to 80 cents a pound, but today could not be sold for 15 cents.

This year's cotton crop will be the cheapest raised in history. The country schools were closed early so the children might enter the fields. There is plenty of labor at $1 per day, compared with $3 per day last year.

HELD FOR GRAND JURY IN STOCK CASE

LAWRENCE, July 22.—Fred Fontaine has been held in $500 bonds for the grand jury by Judge J. J. Mahoney in the district court. He is charged with obtaining money under false pretenses. It is alleged he sold shares of stock in the Lynnway Aerial Transportation company by misrepresenting the assets of the company, and also in Merrimack Park.

He said that he never misrepresented the value of the stock he was selling. He admitted that the company did not own as many machines as he told investors, but said that the company intended to purchase the machines, and so he believed he was within his rights in saying that they were numbered among the company's investments. Fontaine is an officer in the company.

He admitted that he had no connection with Merrimack Park, but said his company was thinking of getting control of it, so he thought he was justified in saying that it had control.

CALLS FOR RETURN TO PRE-WAR RATES

CONCORD, N. H., July 22.—The annual convention of the New Hampshire Federation of Labor closed yesterday afternoon with the re-election of John L. Barry of Manchester as president. Walter H. Melrose of Portsmouth was out in the only contest of the day, that for first vice-president.

Mrs. Helen A. Knight of Manchester, the only woman delegate, who was chosen fourth vice-president, was presented by the convention with a wrist watch.

The paper mill strikers at Berlin and Litchfield, who voted $100 each from the state treasury of the association and their cause was supported in resolutions adopted.

Resolutions were adopted requesting the public service commission to revoke all rate increases granted to street railways, electric and gas utilities during the war, urging Congress to modify the Volstead act so that beers and light wines may be dispensed and pledging support to union made goods.

CITY FATHERS AND SCRIBES ON OUTING

Members of the municipal council and the local newspapermen who "cover" city hall enjoyed an outing today at Rye Point, N. H. The scribes and councilmen left city hall shortly after 9:30 in a group of machines and the trip over the road was most delightful. At noon one of the famous Rye lobster dinners was enjoyed and later in the day the picnickers went in bathing at one of the nearby beaches.

COMPANY G OUTING

About 50 members of Company G, State Guard Veterans association, attended the outing which was held at the Martin Luther grounds in Tyngsboro yesterday afternoon and evening and all enjoyed the affair immensely. Upon reaching the grounds the excursionists were served a substantial dinner and the meal was followed by a varied program of sports. At 6:30 o'clock a clam bake was served and later entertainment numbers were given on the club veranda by Priv. Albert L. Mertrude and Corp. Alvah Burgess. The festivities were presided over by Capt. Royal P. White. The committee in charge consisted of Lieutenants Edward W. Daley, Stevens and Sergt. W. N. Goodell.

A window at the rear of the building, which is located near the city line, was the means of entry used. Mr. Slavery states that he has informed the police of the affair, and that it is in their hands.

Tufts Case Continued

Der of Dist. Atty. A. Tufts, communicated by Capt. Herbert Gordon, according to testimony given in the proceedings yesterday by Chief of Police George E. Kerr of Melrose.

Gordon informed the witness that the men were going to surrender, he testified, and later he learned from Deputy Dist. Atty. Frederick Fosdick, now judge of the superior court, that Mr. Tufts had taken the cases out of his hands.

When asked Mr. Fosdick about Perry and Barry surrendering, the witness related, "and he told me he hadn't heard anything, and I better return the warrants."

For Not Serving

"Was any reason ever assigned for not serving them?" inquired Atty. Gen. J. Weston Allen, who conducted the examination.

"I think once Mr. Tufts told me he was going to make the restitution and he named one Geo. Gray in Maine and Joseph Gibbons in Melrose to whom Collamore (Daniel K. Collamore, also indicted) had a car."

The testimony bore on Mr. Allen's charge that Mr. Tufts has failed to apprehend and arraign defendants secretly indicted, although they were in his jurisdiction.

fruitless Conversation

A fruitless conversation with Mr.

Tufts in an attempt to induce him to prosecute the "Perry-Barry auto ring" during which the district attorney declared that the evidence against them was that of "accomplices and stool pigeons," whom he did not believe, was repeated by Attorney Ralph C. Mulligan of Natick, son of Judge Mulligan.

Mr. Mulligan had gone to the district attorney in behalf of his client, Frank B. Robinson of Natick, who had purchased five cars that later proved to have been stolen. He told Mr. Tufts that he wanted Barry and Perry sent to state prison, and that the police had traced 200 stolen cars to this gang.

Corcoran Had Promised

Tufts replied, he said, that William J. Corcoran, former district attorney and counsel in the case, had promised him that the men would quit, and that he regarded it his duty as much to prevent crime as to punish offenders.

"If there is any evidence that they are still at it I might take a different view," Tufts was quoted as saying.

Mr. Mulligan then replied with reference to "ugly rumors" that the defendants had hired Mr. Corcoran to represent them in Middlesex county and Daniel H. Conkley in Suffolk county and had "rather boasted of immunity."

Mr. Tufts' answer was repeated carefully by the witness.

"He said he had been in politics many years and a district attorney always has to take some libelous slander, that eight out of 10 lawyers tell their clients they have to divide with him or someone in order to justify their exorbitant fees. If people think we're grafters, do they think we'd be grafted with such pickers as these?" he said.

"He stated that Harris offered Corcoran $50,000 to keep him out of prison, but it did him no good, that they were going to get him, and when Harris with his money and influence was put away it would be an effective answer to the people who talk about fixing the district attorney and a salutary lesson to those automobile thieves."

Mention of Harris

The mention of "Harris" was understood to refer to the case of Samuel C. Harris, wealthy Boston horse dealer, who in 1919 was convicted of automobile theft conspiracy and served eight months of a three-year term in the house of correction after which he was pardoned.

"It is true, is it not, that your client received a certain sum in restitution?" asked Melvin M. Johnson in cross-examination.

"Yes, from you, Mr. Johnson," smiled the witness.

"And I paid that as the representative of George T. Perry?" pursued Mr. Johnson, returning the grin. "And all that Weisberg were charged with long before I became counsel for Mr. Tufts?"

"You did. But it was so infinitesimal that it was hardly restitution," Mr. Mulligan added.

Perry's Representative

Almost of equal interest to the spectators crowded in the courtroom was the confession of one Joseph Levine that he had been hired to bring about the burning of houses in Newton by Joseph Rudnick, wealthy Boston real estate operator. The confession was introduced by Mr. Allen as a sample of the evidence in possession of Mr. Tufts in the so-called Newton arson cases, which Tufts is charged with failing to prosecute "from improper motives."

One of Several Cases

In one of several cases Joseph Rudnick, Carl Rudnick, Atty. Chas. Weisberg and Benjamin D. Solomon were charged with conspiracy to burn a dwelling on Feb. 16, 1917, and Levine with being accessory; and in another Johnson, returning the grin, "And all that Weisberg were charged with

THIN PEOPLE

There are 30,000,000,000,000 Red Cornicles in your blood and each one must have vitamins before you can have health.

If you are thin, scrawny, haggard and rundown looking, and no matter how much you spend in clothes they fail to make you look dressed up and fashionable and you know the chief contributory cause of your wretchedly poor appearance is lack of normal weight, you should eat more vitamins containing vegetables such as lettuce, spinach and apples, and reinforce them from time to time when eating your meals with a little MEDIC-YEST, which is rich in vitamins, "the solid of the food," so well spoken of by scientists and chemists as a vital food element.

If you want to put on good solid, firm, lasting flesh and build your body to normal weight, you should obtain from your druggist a package of pleasant, harmless, health-giving nourishment in the form of Medicinal Yeast under the name of MEDIC-YEST. MEDIC-YEST represents vitamins in such a highly concentrated form that one dose of it is estimated to be approximately equal (in vitamin content) to conspiracy to steal from creditors from May to November, 1918.

Levine's confession, which his lawyer, James S. Cannon, gave to Mr. Tufts when Levine turned state's evidence, set forth in brief:

A curious juggling of funds in the purchase of Newton property in Levine's name, in which he claims to have been the "straw" man.

A charge of manipulation in the building of a house by Carl and Jos. Rudnick with the purpose "after they got into the creditors sufficiently to wipe them out by foreclosure."

A declaration that Joseph Rudnick told him to go out and get someone to burn down a building and later paid him money for the job.

Weisberg's Statement

Weisberg's statement that he set the fire and was paid some $50 for it was also introduced in evidence and Weisberg himself assented to it upon the witness stand.

Mr. Cannon, the attorney, later admitted that Mr. Tufts had demurred on the question of prosecution because the Rudnicks and Solomon were "men of property and force" in the community; that the only evidence against them was that of Levine, a confessed conspirator, and Weisberg, a jailbird, and he was afraid "Tom" Proctor, the lawyer, would shoot his case full of holes.

Capt. Patrick J. Hurley of the Cambridge police was called again by Allen in an effort to show that Tufts had not acted properly in the case of William J. Downey, who was found guilty in the lower court of attempted robbery from the Charles River Trust company.

Mr. Johnson, for Tufts, introduced a letter to Chief McBride of the Cambridge police asking him to use every effort to apprehend Downey, who had defaulted his bail.

BANISHING THE CLASSICS

It is surprising to find some college professors advocating a departure from the policy of making the classics the fundamental branches in college courses. The men who take this stand must have had little acquaintance with the classics, or else they have become helpless and hopeless devotees of the utilitarian in education.

The advocates of extreme modernity in education scout the value of classical studies for intellectual development. In that they are in error, in the classic literature of Greece and Rome, there are models of excellence that have rarely been equaled by the moderns who have had these precious masterpieces as an inspiration to go higher. Yet it is a fact that Homer, Virgil, Horace and Xenophon are recognized models in poetry, while other great writers such as Hesiod, Pindar, Aeschylus, Sophocles, Euripides, Herodotus, Aristophanes, Thucydides, Theophrastus and Plutarch were all authors whose works are in many respects unexcelled and but rarely equaled by modern writers.

The oratory of Demosthenes and Cicero reverberates down the ages and even today the highest compliment that can be paid to any modern orator is to compare him to one or other of the two great masters of classic eloquence.

Daniel Webster and Wendell Phillips were probably our two best orators; but Edmund Burke and Henry Grattan were their equals in all that makes the orator of power and yet Wendell Phillips classed Daniel O'Connell above any of our American orators of the abolition period. Other nations, of course, produced great orators; but the fact remains, that in matter none has surpassed the orators of antiquity, while in delivery the ancients in all probability excelled.

The eminence of classic authors of ancient times, shows that the human intellect has not progressed any great extent since then, in art or literature.

The ancients, however, were very backward in scientific knowledge. Imagine an aqueduct built over any modern city to convey a water supply. The ancients did not then realize that water finds its own level. It is true that Archimedes gave us the lever and the screw and that Euclid advanced the science of geometry to a degree not much improved upon today; but, nevertheless, all the scientific discoveries of the ancients would not make a corollary to the discoveries of modern scientists and mathematicians. The advance made in astronomy, in the physical sciences and the application of modern discoveries in practical inventions have so far eclipsed the works of the ancients that there can be no comparison.

But our superiority in scientific lore should not induce us to disparage what the classics can teach us in the fields of literature. To put aside the classics would be to close the door against one of our greatest sources of intellectual culture. To countenance any such movement in the great universities shows a downward tendency in education and a deplorable weakness in pandering to the demands of people who have no conception of the intellectual benefits derived from classical studies.

RECKLESS DRIVERS

Here is an item that should receive attention throughout the state as indicating a tendency in the right direction in dealing with reckless drivers of automobiles:

Worcester, July 20.—Norman L. Jackson, Chandler street, Worcester, was fined $700 in Clinton district court by Judge Jonathan Smith on the charge of recklessly operating his automobile. An appeal was taken and bail in $1,000 furnished. The alleged offense took place in Boylston, June 25, when Barbara, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Knight of Boylston, was killed.

Many accidents of a similar kind have occurred in Lowell; but in no case have we heard of any such fine as this. In most cases, the reckless driver is acquitted of the charge of driving at such a degree of recklessness as would justify his indictment on the charge of manslaughter. But if the degree of recklessness were sufficient to cause the death of a person legally using the highways, it is difficult to see the justice of finding that there is no criminal liability except for violating the speed of a car. If there has been contributory negligence on the part of the person killed, then the driver cannot be held as entirely responsible. But if while driving at thirty miles an hour where the speed limit is fifteen, an autolite accidentally kills a person on the highway, the question arises, is the driver responsible for the death of that person? That is a question on which there seems to be a difference of opinion; and it would be well for Registrar Goodwin to have it decided by the highest authorities. If the killing of one person by an autolite driving in violation of the law, does not sustain a charge of manslaughter, how many persons would he have to kill while operating at the same rate of speed before he would have reached the degree of reckless and wanton disregard of the public safety that under the present application of the law would hold him liable for manslaughter?

PRICE OF COAL

About this time of year every household is interested in the price of coal. Those who want information upon this subject should read the articles now running in The Sun, written by E. Robert Stevenson of Waterbury, Conn., who was commissioned to investigate the coal question by the New England Newspaper Alliance, of which The Sun is a member. Mr. Stevenson went to the coal mines in different states and then to Washington and other points from which the most reliable information could be obtained upon the production of bituminous and anthracite coal, the cost of production, the cost of transportation to different points in New England, the cost of coal at the mines and the cost on delivery in the city of Worcester, which may be taken as the central point of New England.

Mr. Stevenson has already shown that there can be no real ground for expecting any sudden reduction in the price of coal. The wages of the miners will not change until 1922 and there is no immediate prospect of the reduction of freight rates which it was hoped might bring down the price of coal.

In spite of this, however, the public has been holding back on purchasing its coal with the result that there is danger of a repetition of what happened last year, when toward the fall, orders that had been held back during the summer, began to pour in upon the coal dealers. The result was, that the railroads were unable to handle the shipments as fast as required. In some parts of the country there was a real shortage, simply because the orders were not sent along early enough to give the railroads a chance to deliver the coal. The result was, what is known as a runaway market, in which both dealers and speculators took advantage of the public to jump the price of coal to extraordinary figures.

Secretary Hoover of the department of commerce is evidently afraid that there will be a repetition of that situation this fall and for this reason, he advises all public utilities to lay in their winter supply of coal as soon as possible. This is sound advice and should be heeded by the corporations concerned.

TO HELP OUR FOREIGN TRADE

Secretary Hoover sent an agent to Europe to study methods of improving our foreign trade and he is now ready to report. He recommends that American banks be established abroad, that we train agents in the art of selling and then control our shipping facilities. He would have American merchants establish flour mills in Genoa and Messina. He also points out the necessity of railroads in the big ports of the world in order to prevent American ships from being held up awaiting a supply. He also advises the United States to take advantage of the coal business, now so important in other countries.

These recommendations are all good; but they are not likely to be carried out by private parties; and it is announced that Uncle Sam is going out of the shipping business. One of the chief difficulties in promoting our foreign trade is the higher price charged for American goods than for those of competing nations. The high tariff proposed will make that discrepancy worse than it is at present. The recommendations made by this agent are chiefly ones to which the government should give its attention; but it is not in a position to do anything of the kind at present.

DISARMAMENT

It is announced that the League of Nations will devise a plan of disarmament to be submitted to the assembly at its meeting in Geneva in September. The suggestion that the league defer action to await the result of the Washington disarmament council was rejected on the ground that the subject is so important and so difficult of solution that it requires the attention of all the bodies that can be enlisted to aid in reaching a satisfactory conclusion acceptable to the majority. Belgium and Holland now want to be represented at the Washington conference, the former as the greatest victim of militarism, and the latter because of her scattered colonial possessions in the Pacific. Apparently the difficulty will be in keeping the Washington conference small enough to be manageable. If the movement keeps on, the disarmament conference may merge into the League of Nations, or else the power that assumes to lead in that movement will consent to enter the league. Already the sentiment prevails in Washington that Secretary Hughes and President Harding are drifting in that direction.

GRECO-TURKISH WAR

The war which has been going on for months between the Kemalists in Turkey and the Greeks is an affair of much greater magnitude than the people of this country realize. If there were not so many other great events occurring throughout the world, this Greco-Turk war would be considered news of the first importance.

The great European powers are becoming alarmed lest the Turks under Kemal follow up the advantage they have already gained by making Constantinople and the Dardanelles untenable for allied troops and ships and thus upset the whole settlement of the Near East question.

There seems little doubt that the situation has developed into one of great seriousness.

Greece is fighting hard and winning some victories, but she has suffered a great many reverses. Some authorities claim her losses thus far exceed $60,000.

It is estimated that the total loss of life directly due to the war was at least a million up to July 1. And the end is not in sight.

Those who have due regard for the service men should turn in the five dollar tax before August 1. It cannot aid the soldiers now as the money has been distributed; but the ready payment of the tax will show an appreciation of the cause for which the tax is imposed.

Saidem does that state official advise a boycott; but that is what is favored by the commission on the necessities of life against the Boston profiteers in ice cream. Buyers control the market and if the demand be cut down, the prices will soon follow.

Fire in the Mexican oil wells seems to be an outcome of President Obregon's policy of imposing heavy taxes on American plants and then compelling the companies to pay their employees while idle on account of the heavy impost. Obregon is showing antipathy to Americans that may still further widen the breach.

"Another Con Game on the Market," says a Sun headline, and the story doesn't even refer to the attempt to convince people of Lowell the present city charter is better than the proposed new one.

It would not be strange if the Lowell young woman who received a poll tax bill wished that, for the time being, she were a man. In order that she might with propriety give expression to her thoughts.

SEEN AND HEARD

The Lowell young woman who received the poll tax bill is going to have it framed.

The woman want to vote, but they don't like the idea of digging down in their long silk purse for a five spot to cover a poll tax bill. Equal rights—minus poll tax!

Telltale Pallor

In a western town they tell a story of a woman newly come into money, who on one occasion while visiting in the house of a friend, gazed long and thoughtfully at a plaster cast of Shakespeare. Then she sighed and remarked: "Poor man! How pale he looked! He couldn't have been well when that was taken. 'He wasn't'!" agreed the polite hostess. "He was dead," continued the woman, drawing a sympathetic breath, "that accounts for it."—Washington Post.

The Smiths Have It

They are the most prominent American family. More than 150,000 of them—five army divisions—fought for America in the war, according to recently announced statistics. They are in congress. They may be found in nearly every state legislature and on every police force. Other families might leave this city in a body and their departure would scarcely be noticed, but suppose all the Smiths left! The Smiths is the only family sufficient unto itself, for were they to separate themselves from the rest of the community they could get along very well, what with their laborers, merchants, doctors, lawyers, preachers and teachers. You've gotta hand it to 'em.

Not Even a Drink

Two stenographers went out walking the other night with a very particular young lawyer. Now they had given him many informal dinners and supposed that he intended to do something due to show his appreciation for their favors. But he economically walked them around one block after another and finally, after almost two hours' walking, started them home. Then the most independent one could stand it no longer. "Carrie," she said, solemnly, "don't you suppose we're going to even have a drink this evening?" Coolly the young man replied: "Why, certainly you are. There's where I'm taking you now—round past my mother's home. She has a well of the best water in the state."—Indianapolis News.

Railroad War Nearer

A young man was spending an early vacation in the country, working about the country lanes. In an endeavor to hide from himself entirely all town life or anything which reminded him of town life. Chancing across a country postman, he stopped him and asked what time it was. Pulling out his watch, the postman deliberately replied: "It's 4 o'clock in the afternoon by the railway time." "By railway time?" ejaculated the young man. "I should say that you country folk, living in the open air, in the heart of the country as you do, would take your time from the sun." "What for?" asked the rural postman. "Beant we much closer to the railway—even if it be 12 miles—than we be to the sun?"

Just False Alarm

"Hiram!" whispered Mrs. Hiram Bonehead loudly, as she stood over her husband and shook him forcibly by the shoulders.

"Hiram!" she howled in his capacious ear. "I hear noises—somebody's stealin' the chickens! Get up!" When the full meaning of his wife's words reached his brain 10 minutes later he arose slowly and said "Heck!" Then he crawled into his ample trousers and dragged himself sleepily to the door, picked up the railroad signal lantern they used for a night light in the hall, and went downstairs. He stood out in the moonlight and listened.

"Suddenly is somebody in that thar coop," he muttered to himself, yawning mightily as the noises among the chickens grew louder, what with the cackles and squawks and clapping of wings and everything.

"The idea of making a fellow git up out uv bed just to see who's snoopin' around," grumbled Hiram.

Deciding that his wife expected him to do something, Hiram Bonehead straightened up.

"Who's there?" he howled out, with his hand behind his ear in a listening attitude.

"Dere abn' nobody here 'ceptin' us chickens," called back a voice from the coop.

Satisfied that all was well, Hiram Bonehead went back to bed again.—Detroit Free Press.

The Band Concert

In the dusk of summer evening, After breathless, sultry day, When the lights begin to twinkle In the village great white way, Then the square is filled with people Pacing gaily to and fro, And around the sides are parking Automobiles in a row.

Underneath two elms outspreading Like a canopy of green, On an elevated platform Men in uniform are seen: And the leader, tripping lightly In a quick, commanding way, Brings a sudden burst of music As the band begins to play.

Powder, rouged and lipstick'd charmers Stroll in couples up and down, Bubbled and garbed as to tresses And disapprobation of gown. Skilfully chattering and giggling, For a fatuous youth hunt they To provide ice cream and candy When the band begins to play.

Babes in carriages are yelling, They prefer to be at home, And drowsy neurotic ladies Where their parents choose to roam. Children of assorted sizes Race in everybody's way, Starting up an awful racket When the band begins to play.

Perky matrons stop to visit Through selections soft and low, And in loudly carrying voices Tell each other all they know. Cars continually are honking That they want the song of way When humanity is thickest.

Finally, at strains familiar, With a sort of sheepish air— Your New Englander would rather Fight than his emotions bare— Men are silent, heads uncovered, Tribses revert to ray.

To the grand "Star Spangled Banner" That the band begins to play. —GEORGE WHITE, in Springfield (N.Y.) Reporter.

Troubles Gone and Hard Work Seems Easy, He Feels So Fine, Says Munsell

"Even before I opened my second bottle of Tanlac I was feeling better, and now I'm just like a brand new man," said Henry T. Munsell, residing at 86 Reed st., Springfield, Mass. "About a year ago I began to feel so run down I seemed to have no life left in me. I went to work in a half-hearted way, and it looked like the days would never end. My stomach was out of order, and often I got so dizzy I couldn't stand up. My appetite was so poor it took but very little for me to get, and I suffered quite a lot from gas on my stomach. My sleep seemed to do me no good, and mornings I felt so weak I could hardly walk to my work. Then, too, I was suffering from static rheumatism, which had tortured me off and on for 20 years.

"Some of my friends got after me to try Tanlac, so I got a bottle, and it helped me so much I got another, and then another and kept on taking it until now I am eating just fine, and that heavy, druggy feeling has disappeared entirely. My rheumatism is almost gone, too, and I can do the hardest kind of a day's work without being tired out. Tanlac is the greatest medicine I ever saw or heard of."

Tanlac is sold in Lowell by Green's drug store under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative, by Wright Drug Co., Billerica, Mass.; A. D. Falls, Chelmsford, Mass.; Snow's Pharmacy, Concord, Mass., and by the leading druggists in every town.—Adv.

HIBERNIANS SEND PLEDGE

TO DE VALERA

DETROIT, July 22.—A pledge of support for Eamon de Valera and the other leaders in the movement for Irish independence was given by the Ancient Order of Hibernians, in convention yesterday afternoon.

The following message, signed by James E. Deery of Indianapolis, president of the order, was sent De Valera:

"The Ancient Order of Hibernians of America, in convention assembled at Detroit, Mich., greet you, and through you, the Dal Eireann, and congratulate you on your honest, fearless and successful leadership, and pledge you unlimited support in your honorable efforts for the recognition of the Irish republic."

All the present officers of the organization were nominated for second terms without opposition yesterday. Besides Mr. Deery, the officers are: Edward Dwyer of Boston and Dr. Keane of Montreal, vice presidents; John O'Dea, Philadelphia, secretary; John Sheehy, Montgomery, Minn., treasurer; Rt. Rev. Michael J. Gallagher, Detroit, chaplain.

Michael J. Slattery of Washington, a representative of the National Catholic Welfare council, in an address, declared the greatest problems faced by the council are Americanization and educational work.

PROTECTIVE TARIFF BILL

PASSES HOUSE

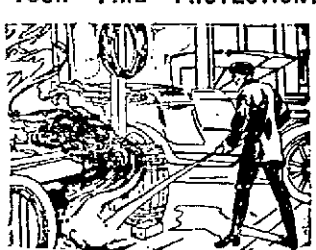

WASHINGTON, July 22.—The republican protective tariff bill, estimated by Chairman Borah to raise around $500,000,000 in revenue annually, was passed last night by the house by a vote of 233 to 127—precisely the vote by which a democratic motion for elimination of its American valuation provision was defeated.

Seven republicans voted against the measure, while the same number of democrats supported it.

Oil, hides, cotton and asphalt stood up against a determined fight to tax them and remained on the free list. The Longworth dye embargo, first of the five contested schedules to go before the house proper for a separate vote, and backed by most of the republican members of the ways and means committee, was thrown out, 205 to 123.

WHAT IS YOUR FIRE PROTECTION?

Do not consider insurance a physical fire protection. It is but a financial repatriation for loss and in no way prevents the danger, inconvenience and destruction caused by conflagration.

Our fire extinguishers do not attempt to take the place of a trained fire department, but are perfected to effectually and instantly extinguish any kind of incipient blaze. They are especially designed to fight fires of oil, gasoline, chemicals or electric arcs. Fires of this type cannot be drenched out—they must be smothered in their incipient stages. Water and other fluids conduct electricity and spread blazing chemicals.

Wants Addresses of Handwriting Experts

CHICAGO, July 22.—A letter from Emma R. Burkett, of Hillsdale, Ind., who asserted that Theodore Roosevelt had refused to pay a $50,000 obligation to her, was received today by a detective bureau here. She asks the address of three Chicago handwriting experts who, she asserts, will prove that the signature of the paper she holds is really that of the late president. The letter is from the Tombs in New York, where Mrs. Burkett was imprisoned following complaint of the executors of the Roosevelt estate that her claim was fraudulent.

OWEN MOORE'S HONEYMOON

NEW PROBLEM FOR NAVY EXPERTS TO SOLVE

NORFOLK, Va., July 22.—With the former German dreadnaught Ostfriesland at the bottom of the Atlantic as the result of one-ton aerial bombs exploding alongside of her, naval experts of this and other countries will turn their attention to the problem of protecting the capital ship from this form of attack.

The construction of a hull which could weather explosions alongside of such force was regarded as practically impossible. Some naval officers made an effort to disguise their surprise that the Ostfriesland fell victim to an aerial attack. Others, however, had said that if large bombs landed close by the ship the hull would give way. They pointed out that the one-ton bombs contained 250 pounds of TNT as against 230 pounds in a torpedo and 200 pounds in the larger mines.

MAY BRING SUIT AGAINST DAIRY FARM

Suit may be instituted against a Dairy farm of this section, as the result of a case in the police court this morning in which Frank Trull, a well known local milk dealer, was fined $10 after state officers found a sample of his milk below standard. Judge Enright, in imposing the fine, declared that he could not see how Trull was culpable, as he apparently purchased the milk in good faith from a farm, paying the regular price for it. Trull argued in his defense that he was in no way responsible, as he was paying for legal milk and naturally expected to secure the genuine article. It was suggested by the court that it might be possible to bring civil proceedings against the party purveying the inferior milk to him, and Mr. Trull announced at the close of the court session that he intended to consult with his attorney, and contemplated seeking damages. The state official who brought the complaint agreed that the violation was a technical one, but urged upon the court that the law as it stands makes liable anyone who sells milk below standard, whatever their moral responsibility may be. The law penalizes not only the actual producer, but the middleman, and likewise the retail storekeeper on whose premises is found exposed for sale milk which does not bear the test of analysis for the proper amount of nutritive and other ingredients.

Judge Enright stated that in view of this wording of the law, it was necessary to impose a fine, regardless of circumstances which seemed to free the defendant from any suspicion of voluntary violation of the law. John J. Kennedy, another dealer who told the court that he was in the same position as Mr. Trull, was also fined $10.

Loss of Vast Sum in Wages

and duplication in bidding, was said to run into millions. Acute Housing Shortage

An acute national shortage of housing exists, the report stated, because of prohibitive construction costs to householder and banker.

Many union rules were condemned as "absolutely wrong" and both employers and employees were blamed for restriction of output.

The report deplored the irregularity of employment for building trade workmen, declaring that they were busy only on an average of about 150 days in a year. It recommended the following means of reducing seasonal unemployment:

To Cut Salaries of Railroad Executives

NEW YORK, July 22.—Financial circles estimated today that the expenses of railroads throughout the United States would be reduced shortly $5,000,000 a year by a 10 per cent reduction in salaries of executive and supervisory officers. Five large systems already have announced such a reduction and others are expected to follow suit. The salary total of railroad presidents is estimated at $6,000,000; six executives in New York alone receiving $50,000 or more a year. The amount paid to general officers during 1920 was approximately $25,000,000 and that paid to other officers was the same.

Fear Baby Boy May Become Communist

BERLIN, July 22.—Fearing that he might become a communist because he was born in Vienna, the police of Munich have refused to permit a chubby little baby boy, 10 weeks old to enter Germany. The little fellow was adopted by a childless couple, residents of Munich, after they had searched for several months in Berlin and many other cities of continental Europe for a baby that fulfilled their requirements. Arriving at Munich with their new found treasure, the couple were told that the police regarded him as a "dangerous and burdensome foreigner, who in 20 years might become another Kurt Eisner."

AMUSEMENT NOTES

(By Theatres' Own Press Agents)
MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
"The Road of Ambition" is the aptly descriptive title of Conway Tearle's new production now playing at the Merrimack Square theatre. The story, which is from the pen of Elaine Starnes, one of the most prolific writers of screen material, deals with the career of a young man who, although without friends, money or education, is inspired by the unquenchable fire of ambition. How he makes good is the plot of a most absorbing production. "The Call From the Wild," the other big feature production of the current program, tells in a most enthralling manner the simple story of life among the common folk who dwell in the Sierra Nevada Mountains. A comedy and the International News complete the bill.

THE STRAND

"Dynamite Allen" starring George Walsh, will be shown as the leader at The Strand today, in connection with the regular program. It has all of the vigor and action of a Walsh screen offering, plus some new and novel stunts. Don't miss it. Then Gladys Walton, dainty and clever, is sure to win new friends in "Desperate Youth," a picture play of the real worthwhile type. The rest of the bill is rounded out with a good comedy and weekly. It's "cool and comfortable" at all times and there are two seats sold at all performances at 10 cents each.

Highfalutin, Shootin' Hoot Gibson Is Newest Film Star

LOOK AT HOOT GIBSON'S SPORTY CAP AND BREEZY SMILE. THEY'RE CHARACTERISTIC OF FILMSTARS NEWEST STAR. SPEED IS HIS MIDDLE NAME. AND HE'S A CHAMPION COWBOY.

BY JAMES W. DEAN
NEW YORK, July 22.—A new star has galloped to a place in the film firmament. He is "Smilin' Hoot" (Gibson).
Hoot's middle name is Speed. He's a highfalutin, shootin' cowboy of the plains. But it has taken him 11 years to ride to stardom.

Hoot represents the dashing type that captivates the hero worshippers. Cap aslant. Broad grin. Sparkling eyes. A broncho buster. An auto speed fiend.

He was with a congress of Rough Riders in 1910 when D. W. Griffith employed him to appear in "The Two Brothers." Then Universal signed him.

to support Harry Carey in his western.

He won the gold belt at Pendleton, Ore., in 1912 as the champion cowboy of the world. He carried off a peck of prizes at the Los Angeles rodeo last year.

Now he is to be starred in five-reel features. The first completed was "Action," a romance of the plains. He has just completed "The Sheriff of Chinatown" from the story by Peter B. Kyne.

He has a full program mapped out and is likely to go through with it. If one of his hobbies doesn't put him in the hospital or in the hoosgow. They are auto speeding, broncho busting and prize fighting.

CHANGES IN TITLES

After John M. Stahl produced "The Child Thou Gavest Me," it was announced that the title had been changed to "Retribution." Now the title reverts to the original of Perry Yerkoff's story.

This may be an indication that distributors at last concede that the public which sees photoplays also reads stories in print and that the name of the printed story has some value for exploitation purposes.

The name of "Du Barry" was changed to "Passion" and the distributors believe the latter title increased box office returns. That may be. And it may not be.

Those who saw "Passion" on its first release and the critics who praised it as one of the finest things of the year brought crowds to the ticket booths. The picture had entertainment value. Its value would have been as great under the name of "Du Barry."

One class of people, those who wanted thrills and sensationalism, composed movie audiences at one time. This writer believes that at present the great bulk of movie-goers is composed of people who read history, classics, best sellers and the newspapers. They are entertained most when this type of entertainment is given them on the screen.

If "Du Barry" had been shown under that title it would have attracted some people who were repulsed by the title "Passion." The same holds good for "Deception" and other titles which do not enhance the value of the picture.

Producers and exhibitors may some day realize that the public wants worth in pictured story and that balking the public by false titles damages their business.

LORD NELSON IN CELLOID

Although some German producers are turning to German heroes for historical films, Ernest Lubitch, who directed films depicting French and English history which showed in this country under meaningless titles, is taking up another English subject. This time the life of Lord Nelson is to be done in celloid. Reinhold Schuenzel will portray Admiral Nelson while Malvina Longfellow will be Lady Hamilton.

AT STUDIO KEYHOLES

Clyde Cook's next comedy is "The Bull Fighter."

Viola Dana is making "The Fourteenth Lover."

Theodore Roberts supports Ethel Clayton in "Exit the Vamp."

Elsie Ferguson isn't superstitious. She smashes a mirror in "Footlights."

Mae Murray has about completed her first independent production, "Peacock Alley."

Reproductions of Remington pictures are to be seen in "Out of the Dust," to be released in August.

Ann Forrest is to play the leading role in "Perpetua" to be made in London under the direction of John S. Robertson.

Jewel Carmen and her hubby, Roland West, live in a ranch in Long Island Sound and Jewel has a sewing machine and all the other conveniences of home.

Victor Schertzinger, directing his first independent production, says it is the first time he has had "a chance to develop characterizations and build a big human theme without concentrating everything on one personality."

WASHING IS HER HOBBY

MRS. THOMAS, SNAPPED AS SHE CALLED FOR WASHING

By NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE
SAN FRANCISCO, July 22.—A move from a place where household help was easy to get—
A washing machine sent out by her husband—
A word from a minister—
And Mrs. B. P. Thomas found her pet charity here.
But let Mrs. Thomas tell you about it.
"Soon after moving to San Francisco from Mississippi I found that there was no cheap reliable help to lighten the burdens of our household," says she. "So my husband sent out a washing and ironing machine."
"I discovered then that washing was really fun. My machine saved so much time that soon I was looking for new fields to conquer.

"Our minister happened to mention, one day, that a member of the congregation had two children ill with pneumonia. So I drove out to see if there was anything I could do. I found the poor little mother bending over steaming tubs, valiantly trying to do a washing for five people and care for two sick children.
"I knew where I could help! I piled the washing in the back of the car and took it home. The next day I returned it washed and ironed. Her thanks were all the pay I needed."
"So now," says Mrs. Thomas, "I always keep in touch with some family I can help in that way."

ROAD INFORMATION FOR MOTORISTS

(Special to The Sun)
BOSTON, July 22.—Motorists this week and the coming week will find several changes in the roads of Massachusetts caused by new projects started under the direction of John N. Cole, commissioner of public works, or by completion of changes that have been for some time under way.
North shore motorists will find that work has commenced on Atlantic avenue, Marblehead and Swampscott. Part of the way under repair will be closed but part will be kept constantly open so that those persons who have to get to homes in the vicinity will find a minimum of inconvenience. At Beverly Farms, widening of the road at Marshall corner and the Beverly Farms station for some 1000 feet has started. There is a short detour. The Newburyport turnpike is open to South Lynnfield and in fact the entire distance with the exception of one detour. The excellent condition of the turnpike has brought joy to the many motorists who use it.
Work has been resumed on the Lake Walden pond road in Concord. In Lincoln one mile of highway is being attended to but traffic has not been interfered with.
The state has let out a contract for road and bridge work in Barre and Oakham and also let out a contract for five miles of road work from Templeton to Wendenham. New road work will also be done in Westfield and Brookfield. The Mount Holyoke road is not open to travel. Work on bridges has started in Lanesboro, New Ashford and Williamstown. Because of construction of these bridges, traffic should not take this route when going to Williamstown and Bennington. HOYT.

FINAL INSTRUCTIONS FOR ENCAMPMENT

Final instructions for the annual encampment of the O.M.I. Cadets, which is to be held next week at Milligan's grove in Wilmington, will be issued at a meeting of the organization tonight. Every member of the juvenile army who is to go on the week's tour of duty will be present in the cadet armory in East Merrimack street tonight to hear the last word before the big event.
About 200 young men have already signed up for the encampment, which promises to be the most successful in the history of the organization. The young soldiers will be under the supervision of Military Instructor Francis Gargan, Major William Horgan, and former Major Joseph Boyd during their stay at camp. Michael Ryane is to have charge of the athletics and will conduct daily swimming classes for the young men.

BANKS IN RUSSIA AGAIN
REVAL, July 22.—Private banks again will be allowed to operate in Soviet Russia, according to the Krasnaya Gazeta, bolshevik organ. The red government also will allow private citizens to hold money and bonds. Funds seized by the government will be restored.

BRIGANDS HAVE SYSTEM
MIENCHOW, China, July 22.—Brigands near here are doing business through middlemen. If travelers pay the price asked brigand chiefs will issue them permits for safe conduct.

De Valera on Way to Dublin

you," which de Valera acknowledged by smiling and waving his hand.

Interest Transferred

The centre of interest in Irish affairs was transferred to Dublin today, with the departure of Eamonn de Valera and his cabinet for the seat of their government.
The Irish leader is taking with him a document he received yesterday from the hands of David Lloyd George, the British premier, setting forth definite proposals by the British government as a settlement of the Irish problem.
These proposals will be submitted to members of the Dail Eireann as well as other prominent Irish republicans and Mr. Lloyd George will hear from time to time how the discussions are proceeding. Later Mr. de Valera will return to London for further conversations, and Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier, may re-enter the negotiations at this time.

Truce To Continue
It is authoritatively stated that the truce in Ireland will continue for an indefinite period, thus convincing the most skeptical that the factions are still far from discouraged.
London newspapers this morning take an exceedingly cheerful view of the entire situation, refusing even to anticipate the probability of a breakdown.
Just how much the hostility of the Ulsterite members of the house of commons affect the government is not apparent. The Times says it is not to be underestimated, and adds "certainly the relief and satisfaction which would be produced by a settlement along any lines would sweep the opposition aside and give the government overwhelming authority to conclude the arrangements."

"Not Their Last"
DUBLIN, July 22 (by the Associated Press).—Belief that the conversations between Eamonn de Valera and Premier Lloyd George will be resumed is expressed by the Freeman's Journal in its comment on the peace negotiations today. The interview between the two men in London yesterday was evidently not their last, the newspaper says.
"One thing, at any rate, seems certain," it continues, "there can be no return to the monstrous, unholy conditions to which Ireland had been subjected before the truce, by the British government."

The Irish Times considers that the public will derive satisfaction from the fact that the proposals submitted emanated from the coalition cabinet, which Mr. De Valera did not feel justified in immediately turning down.
"This indicates," adds the newspaper, "a great advance, which we trust will not be countered by the gathering forces of reaction during these unfortunate, if necessary periods of delay."

Typical Ulster View
BELFAST, July 22.—What may be considered a typical Ulster view of the Irish situation is given today by the Belfast News Letter.
"We are convinced," it says, "that until the government presents a definite, final decision, that admits of no haggling, to the Sinn Fein leaders they will continue to persist in demanding the impossible, even with threats, as already are being indulged in over the possibility of the negotiations being broken off. They cannot be blamed for this unyielding attitude for the fault for this lies in the government's own undetermined, feeble action."

The Northern Whig expresses the opinion that if Mr. De Valera returns to London to inform Lloyd George that he has brought a basis for negotiations or is anxious to resume the search for one, an anxious time for the northern loyalists will ensue.

FRENCH DIVISION READY FOR SILESIA

PARIS, July 22.—(By the Associated Press).—The departure for Upper Silesia of a French division in readiness on the Rhine was said in official circles this forenoon to be a question of 48 hours.
The government will await a reply to the note handed to Great Britain yesterday which is expected during a day or two. Immediately afterward it is forecast, marching orders will be given the division, which will proceed for Silesia by rail through Germany.
Natives of Liberia rub their bare feet with garlic to chase away snakes.

Orders Release of Werner Horn

OTTAWA, July 22.—The government has ordered the release of Werner Horn, a German who tried to blow up the International Railway bridge at Vanceboro, Me., during the war and who on Oct. 31, 1919, was sentenced to serve 10 years in the prison at Dorchester, N. B. He had been extradited to Canada after serving time as a result of his conviction in the federal court at Boston.

ASKS COMMITTEE FOR AN EXECUTIVE SESSION

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Mal. Bruce R. Campbell, accused by Mrs. Emma C. Bergdoll of having accepted $5000 to aid her blacker son to escape, appeared before the house investigating committee today and asked for a preliminary executive session.
In denying the charges and declaring that he desired the fullest publicity, Major Campbell said he wanted first to present names of witnesses he wished called but did not want printed at this time.
"I came here just as soon as I could," the major said, "and it was a frightful misfortune that I was not here when the charges against me were presented."
The committee ordered the room cleared.

SAYS FRANCE WILL BE HELD RESPONSIBLE

BERLIN, July 22.—France will be responsible if a Polish insurrection breaks out in Upper Silesia, declares Minister of the Interior Gradnauer in a statement published by the Tageblatt today.
"Only a speedy decision regarding Upper Silesia can avert a great disaster," the minister says. "The situation in Upper Silesia is critical. A Polish insurrection can only break out if France desires it and brings it about."
"It is hard to believe that Paris seriously credits Germany with menacing schemes. In reality, so far as the symptoms complained of in the French note are concerned, it is a matter of the German population of Upper Silesia, desiring to be not altogether defenceless in the event of further Polish attacks."
"When a decision comes on the Upper Silesian question, the Reichswelt will have to be on the spot to replace the stirring allied troops in order to cope with any Polish plans for violence."

MATRIMONIAL

Mr. Herbert C. Lasky and Miss Clarissa G. Hayes were married Wednesday at the home of the bride, 26 Loring street, the officiating clergyman being Rev. J. Cecil Hayes, pastor of the Palisade Street Baptist church. The couple were unattended. They will make their home at Corcoran, Me.

MASS NOTICE

There will be a month's mind mass Saturday, July 23, at eight o'clock, at St. Margaret's church, for the repose of the soul of Joseph F. Baxter requested by the Knights of Columbus.

SPENDING HONEYMOON HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Laurier Michaud, who were married in Fitchburg last Monday, are spending their honeymoon in this city as the guests of the groom's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Morel of 24 Canaway street. Last evening the visiting couple were tendered a reception at the Morel home and the affair was attended by about 50 relatives and friends. A buffet luncheon was served and entertainment numbers were given, those taking part in the program being Mr. and Mrs. Hector Jodoin, Miss Alice Desrosiers, Joseph Dandaneault, William Michaud and others. Mr. and Mrs. Michaud expect to return to Fitchburg next Sunday.

EXPLANATION TO BE ASKED FOR

Probe Into Conduct of British Schooner That Arrived Without Liquor Cargo

No-Question But That Vessel is Mystery Ship Reported off Jersey Coast

PHILADELPHIA, July 22.—The master of the small British schooner Pocomoke, which came into Atlantic City Wednesday in distress and without her cargo of 1000 cases of intoxicating liquors, will have some explaining to do to the British authorities in this jurisdiction, according to Charles R. Kurtz, surveyor of the port.

"There is no question the Pocomoke is the mysterious vessel reported off the Jersey coast," Mr. Kurtz said today. "All the vessel's papers were taken by Navigation Inspector Marshall, who boarded the Pocomoke at Atlantic City and turned them over to the British consul for inquiry."
Mr. Kurtz said the Pocomoke came into Atlantic City under distress signals. Captain Roy, according to Mr. Kurtz, said he left Nassau, Bahamas Island, with 1000 cases of liquor for Quebec. Off the Delaware Capes, he said he encountered a storm which caused him to transfer part of the cargo to a schooner and to throw the remainder overboard because the vessel sprung a leak. According to Mr. Kurtz, Captain Roy said his crew was discharged and transferred to another vessel at sea, which is said to be a violation of maritime law.
"While we cannot do anything about what he did with his cargo outside the three mile limit, the British government can certainly make him give a more definite explanation of the actions of the Pocomoke at sea," said Mr. Kurtz.

HAMILTON MILLS TO CURTAIL OPERATIONS

Beginning this week and until further notice the plant of the Hamilton Mfg. Co. will operate but three days a week. This mill was on short time for several months, but a month or two ago full-time operations were resumed. Lack of orders is given as the reason for the curtailment.

Ricard's Contest Closes In Two Weeks

SORTING AND COUNTING SUN COUPONS

THE TWILIGHT LEAGUE

Votes to Determine Most Popular Player Keep Sorters and Counters Busy

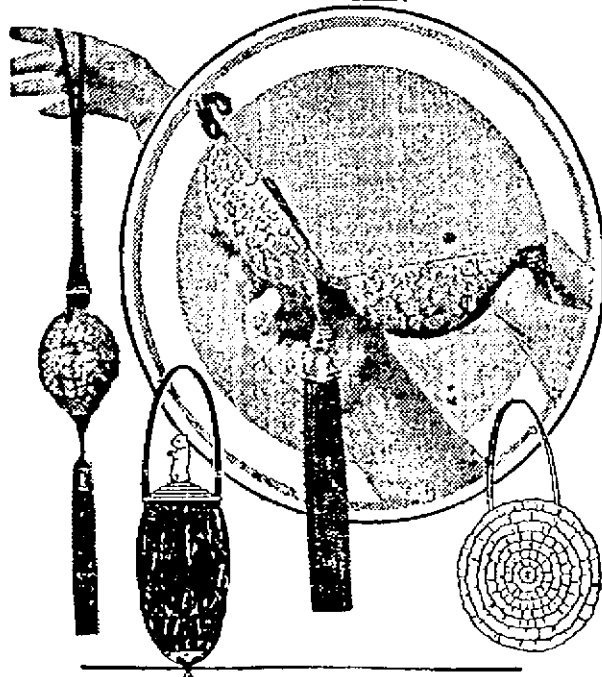

With the last game of the Twilight League schedule, the most popular player contest conducted by Frank Ricard, in The Sun, will close. Rarely has such interest been displayed locally in a contest, as there has been in this instance. Starting with but a few contestants, each week found new names added to the list, until now there are over 70 contestants for the valuable prizes. Day in and day out, week in and week out, hundreds of Sun votes have poured into Ricard's store. The judges of the contest, have had no easy task sorting and counting the votes each week, and the next two weeks will find them working at top speed, checking up the votes of the contest. That there are a great many "popular" ball players in the Twilight League can be readily seen by glancing over the list of contestants and the votes registered against their names. As announced before, votes have been sent in from all parts of the country, interesting letters accompanying them.

The contest has been a "bummer" in every sense of the word. The big container for the votes in Ricard's store has been filled to capacity several times, and it has been necessary to get a larger receptacle. The prizes for the contest are as follows: First prize, Hamilton watch or diamond ring, value $50; second prize, Waltham watch and chain, value $25; third prize, gent's ring or diamond stickpin, value $15; and fourth prize, gent's ring or fountain pen, value $10.

Mr. Ricard is to be congratulated for the splendid contest he has conducted, and for the valuable prizes he has offered to the winners. Nothing pleases him more than to do something for the "boys," as he calls them, and he has been a great factor in "pushing" the present Twilight League.

Remember, folks, only two weeks remain. Don't neglect to cut the coupon out, fill it in and send it in to Ricard's. Every vote counts. Vote early and often. See that your favorite finishes the contest strong. Let's go!

ALL COMFORTS OF BOUDOIR IN NEW HANDBAG

BY MARIAN HALE
NEW YORK, July 22—The tradition handed down from grandmother's day that you can always tell a lady by her gloves should, in 1921, go a bit further.

This season you certainly can judge a well-dressed woman by her handbag whether it is a small vanity case or a big leather carry-all effect.

You can put as much money in a handbag—not inside, but in the price—as you want.

Art and ingenuity are combined to make these bags original.

Joseph is showing a de luxe bag, purse and vanity case combined, which is like a Renaissance jewel. It is ball-shaped, about the size of an orange and is of carved wood, distinguished in many colors, resembling lacquer. This wooden ball opens into halves. On one side is a place for money and cards, on the

SUGGESTS MANY USES FOR PEPPERS

BY SISTER MARY

Peppers can be used for the main dish of many a meal and at the same time use up left-overs. Left-over meat or vegetables reheated in peppers gains an extra richness of flavor.

If peppers are parboiled for a few minutes before using, the thin tough skin may be slipped off.

Peppers Stuffed With Rice and Nuts
Four large green peppers, 1 cup nut meats, 1 cup cooked rice, 1 teaspoon minced onion, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 egg, milk to make moist.

Remove tops from peppers and cut out cores and seeds. Parboil for ten minutes. Drain. Mix nuts, rice, salt, onion, parsley with egg slightly beaten. Add milk to make moist. Fill peppers with mixture, cover with top and bake in a moderate oven for half an hour. Baste frequently with hot water and a little melted butter. Bread crumbs may be substituted for the rice if there is no rice "left-over."

Peppers Stuffed With Meat
Four large green peppers, 1 cup chopped meat (left over), 1 cup stale bread crumbs, 1/2 teaspoon celery salt, 1-3 cup meat gravy, salt and pepper.

Prepare peppers as in preceding recipe. Mix remaining ingredients, adding milk if mixture is not moist. Fill peppers with mixture. Cover with bread crumbs, dot with bits of butter and bake till crumbs are brown on top.

Peppers and Macaroni
Three peppers, 1 onion, 2 table-spoons bacon fat, 2 cups cooked macaroni, 1 cup chopped cooked meat, salt and pepper.

Melt fat and add sliced onion and peppers cut in shreds. Fry until tender. Add macaroni and meat and cook, stirring occasionally for ten minutes. Serve very hot.

BURNED TO GROUND

Fire Destroys Barn in North Billerica—Cow Burned to Death—Farming Implements Lost

A barn, the property of Ovide Ouellette of North Billerica, was burned to the ground Wednesday night in a fire of unknown origin which resulted in the burning to death of one of the owner's cows and the destruction of a quantity of farming implements and several barrels.

The blaze was discovered by D. J. Devire, who turned in an alarm from Box 18, calling out the North and Centre departments. In spite of the efforts of the firemen, however, the barn and its contents were completely destroyed. The property was uninsured. Chief Bartlett of the Billerica department has reported the matter to the state fire warden.

THE ADJUSTING OF AUTO HEADLIGHTS

(Special to The Sun)
BOSTON, July 22.—The department of public works announces today that it intends to approve in various sections of the state stations where owners of automobiles may go to have their headlights adjusted. In announcing this new plan the department states that the one difficult problem in connection with the new headlight regulations is that of properly focusing the headlights. The officials' announcement of the new plan with explanation of how to obtain approval for the establishment of testing stations follows:
The one difficult problem in connection with the new headlight regulations is that of properly focusing the headlights. Doubtless there are many persons who have neither the ability nor inclination to attempt to make the proper focal adjustment. It is the intention of the department to approve testing stations in the various sections of the state where owners may go to have their headlights adjusted.
Any qualified person with a well-equipped plant desiring to obtain that approval should communicate as soon as possible with Alfred W. Davine, headlighting inspector, Registry of Motor Vehicles, State House, Boston, Mass. All communications must be in writing and a brief description given of the place to be used for testing.

PLAN TO GIVE OPEN HEARINGS

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Passed by the house by a vote of 289 to 127 the Fordney tariff bill was expected to reach the senate finance committee today where it will be subjected to open hearings and an indefinite stay in committee. Although Chairman Penrose stated the hearings probably would be brief, many leading republicans predicted today that revenue revision legislation, hearings on which will be begun by the ways and means committee today, would reach the president ahead of the tariff bill.
Seven republicans voted against the Fordney bill on its adoption by the house yesterday, while the same number of democrats supported it. Before taking final action on the bill, which is estimated by Chairman Fordney to raise approximately a half billion dollars in revenue annually, the house defeated a democratic motion to recommend the measure with instructions to strike out its American valuation and reciprocal provisions.
By a final vote in the house proper on the five contested schedules of the bill, oil, hides, cotton and asphalt remained on the free list against a determined fight to tax them, while the Longworth dye embargo provision was thrown out by vote of 209 to 193. The democratic minority, aided by republicans dissatisfied with some of the bill's provisions, engineered a victory on each of the items, the ways and means committee losing out on three of the five amendments laid before the house. More than 200 minor committee amendments also were put through, being voted in a block.

FUNERALS

McMANUS.—The funeral of Isabelle McManus took place this morning at 10 o'clock from her home at 31 Cross street and was largely attended by sorrowing relatives and friends. The cortege proceeded to St. Patrick's church where at 1 o'clock a funeral mass was read by Rev. Joseph Curtin. The choir, under the direction of Mr. Michael J. Johnson, rendered the Gregorian mass, the solo being sung by Miss Frances Tighe and Miss Fred Cummings. Mr. Johnson presiding at the organ. There was a profusion of beautiful floral tributes and many funeral dirges. The bearers were Patrick O'Brien, Daniel Shanahan, Daniel Shanahan, William Sheehan, John Quinn and Patrick Sheehan. At the grave Rev. Fr. Curtin read the committal prayer and the burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery in charge of Undertakers James E. O'Donnell & Sons.

DEATHS

GOTT.—Mrs. Nellie (Smith) Cote, a well known resident of this city, died Wednesday night at the home of her sister, Mrs. James T. Moran, 23 Manahatche street, aged 30 years. She was survived by her husband, Roy Cote; her parents, Manuel and Mary Smith; four sisters, Sadie and Anna Smith, Mrs. Webster Ferris and Mrs. James T. Moran; and two brothers, William and Linsey Smith.

Tufts Case Continued

The times while he was telling Asst. Dist. Atty. Fosdick about the cases. Stochan said he could not say that Tufts was listening.
The witness said he thought Corcoran as attorney for Perry and Barry had said that his clients would make restitution if their guilt was proved to Tufts' satisfaction.
The attorney general concluded that the cases still are pending.
The court later ruled that the Essex county proceedings were remote from the issue.

A Boston Lawyer

John C. Johnston of Boston, a lawyer, testified that he acted as counsel for a man named Adams who consulted him after he developed that a car Adams had purchased was a stolen one. Before the witness had proceeded further in his testimony, the chief justice asked "Was this matter called to the attention of Mr. Tufts?"
Mr. Allen replied that it was, and added: "Mr. Tufts afterwards sent a check to the client of this witness when the witness was demanding something be done."
Mr. Johnston testifying, said that he went to Asst. Dist. Atty. Fosdick in January, 1919, and spoke to him about some of the automobile thefts. "I told him there were ugly rumors," said the witness, "that some of the defendants had boasted when arrested, that they were immune in Middlesex county and that while I did not believe it, the best answer to the rumor would be prosecution."

Proceedings Started

The witness said Fosdick told him proceedings were started but that the cases were going to be difficult to try because they were so complicated. Later on another visit to Fosdick, the witness said he was told that Mr. Tufts was sick at home and that when he returned, Fosdick would take the matter up with him and find out why the cases were not presented.
Some time after this, Mr. Johnston called Mr. Fosdick, he said, and told him an offer of partial restitution had been made to his client but that he did not like to take up such an offer without conferring with the district attorney, especially in view of the fact that proceedings in the automobile theft cases were then pending in the Middlesex county court. Mr. Fosdick told the witness that he was willing to have him say to the court that it was consistent with the policy of the district attorney's office to allow such a settlement.

Asked About Check

Mr. Johnston was asked about a check which his client received with other money in connection with the settlement of the theft case. He replied that his best recollection was that it was for $150. He said in cross-examination that he thought the check was payable to a man named Burkhardt. Atty. Gen. Allen demanded that the defense produce the cancelled Burkhardt check and Melvin M. Johnson, counsel for Mr. Tufts, said it would be produced later.

ICE CREAM PRICE WAR

Children March to State House and Ask Commissioner

Hultman for Hearing
(Special to The Sun)
BOSTON, July 22.—Eugene C. Hultman, commissioner of the necessities of life, received the surprise of his life this morning, when a parade of children marched to the state house, came to his office, and asked to be heard on the ice cream situation. Unlike the first parade, this was not organized by older people, but by the children themselves. They came from the Dorchester sections of the city and were led by Miss Frieda White of Dudley street, Roxbury. The children bore banners which had made themselves, in which they called attention to the fact that certain Dorchester dealers are selling ice cream soda for 10 cents and admit they are making a sufficient profit. Like the first paraders, they called most ice-cream dealers "bandits," and demanded lower prices. Many of the children were barefooted. They came part of the way in trucks which they hired. When they reached the hearing room at the state house they scrambled into chairs and but few of them had feet long enough to reach the ground. HOYT.

PRESIDENT MAY JOIN A CAMPING PARTY

WASHINGTON, July 22.—President and Mrs. Harding are considering an invitation to join a camping party composed of Harvey S. Firestone, Henry Ford and Thomas A. Edison over this weekend at some announced place not far from Washington.
The first plans for the trip provided that the president should leave here today by motor, but it was decided later that he could not get away from his office before tomorrow. He may join the party in time for tomorrow's luncheon.

The campers, who have been companions with the late John H. Hough on similar trips in past years, spent last night near Hagerstown, Md. The camping place at which the president and Mrs. Harding are to join them, however, has not been revealed. It is expected that if the trip is made Mr. and Mrs. Harding will return to Washington on Sunday night.
Mr. Firestone, an Akron, Ohio, manufacturer, is to be host of the party, which was arranged for by him and Bishop Wm. F. Anderson of Cincinnati. A number of other guests have been invited and it is the plan to have about 200 persons in all in the camp.

CITY BUILDINGS SOLD AT AUCTION

A 10-room, two-and-one-half story house and 6000 square feet of land, located in the rear of the Lyons street school and owned by the city, was sold at public auction at 2 o'clock this afternoon by Auctioneer Cornelius F. Cronin. The purchaser was Patrick Mahoney, janitor of the Colburn school, who now occupies the upper floor of the building with his family.

The sale was started promptly at 2 o'clock with an attendance of about 25 men and women. The first bid was $1500 and this amount was raised gradually until the sum of $3000 was reached, when the property was knocked down to Frank Clark, who was doing the bidding for Mr. Mahoney.

STOCK MARKET

The following is a complete report, giving high, low and closing quotations:

NEW YORK, July 22.—Trading in stocks today was light and professional. Free supplies of money at lower rates exerted no perceptible influence. Sales approximately three hundred thousand shares.
Normal losses ruled on the opening of today's stock market. Chesapeake and Ohio was the only exception, reacting 1 1/2 points. The placing of the new leather stock, the first list by the house of representatives, failed to stimulate trading in these shares, most foreign oils displaying further heaviness. Motors, coppers and food specialties were easy. Steadiness was shown by Canadian Pacific, Rock Island and U. S. Rubber. Exchanges on London were firm.

The market moved in a narrow rut until about one hour before closing, when it slipped slightly. Buying of rails impelled stock covering. Canadian Pacific rose 1/2 point and gains of 1 to 1 1/2 were made by St. Paul and Northern Pacific. Steels and equipments also hardened with Bethlehem as the only conspicuous laggard. American Woolen, Corn Products and some of the rubber shares rose substantially over yesterday's final prices. Tobacco was featured by Liggett & Myers at a gain of 5 1/2 points. Foreign exchange continued to recover and call money opened and renewed into next week at 5 1/2 per cent.

Coalters and Grangers were included among the strong rails at mid-day. Republic, Illinois, Erie and Atchafalaya were in demand and Chesapeake and Ohio made full recovery. Sugars, especially American Beet, led the specialties and oils, steels and equipments holding near their top levels of the morning.
Call money eased to 5 per cent. later but oils, steels and coppers reacted, rails also cancelling part of their gains. The closing was heavy.

ONCE UPON A TIME.

THERE WERE NO DOCTORS!

Doctors Preach Prevention Is Better Than Cure.

Ninety per cent of all disease is preventable, so doctors say. Eat simple food, exercise wisely, sleep sufficiently, and—what is vitally important—make sure of the daily, regular, thorough elimination of body waste, and the chances are nine to one that you will keep well, work efficiently and enjoy life. Bowel elimination of food and tissue waste is all-important. But in case of irregularity, disordered or imperfect action do not make the common mistake of taking harsh, violently acting medicines, with the idea of forcing the bowels to act. Nature believes in mild methods. She responds best to persuasion.

So in selecting a simple remedy to regulate and assure proper bowel action, you should not use harsh or violently acting remedies, no matter how much has been claimed for them. You should choose some well-known, time tested, trial proven remedy, that has made its reputation by being used for many years, by all sorts of people, all over the world. Take Beecham's Pills for example. Beecham's is a household word, has been for over half a century. People not only take Beecham's but recommend Beecham's to their friends. Their use is handed down from father to son or from mother to daughter, from one generation to another. Did you ever hear any complaint or criticism of Beecham's? Isn't that a pretty powerful endorsement of their worth? Druggists are glad to sell Beecham's.

HONEYMOON JOURNEY FOR LONG AND BRIDE

WORCESTER, July 22.—Richard H. Long of Framingham and Worcester, and Mrs. Long, the bride whom he took last Saturday from a stenographer's desk in his office, are on their way to Manitoba on a combination of honeymoon and business trip.

It became known that Mr. and Mrs. Long left, accompanied by Miss Mabel Long and Carl Long, children of Mr. Long's first marriage, and Francis Long, his nephew. It was reported the transcontinental trip is being made by automobile but the baggage was sent express to Manitoba.

Mrs. Long, prior to her marriage, was Miss Laura I. Bousquet of Shrewsbury, employed as a stenographer in the Worcester branch of the R. H. Long company. At the offices of the company it was said Mr. Long was out of town for the day. At the Long residence in Framingham the statement was made that Mr. and Mrs. Long had gone to Manitoba for an indefinite stay.

Some authorities predict that no radium will be left in the world 23 years from now.

BUSINESS REVIEW

Business Looks Pretty Good Compared With 1913

BY ALBERT APPLE
Many industries now are doing a bigger volume of business than they did in 1913, a normal pre-war year. This is shown by figures now available, covering the first half of 1921. In the 52 weeks ended July 1, corn exports from the United States were 50,616,281 bushels—almost exactly the same as in 1913, and comparing with 3,939,952 bushels exported in the year ended July 1, 1920.

Wheat exports from United States, including trans-shipments from Canada, totaled 449,483,107 bushels in the year ended July 1, 1921, against 215,385,492 bushels the year before. Wheat exports in 1913 were only 142,379,529 bushels.

Here are cotton exports, January 1 to July 2:
1919 2,951,005 bales
1920 3,205,584 bales
1921 2,581,351 bales
So far in 1921, cotton exports have been at the rate of 5,163,102 bales a year, against 5,502,458 bales exported in 1913.

In the first six months of 1921, money value of all merchandise exports was $2,200,753,250, against $1,062,877,443 for the corresponding months in 1913. For the same months, 1921 imports were $1,137,399,231, against $718,341,028 in 1913.

Building Gains

Building permits in 27 northeastern states totaled $1,956,250,000 in the six months ended July 1, 1921. F. W. Dodge Co., which furnishes these figures, points out that the total is nearly 10 per cent more than the average for the same period of the preceding five years.

Steel Off a Third

rate of 21,200,000 gross tons a year, against 30,280,130 tons in 1913. Steel production is only a third less than pre-war. Much of present stagnation is due to this industry having increased its productive capacity 44 per cent since 1913.

Pig iron output, first six months of year:
1921 9,428,000 tons

Coal Near Normal
Soft coal production is very low compared with war-time, but total output from January 1 to July 2 was at a rate of 336,572,000 tons a year. In 1913, only 401,879,448 tons were mined.

So far this year anthracite coal production has been at a yearly rate of 92,954,000 tons, against 75,322,355 tons in 1913.

Steel making is now the deadest of all industries. This was anticipated by coke makers who, so far in 1921, have made coke at a rate of only 6,802,000 tons a year, against 39,271,070 tons in 1913.

Money Active
Bank clearings, the country over, first six months of year:
1921 $180,091,696,000
1913 86,106,683,000

These clearings indicate that the nation is doing a business volume nearly 60 per cent greater than in 1913, for experts say that combined wholesale and retail prices now average only about a half more than in 1913. At that rate, the 1913 volume of business could be handled with $130,000,000 of clearings for January to July.

Bond sales on New York exchange, first six months of year:
1921 $1,515,675,000
1913 280,774,500

VARIETY OF NOVELTIES

New Addition To Prince's
Store is a Veritable Little
Wonder World

Have you a little movie in your home? If not, why not? For Low-ellites will now have the opportunity to purchase a real motion picture machine, differing in no way from the projectors used in theatres, except in
moving picture, by Mary Pickford, Charlie Chaplin, or any other favorite, on the same principle as a circulating library.
Sounds startling, doesn't it? But it's true, and if you crave the proof, visit Prince's store on Saturday, when the greatest variety of pictures will be ready for your inspection, that per-
devised.

One of these is Prince's arcade. This extends from Merrimack st. through to Middle street, and has been thrown open to the public for the purpose of adding to their convenience when they wish to reach the sub-stations from Merrimack street, or to buy at any of the Middle street stores. It is to be understood that this passageway may be utilized as freely as the public
thoroughfares and with no obligation
to listen to the harangues of salesmen. Although, if one desires, one may pause and examine two features utterly new to Lowell. One of these is the "Bungalow Shop" where in miniature bungalows one may listen to the latest phonograph records at one's leisure, or where one may view the latest movie reels; the other is the most complete exhibition of children's toys ever assembled here. Dolls have been made the outstanding specialty at the store, although there is a complete assortment of games, electric trains, and all the other playthings
dear to the hearts of the little tots.

The formal opening of this remarkable enterprise is scheduled for tomorrow. No pains have been spared to make the initial day one of surprises.
Mr. R. E. Walter, of the Prince-Walters corporation, proprietors of the Bungalow shop, has engaged a considerable difficulty, one of the best jazz orchestras in New York city, to come to Lowell for the day. Concerts will be given at intervals by this organization, the Carl Fenton jazz orchestra. If you've been to New York recently, you are familiar with the name, which is one prominent on the Great White Way. This aggregation
also makes many records for the Brunswick Phonograph company whose machines and disks the Bungalow Shop
will carry exclusively.

A good deal of ingenuity has been expended in devising things original
and convenient for shoppers, and high success has resulted. The "best surveyor" record holder is one of the novelties which will please. The newest records are displayed in these holders.
The customers select those which are to be played, takes them into one of
the rooms of one of the bungalows,
and while reclining in a comfortable
chair, listens to the various Brunswick artists perform. No salesman is there to insist on a purchase. If none
of the records suit for the time being,
the customer departs without annoying
solicitation. But if it is desired to try a few more records, there is an electrified button, handy, which summons a clerk. The clerk in turn brings in the additional records called for, and the customer is again left to hear the records and to exercise his or her own discretion as to purchase. Those of us who have been harried by clerks seek-
like raising a cheer at this ultra-modern method of doing business.

And here's something else which
hasn't its mate in Lowell, it is believed. A rest room, with stationery, pens, ink, and all manner of conveniences, occupies one section of the shop.
It is beautifully appointed, combining taste with comfort. The biggest feature, however, is a dainty booth inscribed "Ticket Office." Here information on all subjects may be obtained.
If you want to know when the next train leaves for Boston, or the next street car leaves for any point, an employee armed with all the schedules will be ready to give you the required information. "Service" is the watchword of this booth. In testimony to this, it may be mentioned that Mr. Walters has completed arrangements with all the prominent local theatres to sell
choice seats for all their performances
at the booth. Those who wish to attend the Opera House, after that theatre opens its fall season will be able
to secure the necessary pasteboards,
at box office prices, without making
the trip down Central street, unless they way lies in that direction. Tickets for Kellogg's will also be on hand, as well as tickets for special entertainments of all sorts, and the price
bought at the box office.

But perhaps the feature of the bungalow shop which smacks most of the absolutely up-to-the-minute thing, is
the display of home movie machines.
These are manufactured by the famous
Pathe company, pioneers of the films.

Adventures of The Twins

CHRIS CROW'S ESCAPE

FLEET HAD HIM BY THE FOOT AND NO MATTER HOW HE STRUGGLED AND PULLED AND TWISTED, THERE HE WAS.

Well, sir, when Fleet Fox grabbed Chris Crow in the fog, thinking that it was Biddy Bantam, you'd have thought that all the noise in the world was let loose. Chris was like most bullies, an awful frailty-cat, and he shrieked and screamed and squawked and called until even Mr. Moon heard him.

Chris Cotton-tail over in the pass-patch garden nibbling lettuce and sweet juicy pea leaves just sprouted, picked up his ears, and his feet, and scooted.

Biddy Bantam, who had just located her haystack that very minute, dived into it head first without a backward look.

Nancy and Nick and Sprinkle-Blow hidden near the swamp, shivered. Chris never would have made his fortune in grand opera even when his voice was at its best, but when he was scared, a boiler factory wasn't in it. Fleet had him by the foot, and no matter how he struggled and pulled, ed and twisted, there he was, caught in jaws as strong as a steel trap. "I'm done for," thought Chris. "It isn't fair sneaking up on a person like that from behind. He ought to be punished."

Sprinkle-Blow heard him. "If Chris would only remember the golden rule a little better and do as he would be done by, I'd let him go," he whispered. "Maybe I'd better do it, anyway. He's had a lesson."

Fleet had discovered his mistake by this time, but he always believed that a crow in the mouth is worth two hens in a haystack, so he held on, and started for home.

Sprinkle-Blow and the Twins shoved a big stone in his path. In the fog Fleet didn't see it and went sprawling, and let go his hold on Chris.

Chris flopped away, bruised and sore and cross, to his home in the woods.

WHOM WE LOVE

By RUT HUGHES ABELEIGH

Catherine hadn't turned out at all as her mother had expected her to. Catherine's house was a sight to behold. It was never in order. Dust lay thick on the less used pieces of furniture. Clothes, back from the laundry and needing mending, lay in a heap on the sewing table until someone wanted them, rushed in and put them on, holes and all.

Catherine was good enough at heart. She meant to do things and it annoyed her tremendously to have her house in such disorder.

And then there was the sun—even his wife complained about him sometimes. Tom never hung anything up. His soiled collars, one could usually find hanging on a door knob or perhaps just thrown on the floor instead of in the laundry bag where they belonged.

His wife hadn't minded it so much in the beginning, but since the small folk had come it made her work too heavy. She was getting nervous and irritable about it and sometimes it looked as though the thing would come to a serious pass.

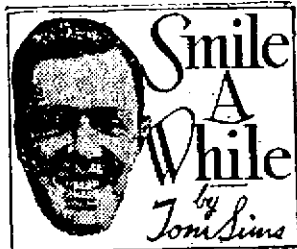

The Visit

Catherine and Tom were a puzzle to their mother. She couldn't understand how two people brought up in such an exceedingly neat, well-kept home as her own could have become so careless.

But one summer, Catherine and Tom and their families came home for a visit at the same time. And then Tom's wife, a practical little lady who took things in at a glance, discovered that Tom really wasn't so much to blame after all, and that he was more victim than anything else.

"I know now what's the trouble with Tom and why you aren't proud of your daughter's home," she laughed one morning when she stepped into the room Catherine occupied just in time to see her mope as if a needle from a chair and hang it neatly away.

"You've loved them so much that you've crippled them! You started in when they were little folk doing everything for them and so they've never formed the habit of doing anything for themselves. Of course you

CONDEMNS TOO MUCH SYSTEM

Speaker at Bankers' Institute Says it Leads to Bureaucracy in Business

Castigates Overdone Statistics, and Office Titles That Lead to Heart Burn

Plan to Educate Public by Taking the Bank to the Public School

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 22—

Super-system, titles that cause heart-burn and overdone statistics were gently castigated here today by D. C. Willis, chairman of the board of the Federal Reserve bank of Cleveland, O.

In a practical business talk to future bank executives. The occasion was the annual convention of the American Institute of Banking.

"Going through the motions of doing business without really getting down to business" was the theme the Cleveland banker expounded. He summed it up in the title of his address, "Knowledge vs. Wisdom," and here are some of the bits of business wisdom he gave the young bankers.

"Full credit must be given to organization and machinery, since order is Heaven's first law. What I want to get across is a kick against the pyramiding of system that finally leads to bureaucracy. I do not think it is the duty of the public to conduct a continuous audit of a concern with which it trades.

In a Bank

"Frequently in a bank organization the question of titles receives more consideration than it deserves, principally because super-system has created so many wheels within wheels and so many cogs in the wheels that the ordinary vocabulary of bank titles doesn't suffice. Frequently titles cause a lot of heart-burning in an organization simply because of vanity and false pride.

"My observation and judgment convince me that one can function under any title and that we will do well if we pay less attention to titles, lest in our zeal to create and exalt titles we put the emphasis where it does not belong. It is not a question of what your position is. The question is: What are you yourself, doing in it and with it?

Talk of Statistics

"As to statistics, accurate data intelligently arranged is so far ahead of hunches, guess work, general results, and rule of thumb, that it is as electricity to candle light. Nevertheless, its use can be overdone and is being overdone. Charts and barometers are fine, but there are two subjects that cannot be charted; they are Almighty God and human nature, and both cut quite a figure. Also it should be remarked that it is a person or rare qualifications that can analyze and make proper deductions from statistics.

"It is my judgment that a lot of us are getting our trousers shiny, sitting at our desks and pouring over statistics, department reports, etc., who could spend our time to better advantage learning the people in our organizations and getting a more intimate knowledge of the viewpoint of those with whom we do business."

To Dispel Mystery

Plans of the American Bankers Association to dispel mystery about banking in the public thought by taking the bank to the public school this fall were outlined to the Institute of Banking today by John H. Puellicher of Milwaukee. Mr. Puellicher is chairman of the association's committee on public education.

By showing that they occupy a useful place in society, the bankers hope to cut the foundation from under a radicalism that thrives on ignorance of the services of the banking business, he said.

"Ten lectures on banking have been carefully prepared, one for each month of the school year, starting with next September," Mr. Puellicher related. "The banker nearest the school is to deliver the lectures to the 7th and 8th grades of the common school, to the high school and the college. He will simply refer to the outlines for facts and background, localizing the story, using illustrations and incidents familiar to the children."

What Banking Is

"He will show them specifically what banking is, telling them about its origin and its purpose in our commercial scheme. Then, after two or three visits, the banker will invite the school children to the bank and permit them to visualize that which has been talked about.

"The lecture outlines have been sent to the superintendents of public instruction of all of our states and to many others in the teaching profession. Scores of letters have been received from educators approving the plan and promising active co-operation."

years in the penitentiary for killing her husband.

"But I'm not pretty, she says. 'Had I been good looking; had I worn silk hose while I was in the witness chair, the jury would have freed me.'"

The foreman of the jury said Mrs. Waterman's appearance had nothing to do with the verdict. But Mrs. Waterman says it did.

"If I had only been pretty," she exclaimed aloud in the court room after the verdict was read.

Thirty-one women, young and beautiful, have been acquitted by juries here on charges of having murdered husbands, sweethearts or friends.

Mrs. Waterman hacked her husband to pieces with a hatchet.

"I'll Beat Carp Worse Than Dempsey Did, Then Fight Champ," Gibbons Says

This story, the first of a number that will appear before the Gibbons-Carpentier fight in October, was written for The Sun by Tommy Gibbons, challenger for the world's light heavyweight title and expected to be the next man to fight Champion Jack Dempsey. Gibbons will write for The Sun readers frequent stories of his training for Carpentier and for the Dempsey fight when that match is made.

Tommy Gibbons

OSAKIS, Minn., July 22.—Getting the match with Georges Carpentier for the light heavyweight championship of the world is a stepping stone to a fight with Jack Dempsey and the heavyweight title.

And it is the heavyweight crown that holds the real magic for me. I regard the Frenchman as the next best man to Dempsey. After I win from him, and I am sure I will, and decisively, Dempsey will have to fight me.

It is much better that I fight Carpentier before being matched with the champion.

The match will be a test for me. It will give the public a real line on me.

His Prediction

If Carpentier fights me the same way he did Dempsey, the bout won't go four rounds. If he adopts a different style, it will take me longer to beat him just as it would have taken the champ under different circumstances.

Carpentier fought Dempsey wrong.

When he mixed it with him, he cast aside any chance of victory he may have had.

But my! how game he was. He showed a fighting heart that is seldom equaled in the rosined ring.

In that second round he proved he was a terrific slugger. What he lacked was a combination of punches to follow up the lead he had started by rocking Jack with his right.

Analysis

But as I sat at the ringside that day I had a two-fold purpose. I was studying both men—Carpentier, the man I am matched to fight in October, and Dempsey, the slugger whom I will eventually meet.

I saw in Carpentier a wonderful athlete, a clever boxer, with punching power only in his right, a novice at infighting, but a man who possesses a heart that is game to the core.

In Dempsey I saw a man who is a fighter from his toes up, willing to take a punch in order to give one, and marvelously strong. He wasn't as fast on his feet as I had expected him to be. He keeps set always to deliver a knockout blow.

Dempsey is a spot-picker like myself. He fights the midsection of his opponents. That is what gets the real results in knockout fighting.

Some time ago I went to the University of Minnesota to see a human body dissected in order to learn first hand the exact location of the most vital nerve centers.

Spot-Picker

Those nerve centers are the spots I pick and land on.

While the finishing blows in most of my 12 consecutive knockouts this year have been to the chin or jaw, it was a well-placed body sock that started my opponents to the canvas.

When you know the spots, knocking a man out is like pressing buttons. You keep pressing them until you get the combination that turns off the lights.

I have had 73 fights during my ring experience. Of them but 22 have been knockouts. I've piled up 12 of them in the last six months. Until this year I always figured I was a clever boxer, not a puncher.

While it may sound foolish for me to say I can punch as hard as the champion, I believe in my own heart that I can.

And because I am faster than Dempsey, his equal at infighting, a better boxer and just as hard a puncher, I think I can knock Carpentier out quicker than the champ did at Jersey City.

The Centralvilles tightened their hold on first place in the Twilight League last evening on the South common by plastering the Broadways, 7 to 1. Except in the fourth inning when the rambunctious team showed signs of coming back to life, the game was on ice all the way.

Cawley twirled for the Centralville boys and proved that his good old wing was in proper working order. He had his opponents fooled for the greater part of the game and it was only in the fourth when the latter touched him for three hits that he showed any signs of weakness. However, his falling away was very brief and he was soon in his stride again.

Lynch of the Centralvilles performed what was easily the most spectacular feat of the game when in the fifth he connected with the pill and knocked it into the wading pond for a home run. It was one of the longest hits ever seen on the South common.

Centralville scored in the first on a base on balls to McVey, a sacrifice by McPherson, and a hot one off Cawley's hand. In the second inning the fireworks came. Lynch struck out. A. Foye hit a two-bagger to left and Bradbury duplicated, bringing home Foye. McSorley was out on a slow grounder to third and then McVey and McPherson singled, upon which Sturtevant was yanked and Mulno was sent to the box. Mulno proved easy for the Centralville boys and three hits followed in quick succession by Cawley, W. Foye and Ray Foye. Arthur Lynch had another turn to lift one toward the skies and when it came down Bagley was under it and the side was out. Score 6-1.

The fourth was Broadways' one hopeful inning but it slipped by after the team had scored but a single tally and opportunity never knocked again. In this frame Desmond made first base a bad slab. Cawley hit easily to right, Farrell struck and Sheehy raced to first after hitting out a weird one that rolled a few feet in front of the plate. Desmond scored on this play. Then with the bases filled, Connors whacked a long high one to center and was out. Ganley tried to come in from third after the ball was caught but he was slow and was declared out at the plate. Bagley hit a feeble one to short and Sheehy was forced for the third out.

For the rest of the game there was no excitement except in the fifth when Arthur Lynch knocked out his home run. The crowd went wild as the ball sailed away to the outskirts and they gave the hucky feller a tremendous ovation as he trotted home for a total of four bases. The score:

Eloiinsky is a big fellow but he is a highly developed aquatic star. His chief rival in the long distance swimming is Henry Sullivan of Lowell, Mass. Sullivan is now in England where he will make his fourth attempt to swim the hazardous English channel.

Sullivan, like Eloiinsky, is a big man. He weighs 210.

Weather conditions have much to do with the success or failure of the marathon swimmers. If they choose a good day for their venture they have much in their favor. But if they run into bad weather conditions the odds are about 10 to 1 against them reaching their goal.

Harvard's Broad Jumper Is Sure Point Winner—Holds College Record

"NED" GOURDIN

BOSTON, July 22.—"Ned" Gourdin, the great Harvard broad jumper, is all primed to set another record.

He holds the college record with a leap of 24 feet 6 inches.

Gourdin has kept in trim this summer for the Harvard-Vale vs. Cambridge-Oxford International track meet.

When he takes off from the jumping board he resembles a giant bird in action. His legs are powerful and highly developed. He is always considered a sure point winner in all Harvard events.

a challenge to any heavyweight in the country to fight a benefit performance for the Pueblo flood sufferers.

Flynn's challenge was unanswered and he immediately took the civil service examination for patrolman and was accepted.

still Has Hope
Flynn still has hope of a third match with Jack Dempsey. He knocked Dempsey out in one round at Murray, Utah, in 1917 and the following year Dempsey turned the tables and knocked the Puebloan in the initial round.

He believes that he is entitled to a third match with Dempsey for he is the only one on record who ever landed the kayo punch on the present heavyweight champion.

Flynn's record shows that he has been a trial horse for most all of the first raters. He fought Dempsey twice, Jack Johnson twice, Sam Langford three times, Fred Fulton, Carl Morris, Tommy Burns, Battling Levinsky, Hugh Walker, and several other prominent "white hopes."

Although Flynn has been in the ring game for 22 years he appears to be in good shape yet. And he isn't kidding about wanting another whack at Dempsey, the man-killer.

Single G Does 2.00% in Free-for-All Maine Lick Upsets Talent

KALAMAZOO, Mich., July 22.—Upsetting favorites, which has been the favorite pastime at the Grand Circuit races at Recreation park this week, continued yesterday, another popular first choice to fall being Jeanette Rankin in the $3000 stake for 213 trotters.

The mare from the McDonald stable had not lost a race until yesterday, but the Alabama trotter, Maine Lick, gave her a sound trimming this time and cashed some very long-priced tickets for his backers.

Old Single G was one first choice to reward his backers, the Indiana veteran, trimming the "free-for-all" pacers in fast time.

According to Secretary Engleman the attendance yesterday was the largest that has ever witnessed Grand Circuit racing in this city.

Jeanette Rankin $100, Brusloff $25, Betty Taylor $10, Voltago $7 and the Red Sox star, and its lineup will be as follows: Quinn Jr., F. Coughlin 3b, Hendricksen Jr., Sullivan C. Malley ss, M. Coughlin of Tucker, p. Rutger 2b, Stone 1b, Leary utility.

Manager Coughlin will once more present Jimmy Davidson as his moundman, and the Fitchburg boy is confident that he will be able to mow down his opponents. The game will be called at 3:15 and there will be special car service to and from the grounds.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., July 22.—Upsetting favorites, which has been the favorite pastime at the Grand Circuit races at Recreation park this week, continued yesterday, another popular first choice to fall being Jeanette Rankin in the $3000 stake for 213 trotters.

The mare from the McDonald stable had not lost a race until yesterday, but the Alabama trotter, Maine Lick, gave her a sound trimming this time and cashed some very long-priced tickets for his backers.

Old Single G was one first choice to reward his backers, the Indiana veteran, trimming the "free-for-all" pacers in fast time.

According to Secretary Engleman the attendance yesterday was the largest that has ever witnessed Grand Circuit racing in this city.

Jeanette Rankin $100, Brusloff $25, Betty Taylor $10, Voltago $7 and the Red Sox star, and its lineup will be as follows: Quinn Jr., F. Coughlin 3b, Hendricksen Jr., Sullivan C. Malley ss, M. Coughlin of Tucker, p. Rutger 2b, Stone 1b, Leary utility.

Manager Coughlin will once more present Jimmy Davidson as his moundman, and the Fitchburg boy is confident that he will be able to mow down his opponents. The game will be called at 3:15 and there will be special car service to and from the grounds.

PREPARING FOR TENNIS BATTLE

Australian Team is Scheduled to Meet Canada Players in Toronto Today

NEW YORK, July 22.—The arrival of the Australian and British Isles tennis teams in this country has quickened interest in the international tennis carnival which will lead up to the challenge round for the Davis Cup at Forest Hills, September.

The Australians are scheduled to meet Canada in Toronto today, the matches to decide the British Isles opponent in the second round. The players from the antipodes are the outstanding favorites over the Canadians. The British-Australian match, which will be played at Pittsburgh, Pa., on August 4, 5 and 6 virtually for the championship of the British Empire, is expected to be one of the highlights of the international court series.

Although the famous Australian names, Brookes and Patterson are missing from the personnel, players of experience are included on the team, which is considered not unlikely to go through to the challenge round. Captain Norman Beach, Joe Anderson, G. V. Todd and J. B. Hawkes compose the quartet.

Represented Australia
Beach and Todd represented Australasia in the match with New Zealand last winter when the Davis cup team of the United States visited there for the challenge round.

Beach, in the opinion of the American team members, is not a formidable player. Captain Sam Hardy of the American team saw him in action against a player of fair ability in Auckland and declared on his return home that Beach would rank about No. 50 in the United States.

Joe Anderson is believed by Norman Brookes, the famous veteran, to hold the greatest promise among the younger players in Australia. He is said to play an excellent all-around game with more speed and power than his teammates. In the Davis cup challenge round of 1919, he defeated F. G. Lowe of England in five sets, a feat that denotes much ability. C. V. Todd is the youth who defeated Gerald Patterson in the singles championship of New South Wales last winter. Jack Hawkes, a left-handed boy of 20, is also brilliant, possessing a puzzling twist service and a ground stroke and not same which is more than fair.

English Quartet
The English quartet, composed of Captain Maxwell Woodman, F. G. Lowe, D. G. Neville Turnbull and J. B. Clift, combines experience with youth. Lowe and Turnbull have played in many international tournaments. Clift was selected only recently to replace Major Cecil Campbell.

Captain Woodman, although a comparatively new comer in international play, made his mark in the Olympic competition at Antwerp last summer when, paired with Turnbull, he won a gold medal in the doubles tournament. Previously, he won doubles with Turnbull at Eastbourne and Hythe in 1919. He also represented Cambridge against Oxford in 1919. Woodman is regarded as one of England's best all-around athletes. He represented Cambridge in association football and golf as well as in tennis and has played for the city of Manchester and for England in football.

Attended Cambridge
Lowe, who is 37 years old, attended Cambridge and represented that university against Oxford in 1908. That was two years after this veteran, who earned his tennis at the Queens club and Wimbledon, had won his first open tournament in doubles at Paris, paired with the late "Tony" Wilding. In 1902, Lowe went to the last eight in the English championships at Wimbledon. He represented England in the Olympic tournament at Stockholm in 1912 and was a member of the English Davis cup team which visited Australia the same year.

O. G. Neville Turnbull won the doubles with Woodman at Eastbourne and Hythe in 1919 and represented England in the Davis cup match against France at Deauville in 1912. Last year, he won the gold medal in doubles with Woodman at the Olympic games and reached the semi-finals in the singles. Last season saw an additional triumph when he captured the doubles championship of Spain with Manuel Alonso at San Sebastian.

NEW BEDFORD HORSES WIN AT FREDERICTON

FREDERICTON, N. B., July 22.—W. J. Utton, driver for the Roaring Brook farm stable of Barton, Vt., piloted his two mares from New Bedford, Mass., Maine and Nova Hill, to straight heat wins in the 2:14 trot and 2:27 pace respectively, at the Maine and New Brunswick circuit races here yesterday. Maine trotting to her record of 2:13 1/2 in the first and third heats, and Nora Hill taking a pacing win race of 2:12 1/2, equal to her trotting record. Each heat in the 2:27 pace was in 2:12 and a fraction and announcement was made that it was the fastest time ever made in the maritime provinces in a race for slow class pacers.

The 2:17 trot was strung out to six heats. After the judges read the list set to the drivers following a 2:22 1/2 opening heat, they speeded up until one heat was made, won by Zelma Strong, although Bingen Worthing finally won the race.

The judges announced that "Bud" Tingley had been fined $75 for failing to drive. The problem to win in the first heat of the 2:12 class on Tuesday, and told the drivers that any further penalties in such cases would be suspensions for the season without option of fines.

LITTLE "JOE" WILL BE WELL CARED FOR

Through the agency of The Sun, little Joe, bright and lovable 13-year-old lad who had wandered homeless in Lowell for many weeks, is assured of a good home and kindly care until he is old enough to shift for himself. Joe came to police headquarters recently and told of being sent away from his home by his mother, who subsequently disappeared, and of trying to eke out a living unheeded in this city. He finally turned up ragged and hungry to beg for food and shelter. Agent Charles S. Richardson of the Lowell Humana society took charge of the little fellow, and saw to it that he was temporarily cared for. Then the aid of The Sun was invoked, and through the columns of this newspaper it was asked whether some good-hearted farmer didn't have a corner in his home where Joe could stay, at the same time making himself useful about the place. The Sun story touched the hearts of many, and telephone calls and other inquiries began to pour in at the offices of the Humana society. It appeared that Lowell was filled with warm-hearted folk who wanted to care for the homeless little chap. Agent Richardson stated today that the lad will be well taken care of.

WILL STRIVE TO REGAIN FORMER TITLE

NEW YORK, July 22.—Pete Herman, former world's bantamweight boxing champion, who will strive to regain that title from Joe Lynch in Brooklyn Monday night, arrived today from England on the steamship Orduna.

The little New Orleans scrapper embarked for home immediately after he knocked out Jim Higgins, the English bantamweight champion, in the 11th round of a scheduled 20-round bout on July 11. He has been training during the voyage and reported himself in good shape. He expressed himself as confident that he will be able to turn the tables on the New York bantam to whom he lost the title last December.

THIRTY MEN USED IN A SINGLE GAME

NEW YORK, July 22.—The Cleveland-New York American box score yesterday had much the appearance of two football team lineups with plenty of subs. No less than 30 men were used by both teams, the Yankees putting 13 players in a vain effort to stave off the worst defeat of the year—17 to 8.

In regaining the coveted first position in the American league race, held by New York for 24 hours, the Cleveland team made it rain base hits, their total being 22 against 16 for the Yankees. Sixteen of the 37 hits were doubles, Joe Sewell, the Alabama collegian, knocking out three. He made two other hits in six trips to the plate.

PRICE OF COAL AT THE MINES PER SHORT TON

Expert Figures Show How Cost Is Increased by Coal Tax Laws—New England Pays $4,000,000 Tribute to Pennsylvania

In yesterday's article it was shown that the cost of a short ton of anthracite at the mine was $5.11 or $1.01 per short ton to the operator over and above the cost in 1918.

Today the operator is selling his coal according to conservative railroad coal company prices at $1.90 a ton for egg, stove and chestnut sizes over and above the price in 1918, and $1.70 a ton for pea coal over the 1918 price.

Some Expert Figuring

Figures are not available showing exact falling off in costs for mining materials since Mr. Walker did his figuring but general information makes it certain that prices of materials have been falling. The only dependable cost reports stopped when the federal trade commission under the court injunction ceased gathering figures. Figures presented by operators with no government authority are naturally apt to be compiled by experts with an eye to presenting phases favorable to the operators. What some of their experts can do in figuring was illustrated in the hearings before the LaFollette investigating committee.

W. J. Thompson, secretary of the Anthracite Coal Operators association, presented two tables of cost and sales figures tending to show that while costs of production had been lower and sales prices lower for individual operators during 1917-1918, the margin of profit was higher than in the period from January, 1919, through October, 1920, when costs were higher and sales prices higher. This feat of making it appear that the margin of profit to operators were lower during the high priced coal days of last year than when the fuel administration was in control was accomplished by excluding the Susquehanna collieries company from the 1917-1918 figures and including it in the 1919-1920 figures.

Walter Y. Durant, expert statistician of the federal trade commission, was set at work and as a result of his investigation and compilation of the figures of the Susquehanna company presented the following figures for January to October, 1920:

	Cost	Realization	Margin
As reported by association	$5.30	$6.73	.43
After exclusion of Susquehanna	6.05	6.70	.65
After estimated re-valuation of cost	5.73	6.70	.91
After estimated inclusion of washery coal	5.23	6.47	1.18

Two Pennsylvania Taxes

Pennsylvania as a state is aware of the monopoly nature has given it in anthracite and it is constantly alert to make the most of it. Its latest move was the enactment of two tax laws placing upon consumers of domestic sizes of anthracite an additional burden of approximately 25 to 40 cents a ton to be poured into the coffers of the state. One of these laws, which went into effect July 1, gives the mine operator the choice of having his mining operations controlled by mayors, burgesses and township supervisors, supposedly for the purpose of preventing mine cave-ins that will tumble buildings located above the workings into surface holes, or of submitting to a 2 per cent tax on the value of all coal at the mine, the money thus secured to be used to compensate any property owners who may suffer damage. There is no question but that, rather than submit to control, the operator in every case will pay. It is to be noted in regard to this legislation that only the property above the mines around the Scranton region is in danger of cave damage, yet the mines in the mountainous lower regions from which so much anthracite comes and above which are no buildings at all are levied upon just the same. The second law goes into effect late in August. It calls for payment of 1 1/2 per cent tax on the value of all anthracite coal at the mine, the income to be applied frankly to help Pennsylvania raise money for state purposes. The state mines great quantities of bituminous coal also, but this will suffer no tax for the very good reason that bituminous coal is found in many other states and would limp to market under a handicap if taxed as anthracite is taxed.

Men who hold their ears close to the ground to follow the machinations of Pennsylvania politics state that the coal tax laws were forged in a clever scheme of Governor Sprout and State Senator Crow, who are playing a team against Senator Boise Penrose and Secretary of State Philander C. Knox. Governor Sprout is reputed to be seeking to succeed Penrose as national senator and with State Senator Crow seeks to work the Pennsylvania political machine out of the hands of the two men who now control it. The governor and state senator have made themselves strong with voters in the mining counties and in other counties also through laws that thus throw burdens of contributing to Pennsylvania's treasury upon coal consumers located outside the state.

Operators state that domestic sizes, which run about seven tons in every 10 tons will have to carry the entire load of these taxes because steam sizes, being sold in competition with bituminous coal will not stand price increases. It is estimated that the 1 1/2 per cent tax will bring about $10,000,000 into the strong boxes of Pennsylvania and the 2 per cent tax about $12,000,000. New England will pay approximately $4,000,000 of this tribute to Pennsylvania.

Operators state frankly that the tax will fall entirely upon the consumer as the full amount of it is to be added to the price of coal. Operators did fight the passing of these laws, however, and now state that they plan to fight their constitutionality in the courts. Massachusetts at this writing is also threatening to get an injunction against the state of Pennsylvania to prevent the collection of these taxes for coal going into that state.

Another Fat Royalty

For years Pennsylvania as a state and particularly Philadelphia have profited by a royalty system by which the Girard estate, the biggest holder of leased coal lands, progressively piles up millions at the expense of anthracite coal buyers. Stephen Girard left to the city of Philadelphia in trust 4480 acres of rich coal lands, the income to be used for the education of boys of that state. The number of boys was limited so that the "directors of city trusts," in whose hands the administration of the funds rests have for years found the trust accumulating millions more than could be used for the purpose outlined by the donor. This money goes through Philadelphia banks giving them a leading power that is a tremendous asset to the city and state. The higher the price of the coal, the stiffer the royalty under the Girard plan of royalty. Coal consumers who may be interested to know what they are contributing are invited to note how the revenue to the Girard estate has increased threefold in the past five years:

Year	Per Ton Royalty Rate
1915	$.55
1916	.52
1917	.69
1918	.74
1919	.94
1920	1.04

The total royalties for three years are as follows:

Year	Total Royalties
1918	$1,032,565.54
1919	1,137,947.11
1920	1,742,651.78
1918	2,454,358.76

ECZEMA 4 MONTHS CUTICURA HEALED

In Pimples On Face, Itched and Burned, Face Disfigured.

"Eczema started in pimples on my face. The pimples would break, and they would itch and burn so that I scratched. I had very little sleep and my face was terribly disfigured. My head was also all eruptions and I couldn't comb my hair.

"The eczema lasted about four months when I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. It began to stop the itching and burning as I purchased a cake of Soap and a box of Ointment and in three weeks the eczema was healed." OUTING AT SUNTAUG LAKE

The annual outing of the Massachusetts Sanitary Club, which is composed of master plumbers and supply men from various parts of the state, was held Wednesday at Suntaug Lake, Lynnfield, the Lowell people in attendance being as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Carroll and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O'Day and their two daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Bourret and Messrs. Morris and Culhoun of the Merrimack Valley Supply Co. There were about 225 people in attendance and all spent a most enjoyable day. A baseball game was played between two picked teams and a varied list of sports was carried out, there being special numbers for the women and children. At noon a bountiful dinner was served at the Wardhurst hotel on the Newburyport Turnpike and in the afternoon an automobile ride was enjoyed.

COMPENSATION FOR LOWELL WOMAN

According to a finding just handed down by the department of industrial accidents, Mrs. Albina Bernard of 49 Campaw street, widow of Evariste Bernard, who was injured some months ago in the Saco-Lowell shops and who later died, is to receive compensation in the sum of $1423.88. Mrs. Bernard appeared this morning at the office of City Solicitor Regan and executed an agreement for redemption of liability by the payment of the lump sum.

After Mr. Bernard was injured several months ago he recovered sufficiently to return to work for a short time but later he had to leave his employment and was committed to a hospital for the insane. He died a short time afterward. Mrs. Bernard has been receiving widow's aid from the city for some time. City Solicitor Regan appeared for her and for the city at the hearing which was held five months ago before Frank J. Donahue, who is a member of the industrial accident board. The finding was just handed down. Mr. Regan this morning refused a fee of $200 for his services.

UNITED TEXTILE WORKERS CONVENTION

The biennial convention of the United Textile Workers of America, which was scheduled to be held at Knoxville, Tenn., on the second Monday in September has been called off at the request of the unions of that city, who have requested the executive board of the organization to select another place for the deliberations of the convention. The reason given, it is said, is that there is a big textile strike now going on at Knoxville, and the lack of proper accommodations for the many delegates.

As a result of the request of the Knoxville unions, the officers of the United Textile Workers of America have sent letters to the members of the executive committee, requesting them to select a place for the convention and New York and Philadelphia seem to be the two leading cities for the next convention with Philadelphia in the lead. John Hanley of this city, is a member of the executive board of the national organization and he stated today that he does not believe the date of the convention will be changed.

Claim Bandits Stole "Brownie" Papers

Continued

The papers obtained, the highwaymen turned toward their car. Holmes said he and Kelley jumped out of their automobile, Kelley firing at one of the men. He struck him, he was certain.

Robbers Turned Back

The robbers turned back, knocked Kelley down, disarmed him and returned to their automobile. It was only a few moments before the highwaymen were off up the road in their automobile. The highwaymen had made no attempt to disable the agents' car and they followed them as soon as they could. For an hour they sought to pick up the trail, but lost it and returned to the scene of the holdup, they said. There search was made for Kelley's revolver, but it could not be found and Holmes said he went immediately after that to the Haverhill police station.

Presented Credentials

To Captain M. A. Sullivan he presented credentials as special agents of the attorney, said he was carrying a deposition by "Brownie" Kennedy that had been taken from him, related the story of the holdup and asked for assistance in running down the robbers. Captain Sullivan said he communicated at once with the attorney general who confirmed the fact that Holmes was in his service, and a search was begun. It developed no trace of the fugitives although extended to Lawrence on one side and over a wide territory on the other. Police and hospital authorities in many places were notified to be on the lookout for a party such as Holmes and Kelley described, including a man probably wounded in the groin.

Sought Deposition

The Mishawum Manor case, in connection which the attorney general has sought a deposition from "Brownie" Kennedy, has been a center of popular interest and of judicial consideration in the charges on which District Attorney Tufts removed it, concerns a party at Mishawum Manor, a Woburn roadhouse, of which "Brownie" was the head, in March, 1917, attended by Hiram Abrams, Adolph Zukor, Jesse Lasky and others prominent in the motion picture world. Complaints were made of the actions of the men and women present. The attorney general alleges that District Attorney Tufts entered into a conspiracy with certain attorneys and others by which, under threat of prosecution $105,000 was extorted from the motion picture magnates. A deposition by Abrams was presented last week to show that he paid approximately that amount in several installments.

The whereabouts of "Brownie" Kennedy has been understood to be in doubt for several months. She has been variously reported in Oklahoma, at New York, bound for Europe, and at an unnamed place near this city.

She was formerly a resident in cities and towns in eastern Massachusetts, but almost invariably those who knew her in other years have said they understood she was maintaining none of her former New England connections.

Police Investigate

The police of Haverhill and Lawrence were engaged in an investigation of the affair today. They were unable to find any clue to the highwaymen's automobile described by Holmes and Kelley, examination of the place where they said the holdup occurred developing no marks to assist in running the car down.

Officials of both cities said they were investigating various details of the accounts given by the men. Capt. I. D. Hovey of the local police said that the inquiry of that department had developed nothing to substantiate the story.

No Statement By Allen

BOSTON, July 22.—Attorney General Allen today characterized as not of importance the incident reported to involve robbery of a deposition by "Brownie" Kennedy. The attorney general who was preparing to continue presentation of this charge of irregularity against District Attorney Tufts before the supreme court, said: "I have no statement to make on the matter because I have no information on it other than from the press. But so far as the present case is concerned, I think the matter is not one of importance." At the attorney's office, it was said that Holmes had offered his services to Mr. Allen several weeks ago, saying he could get important information on a certain phase of the Tufts case. This phase was said to involve "Brownie" Kennedy. His offer was accepted, and the attorney general has received reports from him from time to time. Beyond this information, no one at the state house would discuss the matter today.

COTTON IN DANGER

(By Newspaper Enterprise)
MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 22.—Hot, dry weather this month and August is necessary to save the south's cotton crop. This is the consensus of opinion among the agricultural extension forces of the cotton belt.
The boll weevil is damaging thousands of acres. Agricultural experts of the Mississippi delta predict destruction of the crop in many sections if damp, cool weather should develop in the next two months.

The weevil multiplies rapidly and spreads over vast territory in cool, damp weather. Hot, dry weather retards the weevil's progress and destroys the young.

The weevil is now worse than ever before in history, says Dr. E. R. Lloyd, director of the Memphis Farm Bureau, who has just completed a tour of the cotton belt.

Dr. Lloyd found the cotton crop from three to five weeks late in some localities.

by the farmers and fall seed crops planted.

These farmers have been advised to take such action by the agricultural extension forces of the various states, due to the small stand of cotton.

Southern farm life today is far different from one year ago. Last year cotton prices were good, but many farmers held their crops for higher prices. Today farmers shelter hundreds of bales that last year would have brought 30 to 35 cents a pound, but today could not be sold for 15 cents.

This year's cotton crop will be the cheapest raised in history. The country schools were closed early so the children might enter the fields. There is plenty of labor at $1 per day, compared with $3 per day last year.

HELD FOR GRAND JURY IN STOCK CASE

LAWRENCE, July 22.—Fred Fontaine has been held in $500 bonds for the grand jury by Judge J. J. Mahoney in the district court. He is charged with obtaining money under false pretenses. It is alleged he sold shares of stock in the Lynnway Aircraft Transportation company by misrepresenting the assets of the company, and also in Merrimack Park.

He said that he never misrepresented the value of the stock he was selling. He admitted that the company did not own as many machines as he told investors, but said that the company intended to purchase the machines, and so he believed he was within his rights in saying that they were numbered among the company's investments. Fontaine is an officer in the company.

He admitted that he had no connection with Merrimack Park, but said his company was thinking of getting control of it, so he thought he was justified in saying that it had control.

CALLS FOR RETURN TO PRE-WAR RATES

CONCORD, N. H., July 22.—The annual convention of the New Hampshire Federation of Labor closed yesterday afternoon with the re-election of John L. Barry of Manchester as president. Walter H. Melrose of Portsmouth won out in the only contest of the day, that for first vice-president.

Mrs. Helen A. Knight of Manchester, the only woman delegate, who was chosen fourth vice-president, was presented by the convention with a wrist watch.

The paper mill strikers at Berlin and Franklin were voted $100 each from the state treasury of the association and their cause was supported in resolutions adopted.

Resolutions were adopted requesting the public service commission to revoke all rate increases granted to street railways, electric and gas utilities during the war, urging congress to modify the Volstead act so that beer and light wines may be dispensed and pledging support to union made goods.

CITY FATHERS AND SCRIBES ON OUTING

Members of the municipal council and the local newspapermen who "cover" city hall enjoyed an outing today at Rye Point, N. H. The scribes and councilmen left city hall shortly after 9:30 in a group of machines and the trip over the road was most delightful. At noon one of the famous Rye lobster dinners was enjoyed and later in the day the pleaders went in bathing at one of the nearby beaches.

COMPANY G OUTING

About 50 members of Company G, State Guard Veterans association, attended the outing which was held at the Martin Luther grounds in Tyngsboro yesterday afternoon and evening and all enjoyed the affair immensely. Upon reaching the grounds the excursionists were served a substantial dinner and the meal was followed by a variety program of sports. At 6:30 o'clock a clam bake was served, and later entertainment numbers were given on the club veranda by Priv. Albert L. Mertrude and Corp. Alvah Sturgess. The festivities were presided over by Capt. Royal P. White. The committee in charge consisted of Lieutenants Edward W. Daley, Stevens and Sergt. W. N. Goodell.

The store is located near the city line, was the means of entry used, Mr. Staveland states that he has informed the police of the affair, and that it is in their hands.

der of Dist. Atty. A. Tufts, communicated by Capt. Herbert Gordon, according to testimony given in the proceedings yesterday by Chief of Police George E. Kerr of Melrose.

Gordon informed the witness that the men were going to surrender, he testified, and later he learned from Deputy Dist. Atty. Frederick Fosdick, now judge of the superior court, that Mr. Tufts had taken the cases out of his hands.

"I kept asking Mr. Fosdick about Perry and Barry surrendering," the witness related, "and he told me he hadn't heard anything, and I better return the warrants."

Not Serving

"Was any reason ever assigned for not serving them?" inquired Atty. Gen. J. Weston Allen, who conducted the examination.

"I think once Mr. Tufts told me he was going to make them restitution and he named one Geo. Gray in Maine and Joseph Gibbons in Melrose, to whom Collamore (Daniel K. Collamore, also indicted) had sold a car."

The testimony on Mr. Allen's charge that Mr. Tufts had failed to apprehend and arraign defendants secretly indicted, although they were in his jurisdiction.

Frivolous Conversation

A fruitless conversation with Mr.

Tufts in an attempt to induce him to prosecute the "Perry-Barry auto ring" during which the district attorney declared that the evidence against them was that of "accomplices and stool pigeons," whom he did not believe, was repeated by Attorney Ralph C. Mulligan of Natick, son of Judge Mulligan.

Mr. Mulligan had gone to the district attorney in behalf of his client, Frank B. Robinson of Natick, who had purchased five cars that later proved to have been stolen. He told Mr. Tufts that he wanted Perry and Barry sent to state prison, and that the police had traced 200 stolen cars to this gang.

Corcoran Had Promised

Tufts replied, he said, that William J. Corcoran, former district attorney and counsel in the case, had promised him that the men would quit, and that he regarded it his duty as much to prevent crime as to punish offenders.

"If there is any evidence that they are still at it I might take a different view," Tufts was quoted as saying.

Mr. Mulligan then replied with reference to "ugly rumors" that the defendants had hired Mr. Corcoran to represent them in Middlesex county and Daniel H. Coakley in Suffolk county and had "rather boasted of immunity."

Mr. Tufts answer was repeated carefully by the witness:

"He said he had been in politics many years and a district attorney always has to take some libelous slander, that eight out of 10 lawyers tell their clients they have to divide with him or someone in order to justify their exorbitant fees. If people think we're grafters, do they think we'd bother with such pickers as these?" he said.

He stated that Harris offered Corcoran $50,000 to keep him out of prison, but it did him no good, that they were going to get him, and when Harris with his money and influence was put away it would be an effective answer to the people who talk about fixing the district attorney and a salutary lesson to those automobile thieves.

Mention of Harris

The mention of "Harris" was understood to refer to the case of Samuel C. Harris, wealthy Boston horse dealer, who in 1919 was convicted of automobile theft conspiracy and served eight months of a three-year term in the house of correction after which he was pardoned.

"It is true, is it not, that your client received a certain sum in restitution?" asked Melvin M. Johnson in cross-examination.

"Yes, from you, Mr. Johnson," smiled the witness.

"And I paid that as the representative of George T. Perry?" pursued Mr. Johnson, returning the grin. "And long before I became counsel for Mr. Tufts?"

"You did. But it was so infinitesimal that it was hardly restitution," Mr. Mulligan added.

Perry's Representative

Almost of equal interest to the spectators crowded in the courtroom was the confession of one Joseph Levine that he had been hired to bring about the burning of houses in Newton by Joseph Rudnik, wealthy Boston real estate operator. The confession was introduced by Mr. Allen as a sample of the evidence in possession of Mr. Tufts in the so-called Newton arson cases, which Tufts is charged with failing to prosecute "from improper motives."

One of Several Cases

In one of several cases Joseph Rudnik, Carl Rudnik, Atty. Chas. Welsberg and Benjamin D. Solomon were charged with conspiracy to burn a dwelling on Feb. 16, 1917, and Levine with being accessory; and in another all but Welsberg were charged with conspiracy to steal from creditors from May to November, 1916.

Levine's confession, which his lawyer, James S. Cannon, gave to Mr. Tufts when Levine turned state's evidence, set forth in brief:

A curious juggling of funds in the purchase of Newton property in Levine's name, in which he claims to have been the "straw" man.

A charge of manipulation in the building of a house by Carl and Joe Rudnik with the purpose "after they got into the creditors sufficiently to wipe them out by foreclosure."

A declaration that Joseph Rudnik told him to go out and get someone to burn down a building and later paid him money for the job.

Welsberg's Statement

Welsberg's statement that he set the fire and was paid some $50 for it was also introduced in evidence and Welsberg himself assented to it upon the witness stand.

Mr. Cannon, the attorney, later admitted that Mr. Tufts had demurred on the question of prosecution because the Rudniks and Solomon were "men of property and force" in the community; that the only evidence against them was that of Levine, a confessed conspirator, and Welsberg, a jailbird, and he was afraid "Tom" Proctor, the lawyer, would shoot his case full of holes.

Capt. Patrick J. Hurley of the Cambridge police was called again by Allen in an effort to show that Tufts had not acted properly in the case of William J. Downey, who was found guilty in the lower court of attempted robbery from the Charles River Trust company.

Mr. Johnson, for Tufts, introduced a letter to Chief McBride of the Cambridge police asking him to use every effort to apprehend Downey, who had defaulted his bail.

BANISHING THE CLASSICS

It is surprising to find some college professors advocating a departure from the policy of making the classics the fundamental branches in college courses. The men who take this stand must have had little acquaintance with the classics, or else they have become helpless and hopeless devotees of the utilitarian in education.

The advocates of extreme modernity in education scout the value of classical studies for intellectual development. In that they are in error. In the classic literature of Greece and Rome, there are models of excellence that have rarely been equaled by the moderns who have had these precious masterpieces as an inspiration to go higher. Yet it is a fact that Homer, Virgil, Horace and Xenophon are recognized models in poetry, while other great writers such as Cicero, Pliny, Aeschylus, Sophocles, Euripides, Herodotus, Aristophanes, Thucydides, Theocritus and Plutarch were all authors whose works are in many respects unexcelled and but rarely equaled by modern writers.

The oratory of Demosthenes and Cicero reverberates across the ages and even today the highest compliment that can be paid to any modern orator is to compare him to one or other of the two great masters of classic eloquence.

Daniel Webster and Wendell Phillips were probably our two best orators; but Edmund Burke and Henry Grattan were their equals in all that makes the orator of power and yet Wendell Phillips classed Daniel O'Connell above any of our American orators of the abolition period. Other nations, of course, produced great orators; but the fact remains, that in matter none has surpassed the orators of antiquity, while in delivery the ancients in all probability excelled.

The eminence of classic authors of ancient times, shows that the human intellect has not progressed to any great extent since then, in art or literature.

The ancients, however, were very backward in scientific knowledge. Imagine an aqueduct built over any modern city to convey a water supply. The ancients did not then realize that water finds its own level. It is true that Archimedes gave us the lever and the screw and that Euclid advanced the science of geometry to a degree not much improved upon today; but, nevertheless, all the scientific discoveries of the ancients would not make a corollary to the discoveries of modern scientists and mathematicians. The advance made in astronomy, in the physical sciences and the application of modern discoveries in practical inventions have so far eclipsed the works of the ancients that there can be no comparison.

But our superiority in scientific lore should not induce us to disparage what the classics can teach us in the fields of literature. To put aside the classics would be to close the door against one of our greatest sources of intellectual culture. To encourage any such movement in the great universities shows a downward tendency in education and a deplorable weakness in pandering to the demands of people who have no conception of the intellectual benefits derived from classical studies.

RECKLESS DRIVERS

Here is an item that should receive attention throughout the state as indicating a tendency in the right direction in dealing with reckless drivers of automobiles:

Worcester, July 20.—Norman L. Jackson, Chandler street, Worcester, was fined $700 in Clinton district court by Judge Jonathan Smith on the charge of recklessness operating his automobile. An appeal was taken and bail in $1,000 furnished. The alleged offense took place in Boylston, June 26, when Barbara, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Knight of Boylston, was killed.

Many accidents of a similar kind have occurred in Lowell; but in no case have we heard of any such fine as this. In most cases, the reckless driver is acquitted of the charge of driving at such a degree of recklessness as would justify his indictment on the charge of manslaughter. But if the degree of recklessness were sufficient to cause the death of a person legally using the highways, it is difficult to see the justice of finding that there is no criminal liability except for violating the speed law. Of course if there has been contributory negligence on the part of the person killed, then the driver cannot be held entirely responsible. But if, while driving at thirty miles an hour, the speed limit is fifteen, an autoist accidentally kills a person on the highway, the question arises, is the driver responsible for the death of that person? That is a question on which there seems to be a difference of opinion; and it would be well for Registrar Goodwin to have it decided by the highest authorities. If the killing of one person by an autoist driving in violation of the law, does not sustain a charge of manslaughter, how many persons would he have to kill while operating at the same rate of speed before he would have reached the degree of reckless and wanton disregard of the public safety that under the present application of the law would hold him liable for manslaughter?

PRICE OF COAL

About this time of year every household is interested in the price of coal. Those who want information upon this subject should read the articles now running in "The Sun," written by E. Robert Stevenson of Waterbury, Conn., who was commissioned to investigate the coal question by the New England Newspaper Alliance, of which "The Sun" is a member. Mr. Stevenson went to the coal mines in different states and then to Washington and other points from which the most reliable information could be obtained upon the production of bituminous and anthracite coal, the cost of production, the cost of transportation to different points in New England, the cost of coal at the mines and the cost on delivery in the city of Worcester, which may be taken as the central point of New England.

Mr. Stevenson has already shown that there can be no real ground for expecting any sudden reduction in the

The Lowell young woman who received the poll tax bill is going to have it framed.

The women want to vote, but they don't like the idea of digging down in their long silk purse for a five spot to cover a poll tax bill. Equal rights—minus poll tax!

Telltale Patter
In a western town they tell a story of a woman newly come to town, who on one occasion while visiting in the house of a friend, gazed long and thoughtfully at a plaster cast of Shakespeare. Then she sighed and remarked: "Poor man! How pale he looked! He couldn't have been well when that was taken." "He wasn't," agreed the polite hostess. "He was dead." "O," continued the woman, drawing a sympathetic breath. "What accounts for it?"—Washington Post.

The Smiths Have It
They are the most prominent American family. More than 150,000 of them—five army divisions—fought for America in the war, according to recently announced statistics. They are in congress. They may be found in nearly every state legislature and on every police force. Other families might leave this city in a body and their departure would scarcely be noticed, but suppose all the Smiths left! The Smiths are the only family sufficient unto itself, for were they to separate themselves from the rest of the community they could get along very well, with their laborers, merchants, doctors, lawyers, preachers and teachers. You've gotta hand it to 'em.

Not Even a Drink
Two stenographers went out walking the other night with a very parsimonious young lawyer. Now they had given him many informal dinners and supposed that he intended to do something fine to show his appreciation for their favors. But he economically walked them around one block after another and finally, after almost two hours' walking started them home. Then the most independent one could stand it no longer. "Carlin," she said, solemnly, "don't you suppose we're going to even have a drink this evening?" Coolly the young man replied: "Why, certainly you are. There's where I'm taking you now—round past my mother's home. She has a well of the best water in the state."—Indianapolis News.

Railroad Was Neater
A young man was spending an early vacation in the country, walking about the country lanes in an endeavor to hide from himself all the town life or anything which reminded him of town life. Chancing across a country postman, he stopped him and asked what time it was. Pulling out his watch, the postman deliberately replied: "It's 1 o'clock in the afternoon by the railway time." "By railway time?" ejaculated the young man. "I should say that you country folk, living in the open air, in the heart of the country as you do, would take your time from the sun." "What for?" asked the rural postman. "Beant we much closer to the railway—even if it be 12 miles—than we be to the sun?"

Just False Alarm
"Hiram!" whispered Mrs. Hiram Bonehead loudly, as she stood over her husband and shook him forcibly by the shoulders.
"Hiram!" she bawled in his capacious ear. "I hear noises—somebody's stealing the chickens! Get up!"
When the full meaning of his wife's words reached his brain 10 minutes later he arose slowly and said "Heck!" Then he crawled into his ample trousers and dragged himself sleepily to the door, picked up the railroad signal lantern they used for a night light in the hall, and went downstairs. He stood out in the moonlight and listened.
"The idea of making a feller get up out uv bed just to see who's snooping around," grumbled Hiram.
Deciding that his wife expected him to do something, Hiram Bonehead straightened up.
"Who's there?" he bawled out, with his hand behind his ear in a listening attitude.
"Dere ain't nobody here 'cep'in' us chickens," called back a voice from the coop.
Satisfied that all was well, Hiram Bonehead went back to bed again.—Detroit Free Press.

The Band Concert
In the dusk of summer evening, After breathless, sultry day, When the lights begin to twinkle In the village great while way; Then the "square" is filled with people Pacing gaily to and fro, And around the sides are parking Automobiles in a row.
Underneath two elms outspreading Like a canopy of green, On an elevated platform Men in uniform are seen; And the leader, raising baton In a quick, commanding way, Brings a sudden burst of music As the band begins to play.
Babes in carriages are yelling, They prefer to be at home, And despite perambulating Children of assorted sizes Race in everybody's way, Starting up an awful racket When the band begins to play.
Piercy matrons stop to visit, Through selecting soft and low, And in loudly carrying voices Call each other all they know, Carelessly are hankering That they want the new way Where humanity is thickest When the band begins to play.
Finally, at strains familiar, With a sort of sheepish air, Your New Englander would rather Fight than his emotions bare, To be a riser, heads uncovered, To the grand "Star Spangled Banner" That the land begins to play.—GEORGIA WHITE, in Springfield (Vt.) Reporter.

Troubles Gone and Hard Work Seems Easy, He Feels So Fine, Says Munsell

"Even before I opened my second bottle of Tanlac I was feeling better, and now I'm just like a brand new man," said Henry T. Munsell, residing at 35 Reed st., Springfield, Mass.
"About a year ago I began to feel so run down I seemed to have no life in me. I went to work in a half-hearted way, and it looked like the days would never end. My stomach was out of order, and often I got so dizzy I couldn't stand up. My appetite was so poor it took but very little for me to eat, and I suffered quite a lot from indigestion. My sleep seemed to do me no good, and mornings I felt so weak I could hardly walk to my work. Then, too, I was suffering from acid rheumatism, which had tortured me on and on for 20 years.
"Some of my friends got after me to try Tanlac, so I got a bottle, and it helped me so much I got another, and then another and kept on taking it until now I am eating just fine, and that heavy, draggy feeling has disappeared entirely. My rheumatism is almost gone, too, and I can do the hardest kind of a day's work without being tired out. Tanlac is the greatest medicine I ever heard of."
Tanlac is sold in Lowell by Green's drug store under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative, by Wright Drug Co., 111 Essex st., Lowell, Mass.; D. Falls, Chelmsford, Mass.; J. H. Pharmacy, Concord, Mass., and by the leading druggists in every town.—Adv.

HIBERNIANS SEND PLEDGE TO DE VALERA

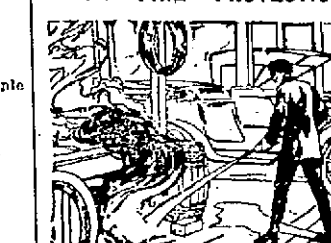

DETROIT, July 22.—A pledge of support for Eamon de Valera and the other leaders in the movement for Irish independence was given by the Ancient Order of Hibernians, in convention yesterday afternoon.

The following message, signed by James E. Deery of Indianapolis, president of the order, was sent De Valera: "The Ancient Order of Hibernians of America, in convention assembled at Detroit, Mich., greet you, and through you, the Dal Eireann, and congratulate you on your honest, fearless and successful leadership, and pledge you unlimited support in your honorable efforts for the recognition of the Irish republic."
All the present officers of the organization were nominated for second terms without opposition yesterday. Besides Mr. Deery, they are Richard Dwyer of Boston and T. J. Keane of Montreal, vice presidents; John O'Dea, Philadelphia, secretary; John Sheehy, Montgomery, Minn., treasurer; Rt. Rev. Michael J. Gallagher, Detroit, chaplain.
Michael J. Slattery of Washington, a representative of the National Catholic Welfare council, in an address, declared the greatest problems faced by the council are Americanization and educational work.

PROTECTIVE TARIFF BILL PASSES HOUSE

WASHINGTON, July 22.—The republican protective tariff bill, estimated by Chairman Fordney to raise around $500,000,000 in revenue annually, was passed last night by the house by a vote of 283 to 127—precisely the vote by which a democratic motion for elimination of its American valuation provision was defeated.
Seven republicans voted against the measure, while the same number of democrats supported it.
Oil, hides, cotton and asphalt stood up against a determined fight to tax them and remained on the free list.
The Longworth dye embargo, first of the five contested schedules to go before the house proper for a separate vote, and backed by most of the republican members of the ways and means committee, was thrown out, 203 to 193.

WHAT IS YOUR FIRE PROTECTION?

Do not consider insurance a physical fire protection. It is but a financial reparation for loss and in no way prevents the danger, inconvenience and destruction caused by conflagration.
Our fire extinguishers do not attempt to take the place of a trained fire department, but are perfected in effectually and instantly extinguish any kind of incipient blaze. They are especially designed to fight fires of oil, gasoline, chemicals or electric arcs. Fires of this type cannot be drenched out—they must be smothered in their incipient stages. Water and other fluids conduct electricity and spread blazing chemicals.
All extinguishers sold at Coburn's are approved by the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

Wants Addresses of Handwriting Experts

CHICAGO, July 22.—A letter from Emma R. Burkett, of Illinois, who asserted that Theodore Roosevelt had refused to pay a $69,000 obligation to her, was received today by a detective bureau here. She asks the address of three Chicago handwriting experts who, she asserts, will prove that the signature of the paper she holds is really that of the late president. The letter is from the Tombs in New York, where Mrs. Burkett was imprisoned following complaint of the executors of the Roosevelt estate that her claim was fraudulent.

NORFOLK, Va., July 22.—With the former German dreadnaught Ostfriesland at the bottom of the Atlantic as the result of one-ton aerial bombs exploding alongside of her, naval experts of this and other countries will turn their attention to the problem of protecting the capital ship from this form of attack.

The construction of a hull which could weather explosions alongside of such force was regarded as practically impossible. Some naval officers made an effort to disguise their surprise that the Ostfriesland fell victim to an aerial attack. Others, however, had said that if large bombs landed close by the ship the hull would give way. They pointed out that the one-ton bombs contained 350 pounds of TNT, as against 230 pounds in a "torpedo" and 300 pounds in the larger mines.

MAY BRING SUIT AGAINST DAIRY FARM

Suit may be instituted against a Dairy farm of this section, as the result of a case in the police court this morning in which Frank Trull, a well known local milk dealer, was fined $10 after state officers found a sample of his milk below standard. Judge Enright, in imposing the fine, declared that he could not see how Trull was culpable, as he apparently purchased the milk in good faith from a farm, paying the regular price for it. Trull argued in his defense that he was in no way responsible, as he was paying for legal milk and naturally expected to secure the genuine article. It was suggested by the court that it might be possible to bring civil proceedings against the party purveying the inferior milk to him, and Mr. Trull announced at the close of the court session that he intended to consult with his attorney, and contemplated seeking damages. The state official who brought the complaint agreed that the violation was a technical one, but urged upon the court that the law as it stands makes liable anyone who sells milk below standard, whatever their moral responsibility may be. The law penalizes not only the actual producer, but the middleman, and likewise the retail storekeeper on whose premises it is found exposed for sale milk which does not bear the test of analysis for the proper amount of nutritive and other ingredients.

and duplication in bidding, was said to run into millions. Acute Housing Shortage An acute national shortage of housing exists, the report stated, because of prohibitive construction costs to householder and banker. Many union rules were condemned as "absolutely wrong" and both employers and employees were blamed for restriction of output. The report deplored the irregularity of employment for building trade workmen, declaring that they were busy only on an average of about 150 days in a year. It recommended the following means of reducing seasonal unemployment: "Allowances of a small margin of profits for both labor and capital during winter months, development of methods of conducting the work in

NEW YORK, July 22.—Financial circles estimated today that the expenses of railroads throughout the United States would be reduced shortly $5,000,000 a year by a 10 per cent reduction in salaries of executive and supervisory officers. Five large systems already have announced such a reduction and others are expected to follow suit. The salary total of railroad presidents is estimated at $6,000,000; six executives in New York alone receiving $50,000 or more a year. The amount paid to general officers during 1920 was approximately $25,000,000 and that paid to other officers was the same.

Fear Baby Boy May Become Communist

BERLIN, July 22.—Fearing that he might become a communist because he was born in Vienna, the police of Munich have refused to permit a chubby little baby boy, 10 weeks old to enter Germany. The little fellow was adopted by a childless couple, residents of Munich, after they had searched for several months in Berlin and many other cities of continental Europe for a baby that fulfilled their requirements. Arriving at Munich with their new found treasure, the couple were told that the police regarded him as a "dangerous and burdensome foreigner, who in 20 years might become another Kurt Eisner."

AMUSEMENT NOTES

(By Theatres' Own Press Agents.)
MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
"The Road of Ambition" is the aptly descriptive title of Conway Tearle's new production now playing at the Merrimack Square theatre. The story, which is from the pen of Elaine Sterne, one of the most prolific writers of screen material, deals with the career of a young man who, although without plays, money or education, is inspired by the unquenchable fires of ambition. How he makes good is the plot of a most absorbing production. "The Call From the Wild," the other big feature production of the current program, tells in a most entertaining manner the simple story of life among the common folk who dwell in the Sierra Nevada Mountains. A comedy and the International News complete the bill.

THE STRAND

"Dynamite Allen," starring George Walsh, will be shown as the leader at The Strand today, in connection with the regular program. It has all of the vigor and action of a Walsh screen offering, plus some new and novel stunts. Don't miss it. Then Sydney Walton, dainty and clever, is sure to win new friends in "Desperate Youth," a picture play of the real worthwhile type. The rest of the bill is rounded out with a good comedy and weekly. It's "cool and comfortable" at all times and there are 100 seats sold at all performances at 10 cents each.

CHANGES IN TITLES

After John M. Stahl produced "The Child Thou Gavest Me," it was announced that the title had been changed to "Retribution." Now the title reverts to the original of Perry Venkoff's story.

This may be an indication that distributors at last concede that the public which sees photoplays also reads stories in print and that the name of the printed story has some value for exploitation purposes.

The name of "Du Barry" was changed to "Passion" and the distributors believe the latter title increased box office returns. That may be. And it may not be.

One class of people, those who wanted thrills and sensationalism, composed movie audiences at one time. This writer believes that at present the great bulk of movie-goers is composed of people who read history, classics, best sellers and the newspapers. They are entertained most when this type of entertainment is given them on the screen.

If "Du Barry" had been shown under that title it would have attracted some people who were repulsed by the title "Passion." The same holds good for "Deception" and other titles which do not enhance the value of the picture.

Producers and exhibitors may someday realize that the public wants worth in pictured story and that blicking the public by false titles damages his business.

LORD NELSON IN CELLULOID

Although some German producers are turning to German heroes for historical films, Ernest Lubitsch, who directed films depicting French and English history which showed in this country under meaningless titles, is taking up another English subject. This time the life of Lord Nelson is to be done in celluloid. Reinhold Schunzel will portray Admiral Nelson while Malvina Longfellow will be Lady Hamilton.

Elsie Ferguson isn't superstitious. She smashes a mirror in "Footlights."

Nac Murray has about completed her first independent production, "Peacock Alley."

WASHING IS HER HOBBY

MRS. THOMAS, SNAPPED AS SHE CALLED FOR WASHING

By NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE
SAN FRANCISCO, July 22—A move from a place where household help was easy to get—
A washing machine sent out by her husband—
A word from a minister—
And Mrs. B. F. Thomas found her pet charity here.
But Mrs. Thomas told you about it.

"Soon after moving to San Francisco from Mississippi I found that there was no cheap reliable help to lighten the burdens of our household," says she, "so my husband sent out a washing and ironing machine."
"I discovered then that washing was really fun. My machine saved so much time that soon I was looking for new fields to conquer.

"Our minister happened to mention, one day, that a member of the congregation had two children ill with pneumonia. So I drove out to see if there was anything I could do. I found the poor little mother bending over steaming tubs valiantly trying to find a washing for five people and care for two sick children."

"I knew where I could help! I piled the washing in the back of the car and took it home. The next day I returned it washed and ironed. Her thanks was all the pay I needed."
"So now," says Mrs. Thomas, "I always keep in touch with some family I can help in that way."

(Special to The Sun)

BOSTON, July 22.—Motorists' this week end and the coming week will find several changes in the roads of Massachusetts caused by new projects started under the direction of John N. Cole, commissioner of public works, or by completion of changes that have been for some time under way.

North shore motorists will find that work has commenced on Atlantic avenue, Marblehead and Swampscott. Part of the way under repair will be closed but part will be kept constantly open so that those persons who have to get to homes in the vicinity will find a minimum of inconvenience.

At Beverly Farms, widening of the road at Marshall corner and the Beverly Farms station for some 1000 feet has started. There is a short detour. The Newburyport Turnpike is open to South Lynnfield and Infant the entire distance with the exception of one long detour. The excellent condition of the turnpike has brought joy to the many motorists who use it.

Work has been resumed on the Lake Walden pond road in Concord. In Lincoln one mile of highway is being attended to but traffic has not been interfered with.

The state has let out a contract for road and bridge work in Barre and Oakham and also let out a contract for five miles of road work from Templeton to Winchendon. New road work will also be done in Westfield and Brookfield. The Mount Holyoke road is not open to travel.

Work on bridges has started in Lakesboro, New Ashford and Williamstown. Because of construction of these bridges, traffic should not take this route when going to Williamstown and Bennington.

HOYT.

FINAL INSTRUCTIONS FOR ENCAMPMENT

Final instructions for the annual encampment of the O.M.I. Cadets, which is to be held next week at the Cheney-Alford hospital.

Rev. Sister St. Theresa du Croix of the order of Jesus Mary, of Canada, formerly Miss Eva Leclair of this city, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Oliver Desautels of 14 West Bowers street.

E. S. Desmarais, proprietor of Del's Garage and a former master plumber, is today attending the annual outing of the Lawrence master plumbers, which is being held at the Merrimack Valley Country club in Haverhill.

The excellent work done here by Miss Mary Urbanek among the Polish speaking people of the city, since last September, was made possible largely through the co-operation and financial backing of the chamber of commerce. It developed today. Although Miss Urbanek was employed by the North American Civic League for Immigrants, her salary and the expenses of her work while she was here was paid from a chamber of commerce appropriation. It was stated by officials of the chamber today. The chamber also provided Miss Urbanek with an office.

CARD OF THANKS
I, the undersigned, wish to thank all my relatives and friends who by their many acts of kindness, words of consolation, spiritual and floral offerings helped to lighten my burden of sorrow in my recent bereavement. The death of my beloved husband, Geo. A. Frenette.

MRS. GEORGE A. FRETTE.

you," which de Valera acknowledged by smiling and waving his hand.

Interest Transferred

The centre of interest in Irish affairs was transferred to Dublin today, with the departure of Eamonn de Valera and his cabinet for the seat of their government.

The Irish leader is taking with him a document he received yesterday from the hands of David Lloyd George, the British premier, setting forth definite proposals by the British government as a settlement of the Irish problem.

These proposals will be submitted to members of the Dail Eireann as well as other prominent Irish republicans and Mr. Lloyd George will hear from time to time how the discussions are proceeding. Later Mr. de Valera will return to London for further conversations, and Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier, may re-enter the negotiations at this time.

Truce to Continue

It is authoritatively stated that the truce in Ireland will continue for an indefinite period, thus convincing the most skeptical that the factions are still far from discouraged.

London newspapers this morning take an exceedingly cheerful view of the entire situation, refusing even to anticipate the probability of a breakdown.

Just how much the hostility of the Ulsterite members of the house of commons affect the government is not apparent. The Times says it is not to be underestimated, and adds "certainly the relief and satisfaction which would be produced by a settlement along any lines would sweep the opposition aside and give the government overwhelming authority to conclude the arrangements."

"Not Their Last"

DUBLIN, July 22 (by The Associated Press).—Belief that the conversations between Eamonn de Valera and Premier Lloyd George will be resumed is expressed by the Freeman's Journal in its comment on the peace negotiations today. The interview between the two men in London yesterday was evidently not their last, the newspaper says.

"One thing, at any rate, seems certain," it continues, "there can be no return to the monstrous, unholy conditions to which Ireland had been subjected before the truce, by the British government."

The Irish Times considers that the public will derive satisfaction from the fact that the proposals submitted emanated from the coalition cabinet, which Mr. de Valera did not feel justified in immediately turning down.

"This indicates," adds the newspaper, "a great advance, which we trust will not be countered by the gathering forces of reaction during these unfortunate, if necessary periods of delay."

Typical Ulster View

BELFAST, July 22.—What may be considered a typical Ulster view of the Irish situation is given today by the Belfast News Letter.

"We are convinced," it says, "that until the government presents a definite, final decision, that admits of no higgling, to the Sinn Fein leaders they will continue to persist in demanding the impossible, even with threats, as already are being indulged in over the possibility of the negotiations being broken off. They cannot be blamed for this unyielding attitude for the fault for this lies in the government's own undetermined, feeble action."

The Northern Whig expresses the opinion that if Mr. de Valera returns to London to inform Lloyd George that he has brought a basis for negotiations or is anxious to resume the search for one, an anxious time for the northern loyalists will ensue.

ASKS COMMITTEE FOR AN EXPLANATION TO BE ASKED FOR

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Major Bruce R. Campbell, accused by Mrs. Emma C. Bedford of having accepted $5000 to aid her slacker son to escape, appeared before the house investigating committee today and asked for a preliminary executive session.

In denying the charges and declaring that he desired the fullest publicity, Major Campbell said he wanted first to present names of witnesses he wished called but did not want printed at this time.

"I came here just as soon as I could," the major said, "and it was a frightful misfortune that I was not here when the charges against me were presented."

The committee ordered the room cleared.

SAYS FRANCE WILL BE HELD RESPONSIBLE

BERLIN, July 22.—France will be responsible if a Polish insurrection breaks out in Upper Silesia, declares Minister of the Interior Grauninger in a statement published by the Tageblatt today.

"Only a speedy decision regarding Upper Silesia can avert a great disaster," the minister says. "The situation in Upper Silesia is critical. A Polish insurrection can only break out if France desires it and brings it about."

"It is hard to believe that Paris seriously credits Germany with menacing schemes. In reality, so far as the symptoms complained of in the French note are concerned, it is a matter of the German population of Upper Silesia, desiring to be no longer defenseless in the event of further Polish attacks."

"When a decision is made on the Upper Silesian question, the Polishwehr will have to be on the spot to replace the retiring allied troops in order to cope with any Polish plans for violence."

B. He had been extradited to Canada after serving time as a result of his conviction in the federal court at Boston.

PHILADELPHIA, July 22.—The master of the small British schooner Pocomoke, which came into Atlantic City Wednesday in distress and without her cargo of 1000 cases of intoxicating liquors, will have some explaining to do to the British authorities in this jurisdiction, according to Charles R. Kurtz, surveyor of the port.

"There is no question the Pocomoke is the mysterious vessel reported off the Jersey coast," Mr. Kurtz said today. "All the vessel's papers were taken by Navigation Inspector Mastellar, who boarded the Pocomoke at Atlantic City and turned them over to the British consul for inquiry."

Mr. Kurtz said the Pocomoke came into Atlantic City under distress signals. Captain Roy said his crew was discharged and transferred to another vessel at sea, which is said to be a violation of maritime law.

"While we cannot do anything about what he did with his cargo outside the three mile limit, the British government can certainly make him give a more definite explanation of the actions of the Pocomoke at sea," said Mr. Kurtz.

Beginning this week and until further notice the plant of the Hamilton Mfg. Co. will operate but three days a week. This mill was on short time for several months, but a month or two ago full-time operations were resumed. Lack of orders is given as the reason for the curtailment.
